$1,200,000 "BAD" PAPER IN LORIMER-MUNDAY BANKS

CROWDS FIGHT AND WEEP AT BANKS' DOORS

Mob Fills La Salle Street Before News Spreads to Others.

CITY'S CHECK NO GOOD

Police Needed at the Ashland-Twelfth Street Institution.

City Treasurer M. J. Flynn and his attorney Colin C. H. Fyffe were the first customers to call on William Lorimer's La Salle Street bank, yesterday.

At 8:30 o'clock in the morning they served notice that they would attempt to cash checks for $650,000, the amount of money the city had been induced to deposit with that institution. They were told the checks could not be cashed. The bank could only default.

On week days the banks open at 10 o'clock. Mr. Flynn with his twelve checks was standing in line when ten o'clock struck. But the paying teller's window never opened. The state bank examiner had taken possession.

The three outlying small banks followed one after the other. The scenes attending the closings were vivid.

The Mob in La Salle Street.

During several hours yesterday La Salle and Quincy streets, with the closed La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank as an attraction, took from State and Madison streets its distinction as Chicago's busiest corner.

So great was the crowd outside the bank early in the afternoon that twelve policemen from the First precinct station were unable to carry out Lieut. James O'Toole's order to "keep 'em moving," and a squad of mounted men were sent to their aid.

But the crowd did not, as the police imagined, consist of desperate depositors, and at the end of the luncheon hour in "the street"—a few minutes before the mounted reinforcements arrived—it drifted away of its own accord.

News of the forced suspension of the Lorimer bank did not spread until late in the forenoon.

Jacob Schlitt Is Disappointed.

Jacob Schlitt, who has a saloon at 160 Quincy street and keeps a small deposit in the bank, was an early disappointed "customer." He did not intend to make a withdrawal, but wanted to change several large bills into small ones and silver.

Promptly at 10 o'clock Schlitt went to the bank. He found the door locked. On the corner was standing John Tyndall, a Central station policeman.

"Wonder what's the matter with the bank," said Schlitt to Tyndall, glancing at the board of trade clock.

"It's with the clock there's something the matter, and not with the bank," replied Tyndall. "They always open at 10 o'clock sharp."

The hands of the board of trade clock pointed to 10:10 when Tyndall strolled away. When he returned a half hour later, after touring his beat, he saw a crowd around the entrance to the bank.

"What's the trouble? Somebody hurt?" demanded the policeman.

"Yep; all of us, I guess. We're depositors and the bank has shut down," moaned one of the victims.

Policemen Oust the Depositors.

About twenty depositors had obtained entrance to the bank, and were standing in melancholy groups outside the cages. An official of the bank called Tyndall.

"Clear these people out," he directed.

Out went the depositors, and Tyndall telephoned to the station for help. By the time Lieut. O'Toole and his squad got there the crowd was several hundred strong. The bank door had been closed. When an occasional depositor broke through the police cordon Harry F. Rietz, the paying teller, opened the door a trifle and passed out a card of the Corn Exchange National bank with "O. K. Rietz" scribbled on the back.

Persons who took the "O. K." cards to the Corn Exchange bank were received with courtesy, and informed that should they wish at any time to open an account the Corn Exchange would be glad to do business with them.

David Lewinsohn "Stands Pat."

David Lewinsohn, manager of the Congress cafe at 600 South Wabash avenue, and brother of the missing "Sol," was one of those who got a card from the obliging Mr. Rietz.

"I've got $8,200 in the bank, but I'm not worrying," said Lewinsohn.

He was told that speculators had been offering to take over deposits at a discount.

"If they offered me ninety cents on the dollar I'd laugh at them," he said. "I'll wait and draw a hundred."

Lewinsohn's place at the crack in the bank door was taken by the Rev. Henry B. Parks, pastor of the African Methodist Episcopal church. He talked for several minutes with Rietz, who said he could not tell when depositors would be paid off.

"This affair has made me so ill I don't know where I'm at," said the negro bishop as he turned away. He would not say how much he had on deposit.

"I thought I was extravagant when I withdrew $216 on Wednesday to buy a diamond ring for a gift," said Michael G. Walsh, deputy coroner, "but it begins to look now as if it was economy. I've got about $1,000 more in the bank, and I should have bought an automobile."

Dr. Crowe Has $4,000 Account.

Dr. Thomas Crowe of 1121 North State street, who with two deposits of several hundred dollars each in the last couple of days had brought his account to about $4,000, was another who got an "O. K. Rietz" card. He couldn't get any money on it.

Other heavy depositors were Mrs. Marie Hanks of 1655 West Jackson boulevard and James Pattison of 5732 North Clark street, each of whom had more than $2,000 in the bank. Mr. Rietz gave them cards, too.

PAIR OF BALLOONS MISSING IN STORM

No Word Received from Kansas City Ill. and Springfield in Portland, Ore., Flight.

ONE PILOT REPORTED HURT

Portland, Ore., June 12.—One brief message telling of disaster to the balloon Million Population Club was the only word received up to late today from three of the balloons that started from here yesterday in a race under the auspices of the Aero Club of America.

Of the fate of the Kansas City Ill. and the Springfield there was an ominous silence.

The other balloon in the race, the Uncle Sam, was wrecked in a thunder storm last night.

This morning on the wings of a white carrier pigeon was brought this laconic message from the Million Population Club:

"Balloon struck by lightning. Berry hurt. Come quick. MORRISON."

The message was written by George Y. Morrison, probably while he was in a daze, for he failed to give his location. His companion was Capt. John Berry of St. Louis, the pilot.

Morrison is a frontiersman from Lewiston, Idaho, and it is believed he will be able to find his way out of the mountains and bring aid to his injured companion, unless he, too, is injured.

Begin Search for Balloons.

Every effort possible was put forth to find the Uncle Sam and the other two unreported balloons. The United States forest service ordered every forester in the Oregon Cascade mountains to the search. It is believed that the Million Population Club probably went down somewhere in the dense forest on the west slope of the Cascades, southeast of here.

Word came late today from Liberal, about forty miles southeast of here, that a balloon was seen by a ranch hand close to the earth at 2:30 o'clock this morning. The occupants shouted to him, asking for their direction, but did not say who they were.

While the Springfield and Kansas City III. may have passed safely through the storm and over the Cascades into a thinly settled region it is feared they met the same fate as the Million Population Club, and it is regarded as almost impossible that there would not be some report of their being sighted had they continued in flight today.

The Kansas City III. was piloted by John Watts of Kansas City, and carried Roscoe Fawcett, sporting editor of a Portland paper, as passenger. The Springfield was piloted by Roy Donaldson of Springfield, Ill., and carried Wilbur Henderson of Portland as passenger. Both the balloons took carrier pigeons with them.

The carrier pigeon, which arrived at its cote here wet from the storm shortly before 1 p. m. with the word of the disaster of the Million Population Club, showed fatigue, according to its owner, George Warren. Mr. Warren said it came flying from the southwest, and he believed it had flown anywhere from 130 to 170 miles.

Pilot Tells of Experience.

Oregon City, Ore., June 12.—Capt. H. E. Honeywell of St. Louis, pilot of the balloon Uncle Sam, who arrived here today, told a graphic story of his flight through a storm with Dr. W. E. Stewart after ascending from Portland yesterday.

The ascent was his one hundred and ninety-fifth and the experience he had in a heavy electrical storm was his first.

"After traveling four hours from Portland," he said, "we dropped to the 500 foot level and tried to run in between two storms which were east and west of us. Soon we were in a great vortex, the storm from the west going southerly and that from the east going northerly, and the counter current forced us back. Finally the two storms merged overhead like a canopy, with lightning playing between both of them. We decided to take advantage of the north drift and back out.

Struck by Bolt of Lightning.

"At this time the first bolt of lightning struck us. We could feel the shock. We trailed, not thinking of any danger, in a northerly direction, and five minutes later a heavy bolt struck us, causing fire to fly from the rigging of the car.

"We decided that this was too interesting for comfort and concluded to land, but before a suitable place presented itself we were struck again by a light bolt, causing us to make a hurried descent on the Lindsey farm at 7:45 o'clock.

"We came down in a peach orchard just as a bolt of lightning struck a large dead tree within forty yards of us and set fire to it."

LORIMER CHEERS HIS WIFE AND DAUGHTER AS THEY WEEP.

Banker Arrives Home Late, Where Family Awaits Him, and Secludes Self from Callers.

A reporter for THE TRIBUNE had called at the home of William Lorimer at 4318 Sheridan road about 8 o'clock last night. He was met by William Lorimer Jr. The young man showed the strain of the day's events.

"No, he is not home, and we don't know whether to expect him or not," he said, when the reporter asked for his father. "He may be at the bank, or among friends, and you might call here later if you like, but it's certain that father won't say a word."

The reporter walked a short distance from the house and waited. Presently a touring car shot from the center of the drive, and before it was steadied at the curb Mr. Lorimer and five companions alighted and hurried up the stairs. The banker saw the reporter and shook his head negatively.

He opened his apartment door. "O papa!" cried his wife and daughter as they greeted him. Mr. Lorimer showed a brave heart, and tried to cheer his loved ones.

Twenty minutes later the reporter called again. William Jr., his eyes stained with tears, shook his head sadly and said:

"No, father hasn't a word to say. He desires to be left alone with those closest to him."

HO, YOU SOUTH SIDE BATHERS; JACKSON BEACH OPENS TODAY.

Fifteen Hundred May Swim at a Time—Eleven Policemen Will Keep Things Quiet.

Opening of the public bathing beach at Jackson park in front of the German building this afternoon, was announced yesterday by Superintendent J. F. Foster of the south park system. Fifteen hundred bathers can be accommodated at one time. This is 600 more than last year.

Ten park policemen under a sergeant have been detailed to keep order.

The members of the south park board are undecided whether they will abandon this beach next year and create a new and larger beach farther north. The war department recently notified them that they could fill in part of the lake shore to make a beach.

BURGLAR BEATS WOMAN IN BED

Strikes Her with Revolver When She Wakes and Screams for Help.

Mrs. Anne Culver of 327 North Artesian avenue was awakened early yesterday morning to discover a negro rummaging about her bedroom. Mrs. Culver screamed, awakening her neice, Bertha Searles, sleeping beside her. The negro leaped to the bedside and struck Mrs. Culver on the head with a revolver. Then he fled, escaping through an open window. Mrs. Culver was taken to the county hospital for treatment of a deep scalp wound.

Mrs. Ruth Strauss Misses Valuables After "E. J. Locke and Wife" Depart.

A man and woman, representing themselves as E. J. Locke and wife, yesterday rented a room from Mrs. Ruth Strauss of 2830 Calumet avenue. They left soon afterward, ostensibly to get their trunks, which they said were at a railroad depot. After their departure Mrs. Strauss discovered the loss of silverware and jewelry valued at $100.

JAILED HYPNOTIST REFUSES TO RELEASE BOY FROM SPELL.

Gary Aroused, as Mesmerist Will Not "Awaken" Victim Unless He Is Liberated from Cell.

Gary, Ind., June 12.—Arthur Tracy, 18 years old, at midnight had spent twenty-four hours flat on his back, his wearied feet moving in imitation of a bicycle rider's. Tonight the Woman's club of Gary, the police, and a thousand citizens gathered at the police station to try to stop Tracy's feet, while W. B. Griffiths, an itinerant hynotist who is said to be responsible for Tracy's activities, is in the county jail refusing to undo his work.

At a public performance Thursday night Griffith hynotized Tracy, giving Tracy the illusion that he was riding a bicycle. The spectators were so amused that Griffith refused to "awaken" Tracy, but moved him with his feet still pedaling to a public show window.

At noon today the Woman's club complained to the police that Griffith was guilty of cruelty to Tracy's feet and the hynotist was arrested. He refuses to "awaken" Tracy until the charges are withdrawn.

City's Banks Sound; Both Small and Large.

Financial leaders say Munday troubles have no influence on any other institution.

MEMBERS of the Chicago clearing house committee gave unanimous assurance yesterday that depositors in the banks outside those affiliated with the Munday-Lorimer La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank, need have no concern over their deposits or investments.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National bank and a member of the clearing house committee, said:

"Depositors in the suburban banks should not make the mistake of associating such institutions with the string of banks controlled by those in charge of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank. The latter have not been under the supervision of the clearing house committee and we cannot speak for them. But other suburban and outlying banks are well managed. These banks are under the supervision of the clearing house committee and have as correspondents big downtown banks that will furnish all the money they need.

"So far as the general banking situation in Chicago is concerned, it is absolutely sound. We know this, for the clearing house committee has its own examiner to make reports on the banks."

James B. Forgan, president of the First National bank and chairman of the clearing house committee, said:

"The closing of these banks can affect other banks no more than if the failure had occurred in San Francisco. These banks are not connected with any Chicago clearing house banks and we know nothing about them so far as their condition is concerned. The Chicago banking situation is better than it has been in years."

John J. Mitchell, president Illinois Trust and Savings bank, said:

"This development with reference to the La Salle Trust and Savings bank and other banks in which former Senator Lorimer and his associates have been affiliated has nothing to do with the general banking situation, and consequently none of the Chicago banks will in any way be affected by it. This suspension is simply the result of poor banking. In other words, it is simply the result of an effort of a cobbler attempting to conduct a bank. Naturally those banks affiliated with the Lorimer banks will be affected. The developments today are no surprise to those in the banking business, the only surprising feature being that the state banking department had not taken charge long ago. Generally speaking, the Chicago situation is sound."

ADLAI E. STEVENSON RALLIES.

Former Vice President Takes First Nourishment in Three Days—Kin Cheered.

Former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson, who is seriously ill at the Presbyterian hospital, spent a more comfortable day yesterday on account of the cooler weather. His remarkable vitality rallied to his support and he was able to partake of liquid nourishment for the first time in three days. No medicine was administered during the day. The patient was cheered by scores of telegrams from friends all over the country which were read to him by attendants.

Approximately $4,000,000 of depositors' money is tied up in the four Lorimer-Munday banks closed yesterday by the state authorities.

Was any of this money accepted on deposit after the responsible officials knew the banks were insolvent? This question remains for solution.

The state bank examiner expresses hope that the three smaller institutions closed may be saved, but he says the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank, founded by William Lorimer and latterly controlled by C. B. Munday, is hopelessly insolvent. This parent institution bled the other three banks, and Munday's and Lorimer's other enterprises in turn bled it.

Crash Due to Devious Methods.

The downfall of the bank was due to devious methods, and when the crash came the values remaining were of such a negligible character that none of the solvent banks could be induced to extend a helping hand.

Mr. Lorimer and Mr. Munday, according to the records, extracted from the La Salle Street Trust and Savings banks about $600,000 each in the form of loans on collateral declared unmarketable.

"String" of Banks Forced Out.

The "string" of banks forced by the state bank examiner, D. V. Harkin, to close their doors were:

1. La Salle Street Trust & Savings.
2. Ashland-Twelfth State Bank.
3. Broadway State Bank.
4. Illinois State Bank.

Another of the Munday banks, the State Bank of Calumet, 10736 South Michigan avenue, in Roseland, may be forced by the common vicissitudes of the "string" to close its doors this morning. Its president thought so last night.

Revealed by Figures.

The manner in which Vice President Munday of the La Salle Street Trust has dipped into the "little" banks which were under his guidance, taking their depositors' money for the uses of his downtown institution, is shown by figures made known last night.

These sums have been drawn within the last few days by the La Salle Street Trust from the four subsidiary banking institutions, evidently to tide over the larger bank:

Ashland-Twelfth State Bank	$180,000
Broadway State Bank	$175,000
Illinois State Bank	$170,000
State Bank of Calumet	$115,000
	$640,000

Failed to Meet Requirements.

The action of State Bank Examiner Harkin in seizing possession of the banks was taken after Mr. Lorimer and Mr. Munday acknowledged to him that it was impossible for them to clear up certain securities and collateral carried in the assets of the bank, classed as "bad" by the state auditor's office.

These securities are said to aggregate nearly $1,200,000.

The state auditor had been insistent that these securities be replaced by "good" collateral ever since the first and only examination made of the bank by the new Democratic administration last January.

Munday's Activities Widespread.

Meanwhile Mr. Munday's activities have extended to a number of small Illinois banks and business enterprises outside Chicago, and these will be heard from today. The outlook is not so bad for them as officers of a number of them refused to permit the Lorimer-Munday combination to exchange Munday-Lorimer securities for their deposits.

Downstate Munday banks say they have deposits in the La Salle as follows:

Bank of Marine at Marine, $4,000.
State Bank of Oconee, $3,000.
Farmers' Bank at Bethalto, $2,000.
Peoples' Bank, East Alton, a few hundred.
Citizens' State at Alhambra, $3,000.
Bank of Smithboro, less than $1,000.

Finds $50,000 Cash on Hand.

Examiner Harkin, in expressing the opinion that the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank will not be able to reopen its doors, said he found cash on hand approximately totaling $50,000 to offset deposits a shade under $3,000,000.

The smaller banks, Mr. Harkin thinks, will be able to weather the storm. He closed them, he said, when he found that they had cash accounts at the La Salle street bank, which, if realized in adjusting the affairs of the downtown concern, will go far toward paying out the depositors of the outlying institutions.

His object, he explained, was to stop runs on the little banks and to afford equal protection to all concerned.

To Ask for Receiver on Monday.

Examination of the affairs of the La Salle Street bank will continue today and tomorrow, Mr. Harkin said, and a complete report of its condition will not be available until Monday.

Unless there is a decided change in the current of affairs, according to Mr. Harkin, it will be necessary for the state auditor's office to go into the state courts on Monday and ask for a receiver for the La Salle Street bank and for any of the smaller banks involved in the bigger crash, which are found to be past saving.

The bank examiner said the direct causes of the La Salle Street bank's trouble were failure to dispose of a half million dollars in securities of the Southern Traction company, and cash advances of nearly $100,000 more made to the Lorimer-Gallagher Construction company, which had the contract for the building of the Southern Traction road.

Tied Up with Munday Concerns.

He also cited the inability of the bank to dispose of securities and collateral totaling $600,000, which had been put up by companies and concerns in which Vice President Munday had an interest, directly or indirectly.

The Southern Traction is a line which was building in the terminal territory across the Mississippi river from St. Louis. It "started nowhere and ended nowhere," one authority said last night, and has been a financial white elephant.

The $500,000 worth of bonds went to the Lorimer-Gallagher company in payment for the construction bills. In addition there is in the bank's assets a note for $45,000, given by the Southern Traction company directly to the bank, and one for $168,000 given to the bank by the Lorimer-Gallagher company.

Rosehill Security Good.

The Rosehill Cemetery company's transactions of approximately $200,000 do not figure in the collateral for which good paper was demanded by the bank examiner, it is learned from Mr. Harkin, and money advanced to the cemetery company, of which Munday is secretary and treasurer, is said to be amply secured.

The $500,000 which represents the "Munday" securities questioned by the bank examiner is said to have been advanced to various concerns in Chicago and downstate. No list was made public by Bank Examiner Harkin and will not be until the examination in progress is ended.

"I examined the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank last January," Mr. Harkin said. "I found these securities carried in the banks' assets. Investigation showed that they were not the proper kind of collateral to be carried in any bank.

Tells of Warning Munday.

"Mr. Lorimer at that time was in London and I was told he was attempting to dispose of the traction company bonds. I informed Mr. Munday the welfare of the bank demanded these securities be supplanted with others which would stand the test of everyday business. I was assured that immediate steps would be taken to meet this demand. I have repeated this demand week by week. I learned that heavy withdrawals were being made by the bank's customers, particularly within the last two weeks.

"Yesterday morning I went to the bank, not with the intention of closing it, but with the purpose of investigating it to see whether any genuine effort had been made to place the bank's affairs on a business basis such as I deemed necessary under the law.

Munday and Lorimer Give Up.

"I conferred with Mr. Munday. He told me he could do nothing. Mr. Lorimer came into the office on the floor above the bank floor, and I asked him if anything could be done. Mr. Lorimer said that nothing more could be done, as far as he was concerned.

"I thereupon took possession of the bank's affairs and directed that no more deposits be received and no withdrawals permitted pending a complete investigation. I took this action because I deemed it my duty under the law to protect depositors against a drain of the bank's assets by any one.

"I informed State Auditor Brady at Springfield of my action. He told me that it met with his entire approval."

Demand City's Deposits.

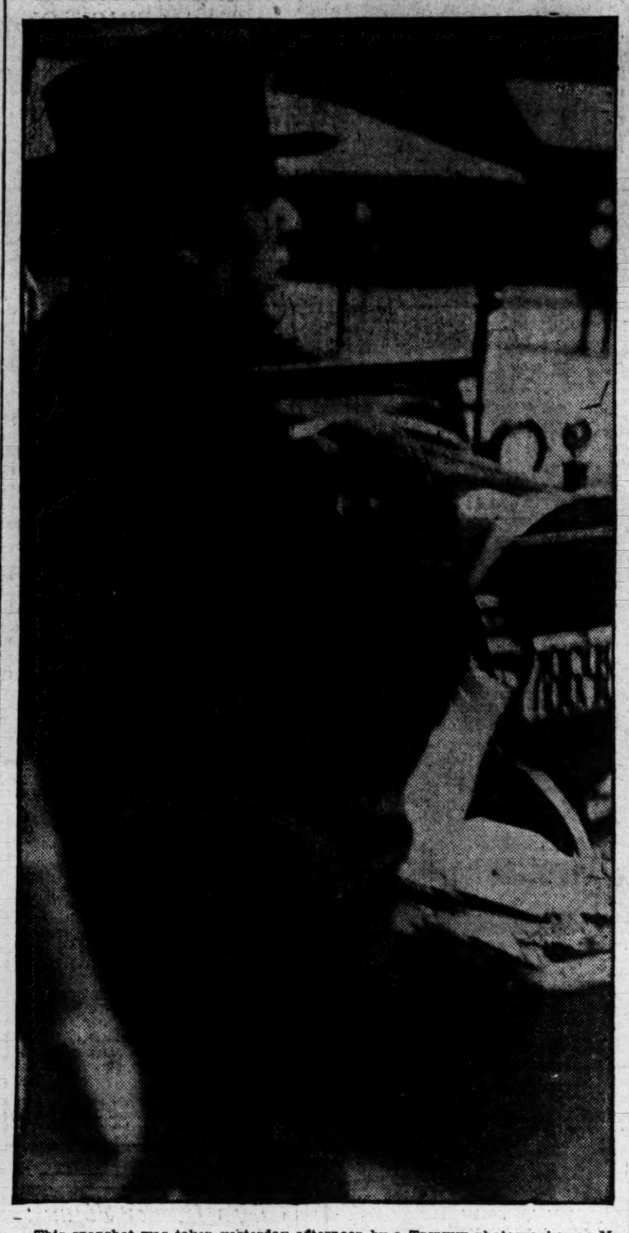

While Bank Examiner Harkin was taking possession of the La Salle Street bank's affairs, City Treasurer M. J. Flynn was demanding payment on checks aggregating $650,000, representing the city's account at the bank.

Formal demand was made for the city treasurer by his attorney, Colin C. H. Fyffe.

"I directed that payment of this demand and of all other demands for withdrawal be refused," the bank examiner said, "so that all interests involved would receive identical protection."

C. B. Munday.

Boss of the Lorimer-Munday Group of Banks.

This snapshot was taken yesterday afternoon by a TRIBUNE photographer as Mr. Munday was leaving the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank.

Bank's Condition Suspected.

The critical condition of the La Salle Street bank has been suspected in the banking circles for some time. It has been an open secret all of this week.

Early on Wednesday morning a depositor in the La Salle Street bank called at one of the large downtown banks with his lawyer and asked them to collect his entire account. This bank received his check and sent it over to the Corn Exchange National bank for certification. The Corn Exchange held the check but did not certify it until late in the afternoon.

It also developed during the day that the La Salle Street bank had been liquidating heavily through the week. A representative of one bond house said that it sent to the bond house the kind of bonds in which that particular concern traded, in sums varying from $10,000 to $75,000, and invariably accepted whatever bid was made. The messenger waited for the check, which he took back to his bank. The informant said this one house purchased over $200,000 in securities in the first three days of this week.

Issue of Criminality.

Should it turn out, as now is regarded probable, that the La Salle Street bank accepted deposits after the bank was known to be insolvent, the principal officers have subjected themselves to arrest and criminal prosecution under the state law.

The extreme penalty is imprisonment in the state penitentiary not less than one nor more than three years.

Lawyers were of the opinion that only the responsible officers of a bank, such as the president and vice president, would come within the meaning of the law, since such officials would be the ones responsible for keeping the bank open after its insolvency was known.

Criminal Code Cited.

The criminal code of the state of Illinois, section 25 A, is as follows:

1. That if any banker or broker, or person or persons, doing a banking business, or any officer of any banking company, or incorporated bank, doing business in this state, shall receive from any person or persons, firm, company, or corporation, or from any agent thereof, not indebted to said banker, broker, banking company, or incorporated bank, any money, check, draft, bill of exchange, stocks, bonds, or other valuable thing which is transferrable by deliverer, when at the time of receiving such deposit said banker, broker, banking company, or incorporated bank is in his or its knowledge insolvent, whereby the deposits so made shall be lost to the depositor, said banker, broker, or officer, so receiving such deposit, shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in a sum double the amount of the sum so embezzled and fraudulently taken, and in addition thereto may be imprisoned in the state penitentiary not less than one nor more than three years."

Says "Tribune" Played Fair.

City Controller Traeger said last evening in discussing the closing of the banks:

"THE TRIBUNE is certainly entitled to much credit in connection with the banking situation. It did clean newspaper work. It played more than fair. I know that THE TRIBUNE had some information on the condition of affairs at least two days ago, but refrained from printing the rumors that might have caused a run, without justification, on a number of banks. It waited until the state bank examiner found the exact conditions and acted."

The large deposits from the funds of the Catholic bishop of Chicago, formerly in the La Salle street institution, were withdrawn some time ago.

BROADWAY BANK "RAIDED."

The Broadway State bank paid into the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank $175,000 without security. This was admitted by an official of the Broadway bank to a reporter for THE TRIBUNE. On condition that his name would not now be used, he said:

"Early in the week a meeting of the directors of the Broadway bank was held. It was then I discovered we had $175,000 in the La Salle bank. I was astounded. I had believed from previous statements that the total was only $40,000.

"I inquired about the security given us by the La Salle Street bank. To my surprise I learned there was none. A demand was made that this be attended to at once. Accordingly the directors appointed a committee to call on the officials of the La Salle street institution.

"We made our first call on Wednesday. We were told to return on Thursday. We did so and were told our list of securities would be made up for delivery to us on Friday morning. We had selected the securities we wanted. Today, as you know, the La Salle Street bank was closed and so were we."

President Paul A. Hazard of the Broadway bank, who also is a trustee of the sanitary district, insisted the $200,000 in securities on hand could quickly be turned into cash. He declared the bank is solvent and could begin to pay out at once.

Cashier's Quitting a Mystery.

It developed during the day that E. E. Hughes resigned on Feb. 1 as vice president, cashier, and director of the Broadway bank. Asked why he had quit, Mr. Hughes replied:

"I was not in accord with the management. That is all I care to say now."

A director of the bank was asked why Mr. Hughes resigned.

"I do not know," he said. "I met Hughes on the street a few days ago and asked him. He told me he would see me in a few days and explain."

Herman E. Oelrich succeeded Mr. Hughes as cashier, while John H. Rife took his place as vice president and director. Rife is secretary of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank and is recognised by the directors as "Munday's man" in the Broadway bank.

Hazard Biggest Depositor.

The Broadway bank boasts 1,500 depositors. In the main their holdings are small. President Hazard said he probably was the largest individual depositor.

"I have $25,000 in my bank, and I am not worrying," he said. "To prove that the failure of the La Salle Trust was like a thunderbolt from a clear sky to me, I want to state that I deposited $15,000 in the Broadway bank only yesterday."

CITY NOT TO LOSE, GUARANTORS SAY

Prompt Payment Decided Upon After Traeger Demands Deposits.

BOND FORM CALLED SOLID

Sexton Says Documents Protect Municipality and No Trouble Is Expected.

The city of Chicago is one depositor, it is said, which will not lose a penny through the troubles of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank and its allied institutions.

All of the municipal funds deposited in these banks are protected by surety company bonds. Representatives of the city expressed implicit confidence that the guarantors would make prompt payments of all the money involved and representatives of the companies said their obligations would be taken care of without question or delay.

The first steps in that direction were taken before nightfall. City Controller Traeger served a formal demand on the sureties of the La Salle Street bank to pay over $650,000 and representatives of those surties held a long conference at which there was a general agreement that no other course than that of prompt payment was open to them.

In addition to this amount Treasurer Flynn had placed $100,000 in the Ashland-Twelfth State bank, $100,000 in the Broadway State bank, and $115,00 in the Illinois State bank.

Here Are Guarantors.

The guarantors of the deposits are the following:

LA SALLE STREET—National Surety company, $125,000; Globe Indemnity company, $100,000; United States Fidelity and Guaranty company, $100,000; Massachusetts Bonding and Surety company, $100,000; Southern Surety company, $75,000; American Fidelity company, $75,000; Illinois Surety company, $50,000; Equitable Surety company, $25,000.

ASHLAND-TWELFTH—Illinois Surety company, $50,000; Chicago Bonding and Surety company, $25,000; New England Casualty company, $25,000.

BROADWAY—National Surety, $50,000; Illinois Surety company, $50,000.

ILLINOIS STATE—National Surety company, $25,000; Globe Indemnity company, $25,000; Southern Surety company, $25,000; Chicago Bonding and Surety company, $25,000; New England Casualty company, $15,000.

During City Treasurer Flynn's term of office he has kept in each one of these banks, practically unmolested, the full amount of money it could accept under the provisions of the ordinance naming the city depositaries. Mr. Flynn, upsetting all precedent, has claimed full power to determine how transfers should be made, a right formerly held by the city controller. The Ashland-Twelfth bank was in the group that bid 2½ per cent for city funds. The others offered only 2¼ per cent.

Several Heavily Involved.

The list shows the National Surety company as guarantor of $200,000, the Illinois Surety company of $150,000, the Globe Indemnity company of $125,000, the most heavily involved in the tangle.

The bond form signed by all guarantors of city deposits was drafted by the city law department, and Corporation Counsel Sexton said it is sound in every detail. When City Controller Traeger sought his advice he prepared letters to be sent to each one of the guarantors of the La Salle street institution. Similar ones will be sent the sureties of the smaller institutions if demands for the payment of city funds are refused when they are made, as they probably will be in the near future.

Sureties Issue Statement.

The conference of the surety company representatives was held in the offices of the Chicago Bonding and Surety company in the National Life building. A statement authorized by those present follows:

"An informal meeting of representatives of some of the surety companies interested was held this afternoon for the purpose of procuring such information as might be available concerning the affairs of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank. No facts other than those about which the press is already informed were procurable.

"The surety companies will as a matter of course take care of their obligations in this connection."

Among those present were W. H. Stewart, for the National Surety company; Charles E. Schick, secretary of the Illinois Surety company; Homer McKee, for the Globe Indemnity company; George E. Brennan, for the United States Fidelity company; O. W. Huncke, for the Southern Surety company; Fred M. Blount, for the Massachusetts Bonding company; O. F. Roberts, secretary of the Chicago Bonding company; Thomas Thompson, for the New England Casualty company; P. J. Loranger, for the Equitable Surety company; M. L. Jenks, for the American Surety company, and O. P. Alford, for the Maryland Casualty company.

"I had my home office on the long distance wire," said Mr. Brennan, "and was told the check would be mailed at once."

A similar message was sent to Controller Traeger from the offices of the Illinois Surety company.

BANK DID NOT BELONG TO CLEARING HOUSE BODY.

E. A. Hamill, Head of Corn Exchange National, and Frederick H. Rawson, Union Trust Head, Discuss Case.

E. A. Hamill, president of the Corn Exchange National bank and chairman of the clearing house committee, said the Corn Exchange bank had been friendly with the Lorimer institution because of a desire to befriend Charles G. Fox, vice president of the La Salle street bank and a former employé of the Corn Exchange.

"I know nothing about the affairs of the La Salle street bank," Mr. Hamill said. "I have heard rumors for a few days that they were in difficulties, but beyond that I know nothing.

"The La Salle street bank was not a member of the clearing house association, and its affairs have not been discussed in the association or in the clearing house committee. I know, because I am chairman of the committee.

"The bank has an account with the Corn Exchange bank. Their account is just like the account of any other customer of ours. They don't owe us a dollar. We owe them money, because they have money on credit with us. They generally carried a large account, too."

"It is true we sometimes hesitated in paying certified checks on the La Salle Street bank when they came in, but that is often the case with other chicks. We would hesitate in paying a check until we knew the bank had the money, but that is nothing unusual."

Rawson Points Out Moral.

Frederick H. Rawson, president of the Union Trust company, said the crash was a good illustration of why people should put their money only in banks which are supervised by the clearing house association.

"I know nothing about the La Salle street bank's affairs," Mr. Rawson said. "Its predecessor, the La Salle Street National bank, was a member of the clearing house association for a time, I believe, but I understand it did not toe the mark. When a bank is not a member of the clearing house it is pretty good evidence that it is not doing good banking.

"The depositors ought not to lose a great deal. The stockholders are subject to an assessment of 100 per cent on their stock. That's according to state law."

Banks O. K., Says Tilden.

William A. Tilden said:

"Everything in the banking world is in excellent shape. The closing of the Lorimer bank cannot possibly have an effect on Chicago's fiscal institutions. Our banks are stronger and healthier at this time than usual, and that means much."

NATIONAL LIFE WILL NOT LOSE.

Risk Firm Had $50,000 in La Salle Bank, but Bond Protected Deposit.

A. M. Johnson, president of the National Life Insurance company, which maintains a large deposit at the La Salle street bank, said that yesterday's balance in the La Salle Bank and Trust company was around the $50,000 mark, but that it was covered by a bond of the Ætna Accident and Liability Insurance company, so that no loss would result to his company.

WEEP AND FIGHT AS BANKS ARE CLOSED

surance building, had $300 on deposit in the savings department. He got no card, nor did M. N. Mohr of 2829 Washington boulevard.

"How much have I in the bank?" said Mohr. "Don't ask me. Just say it's all I've got."

Mothers and Babies at Ashland-Twelfth.

At 1600 West Twelfth street is a glaring sign:

"Ashland Twelfth State Bank."

But in letters more impressive still is another sign:

"UNDER STATE SUPERVISION."

It was under this sign that a crowd of anxious, tearful depositors surged about, blocking the street all day and into the night. Women wearing shawls, with babies in their arms, and old and young men paced back and forth along the police lines. Many of the women were crying, and the assurances of employés of the bank earlier in the day failed to convince them their savings were not lost.

Three middle aged women, after an exciting conversation with the policeman, who attempted to hold them back, rushed to the closed door. One woman threw herself against the door and screamed:

"They've got my money in there! I want it."

Try to Peer Inside Bank.

As night neared and men and women who work downtown came home, the crowd increased. They joined the crowd in front of the bank and many tried to catch a glimpse of the bank's interior between the cracks of the drawn shades. Three times it was necessary for the police to disperse them. At one time a riot call was sent in.

When the latest editions of the newspapers arrived groups of older depositors, who could not read English, gathered about those who bought papers and urged them to read aloud. At one time there were more than 100 of these groups listening anxiously to those who were reading the latest developments.

One of the peculiar features of the situation was the hesitancy of the depositors of the Jewish quarter to reveal the amount of their losses. Efforts were made to get the names and losses of persons in the crowd, but in every case this information was refused.

Angle of Jewish Pride.

This reticence was explained by a clothing store proprietor, who admitted he had some money deposited in the bank.

"You see, it's this way with the people in the Jewish quarters," he said. "They have a peculiar pride and they hide their sorrows from their enemies. Take my case for example. I wouldn't admit that I lost any money in that bank, because it would give my enemies much pleasure. Therefore I hide my sorrow in order to keep my enemies from enjoying the fact that I was such a poor business man as to put my money in that bank. My people never admit it when they are flimflammed."

Officials of the bank left the institution early in the day. They asserted the bank would open on Monday unless something unforeseen happened.

The Ashland-Twelfth Street bank received an unusual amount of new depositors during the last three weeks, owing to the agitation against private banks. Many of the new depositors had had their savings in several private banks in the neighborhood. When their confidence in the private institutions became shaky they withdrew their money and deposited it in the nearest state bank, which was the Ashland-Twelfth.

At the Broadway Bank.

When employés and officers of the Broadway State bank arrived at the institution shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday morning they found Examiners Burke and Sullivan awaiting them. They were surprised, as it was the first visit of the examiners since the bank was opened on Jan. 3 of this year.

"The La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank is closed, and we want to look over your books," said the examiners. They took possession. After a hurried inspection they notified the officials not to receive or pay out money until further notice. The examiners remained at the bank all day.

Deposits were received until about 9:30 o'clock, however. This was admitted by W. L. Stoetzel, joint paying and receiving teller. Among those to make a deposit was H. E. Nottingham, bookkeeper for the Reese Jones Clothing company, 4639 Broadway. He brought in $122, which was accepted.

Depositor Scolds the Teller.

Nottingham did not learn of the bank's difficulties until noon. He returned to the bank and took Stoetzel to task for taking money under such circumstances.

Stoetzel tried to explain to Nottingham that he did not know the bank was not supposed to do business until nearly half an hour after he opened his cage for the day. When informed, he said, he turned over his cash and books to the examiners.

Mr. Jones also was displeased. He said he made it possible for the bank to locate in the neighborhood by selling his lease for $11,500.

Paul A. Hazard, a trustee of the sanitary district, is president of the Broadway bank. He said he was notified by the cashier, Herman R. Oelrich, that the bank examiners were in charge. He did not know any deposits had been received during the morning. He supposed a "few dollars" might have been paid out.

"We are not to blame in this matter. I do not understand why we have been asked to close. This bank never has been examined before and it seems strange the examiners should ask us to quit business before they see whether we are able to continue. However, that is their privilege and I am not criticising them. Our assets are sufficient to meet all our liabilities."

Has $175,000 in the La Salle.

"What is your connection with the La Salle Street bank?" a depositor asked Mr. Hazard.

"Only that of a depositor; we have $175,000 on deposit with them," he answered.

"You have no other connection than that of a depositor?"

"That's all."

"The La Salle Street bank does not control this bank, then?" a reporter for THE TRIBUNE asked.

"Not that I know of," said Mr. Hazard.

"Does C. B. Munday control this bank?"

"Not that I know of."

Other officials of the bank were more frank than Mr. Hazard.

"C. B. Munday controls the Broadway bank," said one, who asked that his name be withheld. "John H. Rife, secretary of the La Salle street bank, is a director in the Broadway bank, as is Emil W. Zinser, who also is a director in the La Salle. Rife represents the La Salle street concern's interests in our bank."

Hazard Calls Board Meeting.

Hazard called a meeting of the board of directors before the 1,500 depositors, made up of small merchants and residents of the Wilson avenue neighborhood, learned of the situation.

The depositors began to arrive at the bank just as the directors' meeting adjourned. There were more women than men in the crowd. The women apparently had hurried from their homes upon hearing the newsboys loudly proclaiming the bank failure. The depositors appeared nervous, but suppressed their feelings. President Hazard did his utmost to allay their fears.

Throughout the afternoon the depositors came in a continuous stream. Several children, with little savings banks, were among those who inquired if their money was safe. Some of the women also carried the small savings banks, which they had been induced to take on the promise they would be credited with 50 cents if they returned the banks with their savings by July 1.

Teller Stoetzel Advises Patience.

Mrs. Grey Smith, who refused to give her address, wanted to cash a check for $10 and also have her savings bank opened. Wallace Samuelson of 1203 Ainslie street wanted $6. Teller Stoetzel received all callers and suavely assured them they would get their money if they only would be patient.

As the crowd grew larger President Hazard came to the front of the bank office, and, standing by his desk, said:

"There is nothing for any of you depositors to worry about. We are absolutely solvent and will pay depositors dollar for dollar just as soon as the examiners will let us. The directors have just agreed to make good every cent. If any one loses it will be the directors and stockholders, not the depositors.

At the Illinois State Bank.

The Illinois State bank of Chicago is located in the John R. Thompson building at 350 North Clark street. It should not be confused with the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, which is a national institution.

The Illinois State opened at its regular hour, 9 o'clock, yesterday morning, but was closed by the bank examiners an hour later.

William H. Tholen, cashier, said he knew his bank to be in good condition.

"The report we issued on April 4, 1914, shows we have more than $663,000 in resources," he declared. "Our cash resources at that time totaled $193,430. We have almost that much now. As soon as the bank examiner is through and we have turned our resources into cash we will reopen our doors. Much of our money is tied up in the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank. If we did not fear a run we would not turn our resources into cash."

The crowd of depositors in front of the bank anxiously read the typewritten notice glued on the inside of the door. It read:

This bank is closed temporarily pending investigation by the state bank examiners. Expect to reopen shortly.

The general comment was they wished that the bank would reopen. William Burns of 337 North Clark street said he has a deposit of $660.

"If the bank officers are telling the truth I consider my money perfectly safe," he said.

Edward Krafft said he has $450 on deposit.

"I don't know much about the bank's condition, but I wish they would open the doors," was his comment.

M. Santo said he had $300 in the bank.

"Maybe my money is as good as gold," he declared. Charles Crans, who said he had $100 in the bank, said, "I'd rather have the gold right now."

H. M. Henriksen, secretary of the John R. Thompson company, has a deposit in the Illinois State bank.

"I don't know much about the bank," he said, "but I guess my little deposit is worth almost 90 cents on the dollar. John R. Thompson personally is a stockholder in the bank. He is in Europe, but I think he believes the bank perfectly safe. The John R. Thompson company is one of the heaviest depositors."

MUNDAY HARBORED BONDS OF SHAKY PROJECTS IN BANK.

Collateral of Louisiana Drainage District and of Colonization Company Refused at Other Depositories.

C. B. Munday is interested in the Bayou Terre aux Boeufs drainage district in St. Bernard parish, Louisiana. A large number of the bonds of the district found their way to the La Salle street bank after the failure of the Realty Realization company.

Subsequently $50,000 worth of them were sold to the Rosehill Cemetery company, after other purchasers could not be found, it is said.

He is a large stockholder in the Illinois and Louisiana Land company, which plans a colony in the parish. The bonds of this company have been turned down repeatedly by other banks in La Salle street. It is said that Munday sold some of the drainage bonds and the land company's bonds to the downstate banks in which he is interested.

CITY PARK FUNDS ARE SAFE.

Commissioners Say They Had No Money Deposited in the Banks Which Closed.

None of the funds of the three large park districts were in any of the four closed banks. Bernard Jung, auditor for the Lincoln park board; George M. Reynolds, treasurer for the South park board, and Edward Mullen, treasurer of the West park board, said all their funds were deposited in other banks.

LA SALLE'S STOCK OFFERED AT $65

But No Bids Are Received for the Shares at Any Price.

HOLDERS RUSH TO SELL.

Recent Quotations Cited on Other Banks Involved in the Shutdown.

Stock of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank broke yesterday to an offered price of $65 per share. No bids for the stock were reported. By this is meant that the brokerage houses which specialize in bank stocks had no one bidding any price for the shares.

The offerings, however, were reported to be numerous. There was great uncertainty in the minds of the general public as to what the ultimate value of the shares might be, and when brokers announced they had stock for sale at 65, such a low offer had the effect of discouraging buyers. They did not know whether the shares on which $125 had been paid in were worth anything now.

Stockholders in the banks affiliated with the Munday-Lorimer institution flooded brokerage offices with inquiries, but so far as could be learned no sales were made, and at the close of the market there were no reported bids or offerings.

STATE AUDITOR SAYS BANK DRAIN CAUSED ACTION

James J. Brady Asserts Withdrawals from the La Salle Street Gave Clew.

DENIES SHOWING FAVORS

Declares He Did Not Delay Having Examination as Rumored at Capital

Springfield, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—Auditor of Public Accounts James J. Brady has little definite information regarding the affairs of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank.

"The action of Chief Examiner Harkin in closing the bank was authorized by me if in his opinion the conditions warranted such action," was the only formal statement given out by Mr. Brady.

It was ascertained from conversation with the auditor that authorization for closing the bank actually was given a week ago. At that time there were rumors of heavy withdrawals from the bank, and Brady indicates that he then told Examiner Harkin to keep in close touch with its affairs and see that its condition did not become such that depositors would lose their money.

From time to time an increased number of withdrawals was reported and on Thursday the Chicago office reported the withdrawals were becoming alarmingly numerous. There was talk of liquidation and a general settlement with the creditors, but it was feared this could not be brought about while the bank remained open.

Examiner Given Full Authority.

The examinr said that in his judgment it was time for the auditor to take charge, and he was told to act accordingly. He was given full authority to represent the auditor.

Whether a receiver will be asked for will be determined when the auditor receives the report of the examiner concerning the condition of the bank.

If it develops from this report that the bank can realize on its securities and can liquidate within a short time, no receiver will be asked for.

Judging from what he has learned of the withdrawals the auditor is of the opinion that the bank will be able to make some sort of settlement with its creditors without going into court, since a large proportion of the deposits already has been withdrawn. This will depend, however, on the ability to realize on loans, a detail with which the auditor is not yet familiar.

Examiner's Report Will Tell.

The report of the examiner, which is expected within a few days, will disclose the condition of the loans and the prospect of getting ready money.

"If a settlement can be made without going into court and asking for a receiver I will favor that course," said Auditor Brady. "Receiverships are expensive and court costs eat up assets rapidly."

Brady denied a story to the effect that he once ordered the banking department to pass an examination of the La Salle street bank. This was to the effect that while Fred Porter was chief clerk of the banking department he had suggested an examination. The auditor, so the story went, failed to order it, and Porter, in company with Chief Clerk Eubanks, went to him to urge that it be made.

Auditor Brady was quoted as saying then that he did not care to have an examination of the La Salle State bank for six months.

"There is no truth in that story," said Brady. "It is ridiculous."

Seagrave Talks of Situation.

John K. Seagrave, who succeeded Eubanks as chief clerk in Auditor Brady's office, said today that he had been a nominal stockholder in the La Salle street bank, but had no official connection with the institution and had no information regarding its condition. He is a depositor, and as such will share whatever loss there is with other depositors.

The stock he formerly held amounted to only ten shares. His confidence in the ability of the bank to make good was expressed a few days ago, he said, when he tried to buy some additional stock after it was reported it had declined five points.

Last Private Report Kept Secret.

The last private report made by the bank examiner on the condition of the La Salle bank is on file in the auditor's office, but is not available for publication.

"These reports," explained the auditor, "are confidential. The information contained in them is collected with the understanding that it may be used for official purposes only and cannot be given out.

"No such reports so far as I know ever have been made public. I do not suppose it would make any difference in this case now that the bank has been closed, but I do not think it wise to break the precedent that has been established in the office. The report on the condition of the bank after closing will be available to the public."

Munday's Madison County Banks.

Litchfield, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—The officers of Munday's Madison county banks, four in number, declared the closing of the Chicago bank would have no effect on them whatever, as they are operated independently. The officers of one, when asked if they had any funds on deposit with the La Salle Street institution, replied, "Well, you know they are our correspondents."

The Bank of Marine had a controversy this spring which centered on Munday. By some it was said that a difference in policy was the cause and that when Munday wanted to take the funds of the Bank of Marine and invest them elsewhere Oscar H. Gehrs, the cashier, objected, saying that the Marine bank's money should be invested near home.

Another Version of Story.

The other version of the story is given by officers of the bank, who say the trouble was due to Munday refusing to sell his stock to the other stockholders, who wanted to buy it and retire him.

The differences in the Bank of Marine culminated on March 16 this year, when Munday as its president asked for and received the resignation of Gehrs.

Resignations were then quickly offered by Herbert Gehrs, assistant cashier; Charles [illegible], vice president, and Peter Metz and Fred Schrieber, members of the board.

Officers of the Bank of Marine chosen to succeed those who resigned are. Henry A. Hoyer, vice president; E. M. Hoyer, cashier, and William H. Todt, assistant cashier. Almost immediately the officers and directors who resigned took steps to organize the Farmers and Merchants' Bank of Marine. The institution opened on April 4 with O. H. Gehrs president, Charles May vice president, and Herbert Gehrs cashier.

Officers and Standings.

Munday has four banks in Madison county, one in Bond, and one in Shelby. These institutions, their chief officers, and standings, according to the last reports, are:

Alhambra, Citizens' State bank; organized 1907; capital, $25,000; Christian Tontz, president; F. Oswald and C. E. Harrisberger, vice presidents; W. H. Beckman, cashier. Loans, $70,000; deposits, $80,000; undivided profits, $6,000.

Bethalto, Farmers' bank; organized, 1904; capital, $25,000. C. B. Munday, president; Jervis Richards, vice president; E. R. Starkey, cashier; A. L. Herrick, assistant cashier; loans, $100,000; deposits, $130,000.

East Alton, People's bank; organized in 1900; C. B. Munday, president; J. G. Munday, vice president; W. M. Carey, cashier; E. W. Jones, assistant cashier.

Marine, Bank of Marine; organized, 1905, capital, $25,000; C. B. Munday, president; A. H. Hoyer, vice president; E. M. Hoyer, cashier; L. P. Weizel, assistant cashier; loans, $170,000; deposits, $220,000; undivided profits, $2,000.

Oconee, Shelby County State Bank of Oconee; organized, 1911; capital stock, $25,000; C. B. Munday, president; Jacob Gaskill, vice president; J. A. Werner, cashier; loans, $75,000; deposits, $70,000.

Smithboro, Bond County Bank of Smithboro; organized, 1908; capital, $25,000; C. B. Munday, president; J. G. Munday, vice president; J. F. Cannon, cashier; Grayce E. Martin, assistant cashier.

Bankers Admit No Trouble.

Alton, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—Representatives of the banks in which C. B. Munday is interested in Madison county would not admit yesterday that the action of the state auditor in Chicago would have any effect on the future of their banks. At East Alton it was stated by J. W. Carey, cashier, that Munday does not control there and private backing would carry the bank through.

At Bethalto, it was said a similar condition exists. At Marine Munday controls the bank and it was admitted there was considerable of the bank's money in the La Salle bank.

W. N. Beckman of the Alhambra bank declared his bank would not be affected by the closing of the La Salle street bank. Statements as to the amounts carried in the La Salle street bank were refused at all the banks.

Prepare to Meet Runs.

Edwardsville, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—Officials of southern Illinois banks in which C. B. Munday is interested tonight said they expected no serious results from the closing of the La Salle Street bank in Chicago. None will close its doors, and, while runs are not feared, they have in several instances been prepared for.

Munday is interested in four Madison county banks and has several in adjoining counties. Three years ago he disposed of his holdings in Macoupin and Montgomery county banks. Each of the downstate banks has money on deposit in the La Salle Street bank and expects there will be some little trouble on that account. E. M. Hoyer, cashier of the Bank of Marine at Marine, of which Munday is president, said tonight his bank had about $4,000 on deposit with the La Salle Street bank. He did not think the Bank of Marine would be seriously affected by the state auditor's action, but had taken precautions to guard against a run.

Have Money in Chicago Bank.

The State Bank of Oconee of Oconee in Shelby county has between $5,000 and $4,000 in the Chicago institution, according to J. A. Werner, its cashier. He expected no trouble because of the La Salle street bank closing. Munday is the president of the Oconee bank. The Farmers' bank at Bethalto, another institution of which Munday is president, has $2,000 in the Chicago bank, according to E. R. Starkey, its cashier.

The People's bank of East Alton, with Munday as its president, has but a few hundred dollars in Chicago, according to William M. Carey, cashier. He said the La Salle street closing would not affect it. The Citizens' State bank at Alhambra has about $3,000 in the La Salle street bank, but will not be affected by the closing, according to W. H. Bockman, its cashier.

The Bank of Smithboro in Smithboro, Bond county, has less than $1,000 on deposit in the La Salle street bank, according to J. F. Cannon, its cashier. Munday is president of that bank. Cannon expects no trouble.

Lorimer, Munday, and Other Officials of La Salle Institution Owned Shares in Smaller Depositories.

Examination of the list of stockholders of the four banks shows that six out of the twelve of the directors of the La Salle Street bank are interested in one of the other three.

C. B. Munday, vice president of the La Salle street institution, and owner of 2,606 shares of the stock, is president of the Ashland and Twelfth bank, of which he owns 206 shares.

William Lorimer, president of the La Salle, owns 900 shares of its stock and controls, through William Lorimer Jr., 980 shares of the stock of the Illinois State bank. His son is a director of the latter bank.

L. L. Bacchus, former director and vice president of the La Salle Street bank, and former chief clerk of the state auditor's office, owns 190 shares of the stock. He also owns stock in the Illinois State and the Ashland and Twelfth banks.

The following directors of the downtown bank own stock as follows:

Thomas McDonald, assistant cashier, ten shares of Broadway State stock.

E. W. Zinser, 120 shares of Broadway bank stock and a director of the latter.

Charles E. Ward, Lorimer's secretary, 183 shares of Broadway stock.

Frank M. Spohr, ten shares of Broadway stock.

J. K. Seagrave, chief clerk of the auditor's office, in charge of the banking department, owns twenty shares of the La Salle Street bank stock. Frederick L. Reynolds, director of the Broadway bank, is associated with Munday in the Rosehill cemetery. It is said Munday is able to influence his vote in that way.

"WE HAVE NOTHING TO SAY," SAYS MUNDAY'S CHAUFFEUR.

Auto Driver Joins Broker in Conference with Depositor and Stockholder in Wrecked Institution.

"Is Mr. Munday at home?" a reporter asked a negro servant on the lawn of the Charles B. Munday residence at 4917 Drexel boulevard, last evening.

"No, suh. He's gone out."

"I just saw him come in a few minutes ago," a man on the sidewalk interposed.

But the negro was paying attenton only to a car approaching.

"That's our car," he exclaimed.

The chauffeur stopped just inside the gates.

"Who are you and what are you doing here?" he asked the reporter.

"TRIBUNE reporter, and I want to see Mr. Munday."

"You get out of here, and get out quick. When we want you we will put out a sign. And, anyhow, we have nothing to say for the papers tonight. Now, you get," and the chauffeur hurried off, probably to attend a conference in the Munday home, for there were two automobiles in front that do not belong in the Munday garage.

They are owned by James E. Bennett, a commission merchont with offices at 140 West Van Buren street, who owns fifty shares of the La Salle street bank stock, and is said to be a heavy depositor, and George Ploch of La Salle, Ill., whose name does not appear in the list of stockholders. They were in the Munday home more than an hour, but would divulge nothing of the conference.

INDICT ONE PRIVATE BANKER

John W. Worthington and Former Aid Face U. S. Charges.

WILKERSON'S MEN ARE BUSY

Ashurst and Forsberg Also Are Sought on Warrants.

The federal grand jury yesterday returned indictments against John W. Worthington, head of the defunct American Banking association, and Harry E. Thomas, a promoter, formerly associated with Worthington. They are charged with using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud the Central Savings bank of Waterloo, Ia., of $2,000 worth of certificates of deposit.

The indictments were returned before Judge Carpenter. The two defendants were arrested on this charge several months ago and are out on bonds.

Seek Ashurst and Forsberg.

According to the government Worthington and Thomas obtained from the Waterloo bank $5,000 worth of certificates of deposit to be negotiated through Worthington's private bank. Only $3,000 worth of the certificates has been accounted for, according to the charges.

These are the first indictments returned in District Attorney Wilkerson's campaign against private bankers who use the mails in schemes to defraud depositors and others. A grand jury inquiry is under way of the operations of Joseph Ashurst, missing head of the wrecked Midway and Brookline private banks, and William R. Forsberg, the "boy banker" and partner of Ashurst.

Check "Kiting" Charged.

The two private bankers are charged with using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud the depositors by means of a "check kiting" device. According to the government, they succeeded in buying the Oakwoods bank, subsequently changing its name to the Brookline Commercial and Savings bank, by means of an alleged fake check, which they exchanged in the Chicago Savings Bank and Trust company for a cashier's draft for $2,000, and in that way obtained $27,000 worth of deposits.

DEPOSITORS IN JURY BOX HEAR OF CRASH; COURT ENDS.

Man Rushes Before Judge Waving $12,000 in Bills When He Finds Depository Closed.

Morris N. Feldman, excitedly waving $12,000 in bills before the astonished eyes of Judge Oscar M. Torrison and jury in Municipal court and crying, "What should I do with this?" caused Judge Torrison to adjourn court yesterday.

The closing of the Lorimer banks caused the demonstration.

Morris Feldman, who is a partner in the firm of Feldman Bros., at 835 West Twelfth street, left his office with $12,000 in his inside coat pocket. He meant to deposit it in the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank. When he arrived there he found the doors closed.

He became excited and hurried to inform his brother, A. L. Feldman, also a member of the firm and a director of Lorimer's Ashland-Twelfth Street State bank, who was on the jury in Judge Torrison's court.

When he grasped the situation, he, too, became excited. So did Ralph J. Cohn, also a depositor and juror. Both men asked to be excused. Judge Torrison decided that the men were too excited and nervous to act as jurors and excused them until 2 o'clock.

"BACKFLING" BY BRADY SEEN

Politicians' Theory Is That Auditor Aims at Foes.

SOME QUESTIONS ASKED.

Harkin Denies Politics Figures in the Lorimer Closing.

"What role, if any, did 'big politics' play in the Lorimer bank smash?" was on the lips of politicians last night. There were conflicting answers.

The popular theory was that State Auditor Brady, in command of the state banking department as its legal head, had shot back at the ambush whence he was attacked because of his domestic affairs.

Just a week ago the state auditor held the political spotlight because Charles E. Erbstein had filed a $50,000 breach of promise suit against him on behalf of Brady's "Michigan bride."

One of Brady's Guns Fired?

Auditor Brady, in his formal statement last Saturday, suggested there would be startling developments at the proper time. Politicians who have been following the moves which have been made thought that maybe one of Brady's guns had been fired when Bank Examiner Harkin took possession of the La Salle Street bank.

Mr. Harkin denies this vehemently. He holds he acted on his own responsibility as the chief examiner for the Chicago district and without any thought of politics, personal or general. His statement is that he has been after the Lorimer bank authorities ever since January in an attempt to get it "right." There is reason to believe this is authentic.

What Are the Answers?

At this point the political speculation figures this string of questions:

"Why was the Lorimer bank converted from a national bank into a state bank on the eve of the inception of the new Democratic state administration?

"Why was John K. Seagrave, known as one of Vice President C. B. Munday's first lieutenants, formerly associated with Munday at Litchfield, himself a stockholder in the Lorimer bank and a director with Munday in the Rosehill cemetery concern, made chief clerk of the state auditor's office at Springfield?

"Why, if it is true, did the Lorimer bank people contribute to Brady's campaign fund in 1912?

Porter Forced to Resign.

"Why was Frederick Porter caused to resign as head of the state banking department under Auditor Brady, and why, if it is true, did Chief Clerk Seagrave take over considerable authority in directing the supervision of state banks?

"Was it possible that Auditor Brady's bondsmen took a dislike to the conduct of affairs in the auditor's office and directed that there be a new arrangement and a policy of noninterference in banking matters at Springfield?

"Did Auditor Brady find himself between two hot fires, and did he acquiesce in the 'hands off' policy suggested by his bondsmen and political friends within his own party?

"If so, was he threatened with exposure of his domestic troubles and the consequent publicity such as finally was bestowed upon him last week?"

CALUMET STATE BANK WANTS ITS $115,000 DEPOSIT BACK.

Outlying Institution Has That Sum in Lorimer's Bank and Faces Troublesome Situation.

Some uneasiness was felt among the depositors of the State Bank of Calumet at 10758 South Michigan avenue, but until 3 o'clock, the regular closing time, all demands were met. After that hour several depositors sought to cash checks or withdraw their savings, and were told by President Charles W. Novak to return at 9 o'clock this morning.

"We did business as usual today, met every demand that was presented, but I must admit I don't know what the morrow will bring," President Novak said. "We have been in the real estate business here for more than twenty years, and that end of the business flourishes better than ever, but, candidly, I don't know where we stand on the banking business.

"We organized last December. The Lorimer bank became stockholders and our downtown depository. The Lorimer bank holds $115,000 of our funds. We tried to draw it down today, but were unable.

"There was no politics from our end of it. The Lorimer bank had deposits of $6,000,000, and then the attack began. First it was Mrs. Brady's suit against the state auditor, and the charges that there was a political affiliation between Brady and Lorimer. Next came the Coyne suit against Munday and Ward, officials of the Lorimer bank, and the assertion that Lorimer people were interested in the appointment of bank examiners. The people became alarmed and in two weeks $2,000,000 was drawn out. The strongest bank in the world could not withstand an attack like that.

"I hope everything will turn out for the best, but I am doubtful. I hope for the continued confidence of our customers, so we may be kept going. Of course, the whole matter practically rests on what success we have toward regaining that $115,000."

THREE "FED" BALL PLAYERS DEPOSIT IN BROADWAY BANK.

Art Wilson Has $1,000 in Institution, Rollie Zeider $700, Zwilling Has Salary, but They Play Game.

Three of Joe Tinker's star ball players were hit by yesterday's financial crash.

During the morning batting practice, Secretary Williams told the players the Broadway bank had closed its doors and asked if any of the boys had money in the north side bank.

Art Wilson dropped his bat and sank to the ground.

"I've got a thousand bucks in there," he groaned.

Rollie Zeider grew pale to the end of his nose as he told of having deposited there $700 of his salary, and "Little Aleck" Zwilling tremblingly admitted all his pay for the last month was there.

The three players were excused from further practice as Manager Tinker figured it would be impossible for them to think of baseball. They rushed to the bank, only to find the doors locked. In the afternoon they returned for the ball game in no fit mood to go on the field and battle with Baltimore team for first place.

While Tinker was wondering what to do, word was received at the park that the depositors of the Broadway State bank would be paid in full. Secretary Williams rushed to the bench with the news just before game time. The three stars played in the game. Six hits all told were made by the team. Wilson, Zeider, and Zwilling got four of the six.

MUNDAY'S GRAIN CONCERN QUITS

Board of Trade Announces the Suspension of Sidney Long & Co.

BANKER IN LONG'S PLACE.

Son Vice President and Seagrave Secretary of Brokerage Business.

The clearing house refused to accept a check on the La Salle bank for the day's trades of Sidney Long & Co., C. B. Munday's grain concern yesterday, so the board of trade announced the suspension of the company.

The concern was organized Sept. 6, 1911, with E. S. Hartman, Charles Bednors, and A. O. Bock as incorporators. Its capital stock was $25,000. The first board of directors consisted of Sidney Long, Arthur J. Liberman, and S. Percy Buchanan. Long held 150 shares of stock and Liberman and Buchanan fifty shares each.

Long's Place Taken by Munday.

Approximately two years ago Long withdrew from the concern and Munday came in. John K. Seagrave, chief clerk in the state auditor's office, formerly a Munday employé, insisted last night that Munday had no connection with the grain concern, but this assertion was refuted by Long.

"I sold my stock directly to C. B. Munday," he said. "He had been doing business with the concern for some time in connection with his mill at Litchfield."

J. G. Munday, son of the banker, was put in as vice president, and Seagrave was made secretary.

Witzel last night insisted that the concern was in good condition, with ample money in other banks, and would resume business in a few days. He said the firm owed the clearing house only $350.

Refusal Leads to Posting.

The refusal of the clearing house to accept the check tendered by the firm led to the posting on the board of trade of a notice that the concern had failed to pay its balance and the closing of open trades with the Sidney Long company followed.

Last night it was estimated that the open account of the firm amounted to as much as 3,000,000 bushels, but this was regarded as high.

DEPOSIT TAKEN; DATED BACK? MERCHANT MAKES COMPLAINT.

A. S. Boyer Says Illinois State Accepted $872 After Lorimer Bank Had Closed.

Alden S. Boyer, president of the Boyer Chemical Laboratory company, went to the Illinois State bank yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock to make a deposit. At that hour the bank examiner was in charge of the affiliated La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank.

"I deposited checks totaling $872 and the bank accepted them," Mr. Boyer told THE TRIBUNE in a telephone conversation from his residence at 1947 Montrose avenue last night. "But I afterward noticed the deposit was entered in my bank book as having been deposited on Thursday, the day before."

"Do you think it was done deliberately?" he was asked.

"It certainly doesn't look straight, does it?" he replied. "You know the law provides a term in the penitentiary for the banker who accepts deposits when he knows his bank is insolvent."

SUNK $500,000 IN TRACTION SCHEME

Lorimer's Construction Firm Backer of Southern Company of St. Louis.

RECEIVERS HAVE CHARGE

Part of Road in Operation, but Chicagoan Can't Realize on Expenditures.

St. Louis, Mo., June 12.—[Special.]—The Southern Traction company the corporation which Jeptha D. Howe, former Republican boss, used in his attempt to monopolize the free bridge across the Missouri river, and into which William Lorimer poured more than $500,000, played its part in bringing about the closing of the former senator's banks in Chicago.

When the St. Louis promoters conceived the idea of utilizing the free bridge the Southern Traction company, a purely paper road at the time, applied for and received a franchise to operate cars across the bridge and over a loop on St. Louis streets for fifty years. Jeptha D. Howe, who has been the "front" of the company in St. Louis, interested Lorimer in the venture.

Lorimer Construction Firm Smashed.

It was Lorimer's company—the Lorimer-Gallagher Construction company—that took the contract to construct the road. The franchise, which was granted in haste by the municipal assembly, and which has been the real reason for the refusal of the citizens to vote for the completion of the bridge, was considered so valuable Lorimer undertook the construction work, and never has been able to draw a cent.

At the time Lorimer began building the road it was believed all obstacles to its being a veritable gold mine had been overcome with the granting of the franchise. The road has been completed from East St. Louis to Belleville. The track parallels the Illinois Central, but work was recently stopped. The closing of the Lorimer bank in Chicago, revealing lack of funds, is taken as the reason why the construction work was not pushed.

Bonds Underwritten in London.

H. D. Mepham, one of the promoters of the Southern Traction company, went to London to arrange for the sale of bonds. He was successful in having a bond issued underwritten, but the proposed bondholders required a certain amount of construction work be done before the bonds could be marketed.

Lorimer's contract was that he was to do the work and was not to receive pay until he had completed the work section by section. After he had invested $500,000 or more in the work, and the bond issue was held up and the time limit for the work had expired, he experienced difficulty in obtaining funds to prosecute the work.

Troubles Over Franchise.

Then followed successive defeats of the bond issue in St. Louis to complete the bridge, and the climax came when the city council passed an ordinance cutting the life of the franchise from fifty years to twenty-five years. The house of delegates killed the bill only to pass another repealing the franchise totally. This bill was in turn killed by the council, but another repealing ordinance has been introduced in the house of delegates. It is now pending.

While the road has been completed between East St. Louis and Belleville for several months, it has not carried much traffic. Recently a small quantity of coal has been carried, but no effort has been made to transport passengers.

Howe Discusses Muddle.

"I don't know that the Southern Traction company had anything to do with the Lorimer financial muddle," Howe said today. "I know Lorimer has no interest in the Southern Traction other than that he was the contractor.

"He has put in $500,000 or $600,000 in cash for the work of construction, but aside from that he has not been financially interested. So far as I know he does not own any bonds or stock in the company.

"The road has been completed to Belleville, and four miles beyond. We are now hauling coal over the road, and by September we will be hauling passengers."

Unable to Recover Money.

Another man connected with the Southern Traction company, who would not permit the use of his name, said by the terms of the contract Lorimer could not receive pay for any of the construction work until a certain section had been completed. He said it was probable Lorimer's financial difficulties in Chicago had so hampered him that he could not complete the work and thus recover the sums he had already expended.

Lorimer was named one of the receivers for the Southern Traction company on March 6. Other receivers are James A. Hamilton, a banker of Marissa, Ill., and W. E. Crane, a director of the Title Guaranty Trust company of St. Louis.

Howe and others interested in the Southern Traction company insisted the closing of the Lorimer banks in Chicago would have no influence on the interest.

MISSING HUSBAND IS CAUGHT.

J. A. Lucas, Arrested in Detroit on Charge of Stealing $1,600 from His Employer

J. A. Lucas of 4619 North Western avenue, who was reported missing by his wife three weeks ago, was arrested yesterday in Detroit for larceny, according to the police. Mrs. Lucas was ignorant of the charges made against her husband by W. J. Kelly of 70 West Washington street, his employer, who told the police the missing man had taken $1,600 in rentals collected and not accounted for.

NEW YORK ECONOMIST SEES PERILS IN NEW BANK LAW.

Prof. Johnson of School of Commerce Warns Against Basing Credit on Credit to Extent of "Fiatism."

"The federal reserve banking system will bring perils as well as advantages," said Prof. Joseph French Johnson, dean of the New York University School of Commerce, in discussing that law at a dinner of the Western Efficiency society in the Auditorium hotel last night.

"The greatest peril," said Prof. Johnson, "will be the liability to inflation either by an excessive issue of notes or by excessive rediscounts.

"It is morally certain that the people in general and many bankers also will look upon the new federal reserve notes as being as good as gold, and many state banking institutions will count them as reserve money.

"The state of New York in its new banking act expressly declares that the reserve of state banks must not include federal reserve notes, but there is no such prohibition in the laws of other states. Hence there is danger that we shall have credit based upon credit, and that these new federal reserve notes which are guaranteed by the government, will be tainted with real 'fiatism.'"

Girl Caught in Wagon Wheel.

Lucille Brady, 5 years old, 2714 East Ninety-sixth street, was injured fatally last night while attempting to steal a ride on a wagon at East Ninety-sixth street and Manistee avenue. Her feet became caught in one of the wheels.

"NO BOSS CAN CONTROL ME," KELLER STARTS CAMPAIGN.

Ava Man Announcing Candidacy for United States Senator Asserts He Belongs to No Faction.

State Senator Kent E. Keller of Ava yesterday formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

"I invite," said Senator Keller in a lengthy platform recital, "the consideration of all who are looking for an available man, one who can start off with his own section solidly behind him and that section containing one-fourth of the counties of the state.

"I am just a plain Democrat. I belong ot no faction. No machine can direct me. No boss can control me. I am absolutely free. I seek to serve the whole people. I have no other motive in entering this race."

Weddings of Today

The steady demands for the unusual and unique constrains us to introduce again the old fashioned idea of 30 years ago. The yoke of flowers, lovers' knots of lilies, fans, umbrellas and staffs of roses and other flowers are unquestionably in favor for the weddings of today.

We have in our window for five days (commencing June 15 to 20 inclusive) a complete setting for such a wedding and it is readily seen how such a decoration is quite sufficient in itself, making the addition of many palms and ferns superfluous.

The necessity for knowing one's profession was never more fully realized than in the florist's business—the artful placing of material doing away with the handling of a quantity.

Careful, courteous, efficient and satisfactory service, eliminating confusion, breakage, wear and tear.

Large or small orders given the same careful attention.

Wedding flowers have always been a specialty with us.

Positively the largest varieties of fine, fresh flowers.

The $1 box of cut flowers contains, for one week, from three to four dozen short stemmed roses.

POLITICS AND LOVE FACTORS IN SMASH OF "HIGH" FINANCE

Fall of Lorimer-Munday Banks Precipitated by Woman's Suit Against Brady.

THEN CAME DISCLOSURES

Insehill and State Auditor's Woes Entangled in the Network of Fate.

It was on April 26, 1909, that the Illinois legislature "elected" William Lorimer to the United States senate. Mr. Lorimer secured five more than enough votes to break the famous deadlock.

Running about the floor of the house, bossing the job, was a short, thick chested man from a small town in Illinois. Set into his shoulders was a big head from which looked a pair of light gray eyes. He posed as a Democrat, and it developed that he had considerable influence with a coterie of downstate Democrats who were whipped into the lineup that voted for William Lorimer, a Republican.

Munday Gets Reward.

One year later the thick, short man had realized his ambition—to come up from the small towns and break into La Salle street. The man was C. B. Munday. Mr. Lorimer became president of the bank, Mr. Munday was taken in as his vice president. The first list of stockholders displayed a notable list of the members of the Illinois legislature. They had voted for Mr. Lorimer for the senate.

Coincident to the organization of the La Salle Street National bank, and quite by chance, THE TRIBUNE printed the confession of Charles A. White to the effect that many of the legislators who voted Lorimer into the senate had been paid to do so.

Munday Begins to Dominate.

Mr. Lorimer lost his seat in the senate two years later. He continued to remain as president of the La Salle bank, the supervision of which recently was changed from national to state.

But Mr. Munday fast worked into a position of dominance.

Mr. Munday organized four more banks in Chicago last year. They also were under state supervision. In each one of the banks Mr. Munday induced the city of Chicago to deposit $100,000 or more of its funds. Then each of the four little banks was induced to "find" its deposits into the La Salle Street Trust and Savings.

Lorimer Crowded Out.

Gradually Mr. Munday, the vice president, crowded out Mr. Lorimer, the president. On June 3 a report indicated that Mr. Munday owned, in his own name, 2,606 shares in the bank. Mr. Lorimer and his sons were reduced to ownership of 920 shares. Mr. Lorimer's sons were forced out of the bank.

That was the situation up to 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Then the four banks closed. The stirring events, leading up to the closing, run in logical chapters.

The Story of C. B. Munday.

Munday is the son of C. B. Munday of Litchfield, Ill., a venerable and venerated justice of the peace.

The banker's first job as a small boy in the town of Litchfield, where he was born and reared, was as a messenger for the Western Union office in a railway station.

The messenger boy became an operator and ultimately manager of the Litchfield Western Union office.

Working at the key, Munday heard the gossip of the wires and the chatter of big business. He became interested in the grain market and began to buy grain in a small way. That was the beginning of his financial career and the remarkable rise which finds him today the head of some twenty business institutions, with a fortune built in a little more than ten years.

Goes Into Elevator Business.

In 1890 Munday left the telegraph service and entered the firm of D. Q. Settlemire & Co., an elevator concern, which became Munday, Settlemire & Co. With the retirement of Settlemire Munday came into control of the business under the name of C. B. Munday & Co., with grain elevators in Litchfield, Moro, Bethalto, Butler, Barnett, Waggoner, Farmersville, and other towns, and with a mill at Litchfield. This mill until recently enjoyed large state contracts.

In 1902 Munday, with the Mercantile Trust company in Litchfield, organized a company and bought out the M. M. Martin & Co. private bank there, naming it the Litchfield Bank aand Trust company.

Munday took a dip into the drug business by organizing the Litchfield Drug company. In 1907 he organized the First State and Savings bank of Litchfield—now the Litchfield National bank. Officers of both of those institutions yesterday declared Munday was no longer interested in them.

Organizes Many Other Banks.

But while a Litchfield banker Munday, armed with the knowledge of the territory gained in his grain business, went into the towns of Bethalto, East Alton, Highland, Marine, Smithboro, Alhambra, Ocanee, Mount Olive, and Pierron, all in Illinois, and organized banks, most of which he is said to control yet.

It was in 1909 that Munday—the small town magnate—got his opening in Chicago. The La Salle Street National bank, which became the La Salle Street Trust and Savings, was organized with Munday and William Lorimer as the heads of the institution. Considerable blocks of the stock were sold in Litchfield. Then Munday sent for Litchfield friends and employes.

Among those he brought to Chicago was E. Joseph Potts, who took a place in the La Salle Street bank, and John K. Seagrave, once an elevator clerk for Munday and now chief clerk in State Auditor Brady's office at $5,000 a year.

The Story of Rosehill Cemetery

The revelations of the way in which C. B. Munday and others bought up the control of the Rosehill cemetery and were alleged to have manipulated the securities, made in THE TRIBUNE a month ago, were a surprise to the most hardened wielders of "high finance" on La Salle street.

Munday was the man who financed the purchase of the cemetery control from the Kilian V. R. Lansingh estate two years ago. Associated with him were Harry W. Huttig, a manufacturer of Muscatine, Ia., and a director of the La Salle street bank; Joseph O. Morris, an attorney; Jess A. Briegel, a bond salesman, and Frederick L. Reynolds.

According to the receivership petition, a cash payment of $96,000 was all that was needed to obtain the control. The remainder of the purchase price of $867,208 was to be paid in semi-annual installments.

Perpetual Care Fund Involved.

It was further charged in the petition for a receiver that the five men who chose themselves directors so planned to manipulate the investments of the fund set aside for the perpetual care of the cemetery that they could soon pay off the purchase price.

It was declared the Cemetery Securities company was organized as a holding company for the majority stock and with this end in view.

The Community Mausoleum company also was organized, it was charged, for the purpose of constructing a mausoleum and speculating with the assets of the cemetery company.

A fund of nearly $800,000, invested in permanent securities, was held by the cemetery company for the care of the cemetery company. THE TRIBUNE and the receivership petition disclosed the fact that many changes were made in this fund after the five directors assumed control. In many cases money from the fund was placed where it would result to the financial gain of the directors.

Among "Inside" Investments.

Among the "inside" investments made were the following:

La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank certificates of deposit	$230,416.00
C. B. Munday's Smithboro, Ill., bank	71,575.86
Litchfield Milling and Elevator company; C. B. Munday, president	100,000.00
Huttig Manufacturing company; H. W. Huttig, president	60,000.00
Loan to wife of Director Reynolds	20,000.00
Loan to Director Morris	5,500.00
Bonds of companies in which Munday was interested	60,000.00
Securities bought from Munday's bank at excessive cost	237,795.00

Briegel resigned as a director last year after he is said to have "cleaned up" $40,000 in the cemetery business. His place was taken by J. K. Seagrave, a former clerk in Munday's Litchfield mills. Seagrave also was made a director of the Cemetery Securities company and Truax, Greene & Co., drug dealers, of which Munday was president.

The Dope Investigation.

Truax, Greene & Co., 171 North Wabash avenue, is one of the oldest medical supply houses in the middle west. It was founded by Charles H. Truax in Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Under the guidance of Mr. Truax the business grew until it occupied one of the most important places in the medical commercial field. About eight years ago Dr. Greene, who had been traveling for the company, decided to take a more active interest in its affairs.

Truax Quits the Concern.

In the meantime Mr. Truax saw how things were going and severed all connection with the concern.

At the time E. Russell Greene became president, there were outstanding notes of between $70,000 and $80,000. These had been indorsed by his father and were in turn indorsed by him. The Lorimer bank held the notes and controlling interest and Greene dropped out.

Last week city officials gave the company the unsavory reputation of being the largest distributer of cocaine in the central west. The city seized the company's books and found page after page of registered sales of drugs without prescriptions. Suit was filed against the concern last Wednesday by Assistant Corporation Counsel George L. Reker. On the same day, John J. Conroy, inspector for the state board of pharmacy, swooped down on the company's offices and had two clerks arrested for selling cocaine without prescriptions. Their bonds were signed by Mr. Munday.

The Woman in the Case.

Mary Quinlan Kuhns Brady said yesterday that she felt like Mrs. O'Leary's famous cow. "At first I felt like a dog that had been kicked out, but when I observe what my suit against Brady has stirred up, I begin to feel like the cow that started the Chicago fire," she said.

Starts with Kuhns Divorce.

Mrs. Mary Quinlan Kuhns divorced her husband, a telegrapher friend of Brady, in Chicago, April 26, 1913. Two days later Brady and the divorcée were married in Detroit, Mich., despite the provision of the Illinois statute which forbids remarriage within one year of divorce.

For a time Brady kept the marriage a secret, but ultimately the wife was introduced into the official family in the state capital and became a figure in Springfield's social life. They parted some months ago and the "Michigan wife" came to Chicago. About two weeks ago she filed a suit against Brady for $50,000, charging him with breach of promise to rewed to validate their clandestine marriage in Detroit.

With the filing of the suit came the woman's story, telling of Brady's life as a bartender and a telegrapher in the background of his political career. She told of relatives placed on the pay roll of the state auditor's office.

Upon the heels of the breach of promise suit sensation came the filing of a $20,000 suit for slander by John H. Coyne against Brady, C. B. Munday of the La Salle street bank, and Charles E. Ward, secretary to William Lorimer.

Coyne was a telegrapher associate of Brady and became his campaign manager. Coyne was appointed a state bank examiner by Brady at $5,000 a year, only later to be discharged. The terms of that discharge and motives behind are defined in Coyne's allegations of slander.

Tilden, and Roger Sullivan. He also charges that the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank contributed $3,000 to Brady's campaign fund, that Tilden of the Drovers' National and the Drovers' Trust and Savings banks gave $2,500, and Sullivan $500.

Among Coyne's charges is the assertion that Munday and Ward said he, as campaign manager, had received funds for which he gave no accounting.

Millionaire Property Owner, Said to Rent House for Immoral Resort, Faces Court Today.

Washington Porter, who owns $4,000,000 in Chicago real estate, was arrested at his home yesterday by Detective Sergeant Joseph McGuire and released on a $400 bond signed by himself after being booked at a police station.

Mr. Porter is charged with renting property for immoral purposes. He will be arraigned in the Morals court this morning. The warrant was issued by Municipal Judge Uhlir at the instance of the Rev. E. L. Williams of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, who alleges that Mr. Porter is the owner of property at the southeast corner of North Clark and West Chestnut streets. The top floor is occupied by the Medinah hotel, which the Rev. Mr. Williams alleges is an immoral resort.

Residents in Chestnut street in the vicinity of the Medinah hotel are elated over the action of the Rev. Mr. Williams.

"He is going to have lots of help," said W. C. Bickard. Harry Field, C. B. Carpenter, A. J. Roskops, J. A. Craig, and others in the neighborhood know the character of the place and intend telling about it in court.

LAND RAFFLE MAN IN FEDERAL NET

Mack K. Higginbottom Arrested on Warrant Charging Misuse of the Mails.

HAS SUMPTUOUS OFFICE.

Sale of "Ozark Fruit Lands" Held to Be Lottery Scheme by Government.

Mack K. Higginbottom, a promoter of the Railroads Unimproved Land association, yesterday was arrested by federal officials on a warrant charging use of the mails in a "get-rich-quick" land lottery. A warrant also was issued against Frank A. Urwan, a partner of Higginbottom.

District Attorney Wilkerson ordered a grand jury investigation of the alleged land swindle. Higginbottom was arraigned before United States Commissioner Foote, who continued the hearing until today. The defendant was released on $5,000 bonds.

The concern maintains sumptuous offices covering half of the fourteenth floor of the Great Northern building. Twenty stenographers are employed to take care of the voluminous correspondence carried on with alleged victims. Assistant District Attorney Garfield Charles and David D. Stansbury, in charge of the grand jury inquiry, said the operations of the two men comprise one of the greatest land lottery schemes ever brought to the attention of the government.

"No Chance for You to Lose."

The company has advertised extensively throughout the country inviting the "land hungry" to send in $15 and get in on the "most wonderful and remarkable land opening" in the world. There is "no chance for you to lose," the advertisements read.

The land, according to the ads, is located in Missouri, near the Ozark mountains, and comprises 70,000 acres of choice, unimproved farm and fruit lands. The $15 is for "registration." A drawing is held out as a bait and in this drawing there will be distributed 160, 80, 40, 20, and 10 acre tracts.

A 3,000 acre orchard is to be planted by the company, according to the ads, and $450,000 is to be spent in improvements. A stock company is to be formed to control the orchard. Those among the "land hungry" who fail to draw a tract of land will be given 100 shares of stock in the orchard.

One of the Letters.

All of these "wonderful opportunities" are enumerated in letters sent to alleged victims. One letter, sent to Lincoln Payne of Danville, Ill., a complainant, reads:

"The payment of $15 also further includes the preparing and delivery of a deed of abstract to you, if you secure land, and the delivery of stock certificates if you secure stock. You do not know in advance and neither do we whether you will receive land or stock, but you will get one or the other. You cannot lose!"

The stock certificates, according to the ads, will be executed by the association and the Old Colony Trust and Savings bank. Not the least suspicious thing about the "stupendous land opening," according to District Attorney Wilkerson, is the fact that there is no time set when the drawing will take place. But for the intervention of the government the company might have gone on indefinitely receiving $15 registration fees.

WIFE OF GEORGE BROADHURST, PLAYWRIGHT, WINS SEPARATION

New York Court Awards Her $10,000 a Year—Charged Husband Was Too Familiar with Actress.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ida Raymond Broadhurst obtained a separation in the Supreme court today from George Broadhurst, author of "Bought and Paid For," "The Man of the Hour," and other successful plays.

Justice Giegerich granted the petition of Mrs. Broadhurst on her own testimony that her husband deserted her, Broadhurst not appearing in court to defend the suit.

The Broadhursts were married in 1887 in Chicago, when the husband was a clerk on the board of trade. They lived together sixteen years. They have two children. Mrs. Broadhurst said that without cause or provocation Broadhurst left her one day after kissing her and bidding her "goodby," and never returned to live with her.

In filing her complaint she complained that her husband had been spending much time in the company of Diva Merolda, an actress, and that in seven years he had earned $342,516 by his dramatic work, but had only $125,000 left.

The court awarded Mrs. Broadhurst $10,000 a year pending the trial of her suit, and it is possible that this amount may be continued as permanent alimony.

"BACK ROOM" FOES WIN POINT

Council Subcommittee Would Put Limit on Partitions.

COUGHLIN IS VOTED DOWN.

Height Settled at Three and One-Half Feet as Compromise.

Women advocates of "back room" reform gained another step toward victory yesterday. A subcommittee of the judiciary committee of the council recommended an ordinance regulating booths in connection with saloon rooms to which women are admitted.

Under the provisions of the ordinance the entrance sides of every such booth must be entirely open and the sides—except that formed by the wall when the booth is of that type—must not exceed three and one-half feet in height. These restrictions, it is believed, will make the conduct of the occupants of a stall visible by all other persons in the room. The height limit fixed is approximately that of an ordinary chair.

Coughlin in Opposition.

The only discussion in the subcommittee session had to do with this phase of the subject. Ald. John Coughlin opposed the speakers of the Chicago South Side club, which initiated the campaign for this reform. He was voted down by his associates. The ordinance now goes to the entire committee for action.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Hornstein's draft of the ordinance named the maximum height as five feet.

"I believe it should not be over three feet," said Mrs. Russell H. Opdyke.

"Well, compromise and make it four feet, then," interrupted Coughlin.

"If that is your position," said Ald. John Kjellander, "a real compromise would be three and one-half feet."

On the suggestion of Chairman W. O. Nance he presented that compromise in the form of a motion and it was adopted.

Proposal Satisfies Women.

"We are well satisfied so far," said Mrs. Emily M. Harter. "This ordinance will do much to curtail the evil of the secret booths. We would have liked to secure the three foot limitation, but this compromise is satisfactory to us."

While the ordinance does not affect barrooms and other rooms to which women are not admitted, its passage will require alterations in the fixtures of a large number of restaurants and cafés. Many booths now used are five, six, and even seven feet in height.

NEGRO HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH; HIS EMPLOYER HER FRIEND.

Capt. Reese of Baltimore Admits He Was Probably Last Person Seen with Stenographer Victim.

Baltimore, Md., June 12.—[Special.]—Capt. D. Meredith Reese Jr., yachtsman and lawyer of this city, who admits he was probably the last person to see Ella G. Winter, a stenographer, alive, is now the central figure in the most sensational mystery Baltimore has had for years. The police believe Miss Winter was murdered, and one arrest in the case already has been made.

John Rice, a negro cook on Reese's houseboat, is under arrest. He denied any knowledge of how Miss Winter came to her death.

Reese until today maintained that the girl's death must have been accidental. This afternoon he is said to have admitted that there may be some ground for the theory of suicide, but insisted he was not the cause.

"A year ago there may have been cause for jealousy," he said, "but not recently. There was no other girl."

Report says there was another girl on the Reese houseboat on the night Miss Winter disappeared. Friends of the girl today said they had heard Miss Winter declare she felt despondent because she had no hope of becoming Capt. Reese's wife.

HOYNE REFUSES TO GIVE NAMES

Will Not Tell President McCormick Who Oak Forest Patients Are.

AFFAIR CALLED FRAMEUP

Head of County Board Skeptical Over Charges of Cruelty.

State's Attorney Hoyne yesterday refused to supply President A. A. McCormick of the county board with the names of the patients and attendants at the Oak Forest infirmary involved in the charges of cruelty investigated by Commissioner Daniel J. Harris and Assistant State's Attorney Charles Center Case.

Lack of a quorum prevented a meeting of the board called during the morning by President McCormick. Commissioner Harris, who is chairman of the roads and bridges committee, asserted it would be impossible for him and other members of the committee to be present at the board meeting, as a session had been arranged with township highway commissioners. President McCormick, however, declared the absence of Harris and the others proved the Oak Forest charges were a "frameup."

Writes to Hoyne.

Mr. McCormick then wrote a letter to Mr. Hoyne asking for the names of the patients who claimed they were badly treated and for the names of the accused attendants, in order that charges might be filed against them before the civil service commission or criminal prosecution begun.

Mr. Hoyne replied that it would be impossible for him to furnish the information desired, as it might hamper contemplated prosecution of the guilty parties. He, in turn, asked that Mr. McCormick turn over to him any information in his possession of mistreatment of Oak Forest infirmary patients.

He pointed out that the Oak Forest committee of the county board, headed by Commissioner Harris, was the proper agency to conduct an investigation. He said that when his own and that committee's investigations were completed he would be very glad to turn over the information desired.

Indorse Investigation.

Following the meeting of the roads and bridges committee Commissioner Harris called a meeting of the Oak Forest committee and had a resolution adopted indorsing the investigation being conducted by the committee. This resolution, which asks the board to approve and ratify the committee's inquiry, will be presented to the board for adoption this morning.

"No investigation of this Oak Forest matter can be too sweeping to suit me, provided it reaches the guilty parties, if any," was President McCormick's only comment on the resolution.

THOMAS DOLAN, MILLIONAIRE OF PHILADELPHIA, DIES AT 79.

Fortune Is Estimated at Between $20,000,000 and $35,000,000—Was a Self-Made Man.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 12.—Thomas Dolan, for many years president of the United Gas Improvement company and one of the wealthiest men in Philadelphia, died at his home in Torresdale, a suburb, today. He was 79 years old. Mr. Dolan's fortune is estimated at between $20,000,000 and $35,000,000.

It was as a manufacturer that Mr. Dolan made his earlier success, but twenty years ago his talents were diverted to the broader fields of corporate finagleering. He long was in the public eye as a street railway magnate, a member of the famous Widener-Elkins-Dolan syndicate.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—Embarrassed by a shortage of approximately $25,000,000 in the revenue derived from the personal income tax, Secretary McAdoo today instructed the internal revenue bureau to begin an investigation immediately for the purpose of discovering and prosecuting tax dodgers.

The failure of the income tax returns to equal the estimates of the treasury department at the time the law was drawn will leave the administration with a deficit of approximately $7,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Surplus to Be Wiped Out.

There will be a surplus of $30,000,000 over ordinary expenditures, but this will be wiped out entirely by the Panama canal payments, approximating $37,000,000, for which, however, the government may reimburse the treasury by the sale of bonds.

It was reported exclusively in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE some weeks ago the revenue derived from the income tax was many millions short of the estimate of the treasury department. At that time Secretary McAdoo declared the report false, and intimated that the returns would be more than the estimates.

Expects to Uncover Delinquents.

In his formal statement tonight, however, he says:

"The personal income tax assessments to date are $30,750,000, which is $23,250,000 less than the estimate. The department is convinced that many liable to the income tax have failed to make returns and that many have made inaccurate returns. Active steps will be taken to discover all evasions of the law, and a large additional amount of income tax undoubtedly will be collected from these delinquents."

STAGE CHILDREN WILL AID ICE FUND

Juveniles of 'Daddy Longlegs' Company Plan to Give a Benefit.

ARE OFF TO ALGONQUIN.

Sixty Careworn Mothers and Children Leave Monday for Summer Outing.

"I'd like to show Mr. Standing how to play his part," remarked Master Dewey Smith, one of the juveniles in the "Daddy Long Legs" company.

"I'm sure I could play Miss Chatterton's part," replied Miss Ruth McVine.

"O, wouldn't it be great if they'd let us give a performance?" exclaimed little Virginia Smith, clapping her hands.

"And, say, we could give it for the benefit of the little slum babies that THE TRIBUNE helps so much with its ice fund," chimed in little Miss Lillian Ross.

Children Fix It Up.

Several little curly heads got together, with the result that six expectant children danced in to see Henry Miller, manager of the company. Mr. Miller capitulated under the volley of childish pleadings and said he would give his consent if Mr. Powers could be won over. Away the children tripped to see Harry J. Powers, manager of the theater. And so it was all arranged, and half an hour later the children came over to THE TRIBUNE office.

"It's all fixed," said Miss McVine. "We're going to give a performance of 'Daddy Long Legs' for the benefit of THE TRIBUNE ice fund."

No date has been set for the performance. The rôle of Judy, played by Miss Ruth Chatterton, will be interpreted by Miss McVine. Master Dewey Smith will take Guy Standing's part of Daddy Long Legs. The others who will take parts are Lillian Ross, Virginia Smith, Gladys Smith, and Ethel Wichmann.

Sixty to Algonquin Monday.

On Monday sixty careworn mothers and sickly children will be taken to the hospital maintained at Algonquin for convalescent women and children through subscriptions to THE TRIBUNE fund for this purpose. They will be the first group to be given an outing this year.

The train will leave on the Chicago and Northwestern road at 11:50 a. m. It will be in charge of William Austin of the United Charities. The Northwestern road has furnished transportation free. On Tuesday another group of thirty women and children will be taken to Algonquin and a like number on Wednesday.

Tango Tea a Success.

The tango tea benefit for THE TRIBUNE'S free ice fund proved an attraction to more than 500 people at the Hotel Sherman yesterday. Many visitors to the biennial embraced the opportunity to see the new dances for the first time. The Furlana was danced by Miss Suzanne Carter and Roland McDougal, and the Argentine by Miss Elinor Evans and Frank Wadsworth.

The program shifted from a tango tea to continuous vaudeville. Mrs. J. Olde Mitchell appeared with an unexpected specialty, "That Old Man of Mine," which was greatly admired.

The poetic fantasy, "Killing Time," by Mrs. Mary Moncure Parker, was received with enthusiasm. The one act play became a four act play by repetition. William Owen took the part of the poet. He looked for inspiration from a bird, a butterfly, and found it in Phyllis, played by Miss Josephine Lewis. J. W. McConnell impersonated Father Time.

Father Time was the Nemesis of the poet and Phyllis. In a week's time Phyllis was made a hag by Father Time's power. Then the poet spurned her and she left him to his egotism and his spring song.

RIBOT PREMIER FOR ONE DAY.

Defeated on First Vote in French Chamber of Deputies and Resigns Office.

PARIS, June 12.—The new French cabinet, of which Senator Ribot was premier, was defeated today in the first division taken in the new chamber of deputies, by a vote of 306 to 262. The premier immediately resigned. He had held office but one day.

"ROBS" AMERICAN OF MASTERPIECE

Picture Owned by Mrs. Hamilton Fish Expropriated by Italian Official.

MORETTO DO BRESCIA ART

Put Export Valuation of $100 on Painting That Cost Her Late Husband $4,000.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, June 12.—By the peculiar working of the Italian law dealing with the exportation of art works the government has expropriated Mrs. Hamilton Fish of New York of a painting by Moretto da Brescia which her late husband purchased for $4,000.

On returning to America about two years ago Mrs. Fish, who was unfamiliar with the intricacies of the law, gave an offhand valuation of $100 on the masterpiece, and one of the government experts, recognizing the value of the painting, exercised his right of preemption under the law and purchased the picture for that sum.

The particulars of the story how Mrs. Fish was deprived of her picture were only imperfectly known until Henry St. John-Mildmay, a lawyer of Milan, wrote a letter to the editor of the Perseveranza explaining what he had to do with the case.

Mr. St. John-Mildmay says that he was asked by the American authorities to examine the case from a legal standpoint and that he had to admit that the Italian law had been applied to the letter and consequently Mrs. Fish had no action against the government.

The lawyer deplores the fact that Mrs. Fish had not been warned about the government's right to buy the picture and points out that the procedure followed by the exportation office looked much like a ruse to surprise the good faith and ignorance of third parties.

SOUND BANKS.

Chicago furnished to the country yesterday a reassuring example of bank strength and public confidence.

The collapse of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank and of the string of city and country banks affiliated with it did not even cause a ripple in financial circles. Banks which had heard of the impending catastrophe had increased their cash reserves to meet any extraordinary demand, but this precaution was unnecessary.

The public understood that the condition of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank was exceptional and in no way affected or represented the condition of other depositories.

Chicago and Chicagoans have been very fortunate in the character of the community's bankers. Indeed, the middle west is fortunate in the solidity of the Chicago banks.

Sound financial institutions are the anchors of prosperity.

Chicago's financial institutions furnish a safeguard that extends far beyond the city's limits.

JUST PORK.

River and harbor "improvements" are only a part of the pork barrel. Public buildings are more pork. Against this phase of the great pork barrel graft the June issue of the Journal of the American Institute of Architects contains some vigorous remarks. Quoting Postmaster General Burleson's protest against expenditures in this field, the Journal says:

Mr. Burleson presents tables from which we quote five instances as exhibiting gross inconsistencies in the matter of appropriations:

	Area, square feet.	Appr'tion,
Wilkesboro, N. C., postoffice and courthouse	4,500	$ 58,000
Opelika, Ala., postoffice and courthouse	4,500	105,000
Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, postoffice and courthouse	7,000	86,800
Amarillo, Tex., postoffice and courthouse	7,000	199,999
Corpus Christi, Tex., postoffice and courthouse	10,000	181,000

It must be equally evident to the architect and business man that appropriations so widely at variance for structures of the same accommodation are not rational.

But it is rational—most carefully reasoned—only the reasons are selfish political reasons. The inequalities of expenditure on public buildings are inequalities of "pull." The hands of the stronger or greedier or more ruthless get the larger pieces of pork.

It is time to make an end of the pork barrel graft.

A SOLUTION AT LAST?

Carranza, it is reported to THE TRIBUNE from Washington, has asked for the aid of the United States in the pacification of Mexico. He has asked that this nation do for his country what it has done successfully in Cuba—restore order, supervise elections, sustain the government thus established, and maintain order by the promise of its renewed intervention in case of revolution.

If this report accurately sets forth Carranza's proposals, he must be regarded as a far sighted Mexican. The United States ought to be, and we believe is, ready to establish this sort of a protectorate over its distressed southern neighbor, insuring the stability of decent government, the protection of legitimate property interests, the security of life, the correcting of peon wrongs, the elimination of the military adventurer, and the restoration of peace.

We ought to be ready to give the Mexicans such self-government as they prove themselves able to maintain. We have seen the need of requiring that their government be orderly. We can do for Mexico what we have done for Cuba.

We ought to be, and it is to be believed that we are, willing to do it upon the same conditions. The Platt amendment is a protection to orderly Cuba. A spot in the western hemisphere which vexed the heavens and tried men's souls is quiet. Another such spot may be quieted by the same means.

UP TO FATHER.

A former mayor of Green Bay, testifying before the Wisconsin vice commission, uses unusual candor in discussing the subject of public morals. Two of his statements deserve the special attention of all those interested in moral betterment. The ex-mayor expressed it as his opinion, according to dispatches, that "houses of prostitution were necessary and should be regulated." The other thing he strongly believed in is that it is "the duty of each man to look after his own family."

Exception will be taken to his first statement. Regulation of vice is pretty generally declared to be a failure. But nothing but approval must be had for the latter statement, which shifts the problem of vice largely to the shoulders of parents. Millions of Americans oppose socialism on the ground that it would dissolve the present status of the family. They speak feelingly about the nobility of home life and the necessity of preserving the present day family ties at all hazards. Yet many of these very people give their families, their children, little or no attention. Instead of looking after the mental and moral development of his son or daughter, the father leaves all responsibility for the training of his children to the school and for the guidance of their morals to all sorts of commissions and committees.

Much of the present day agitation for morals commissions, many of the periodic campaigns on vice by professional campaigners, by paid guardians of public morals, would be unnecessary if every father looked after his own son and every mother after her own daughter.

GOETHE.

It is certain that no man living one hundred years ago transmitted so much of his thought to the present generation; it is certain that more than Newton, more than Kant, more even than Voltaire and Rousseau, Goethe became the prophet of the nineteenth century.

When Goethe was a young man Europe had just begun to question its stock of traditional inheritances and to proclaim Reason as the new god of mankind. Reason would drag the absolute monarch from his throne; Reason would end the intolerance of the church; Reason would abolish all legal wrong and set the crooked straight. It looked as easy as any problem in arithmetic, if only men agreed to be valued at fixed figures and, giving up their ancient obstinacy, let themselves be added and multiplied in the interest of a mechanical philanthropy! It is this rationalistic view of human nature that led to many of the false hopes and illusions of the French revolution, on which movement Goethe, just arrived at ripe manhood, turned his back with something like disgust, but also with the firm confidence that the edifice of human liberty could and would be erected on a nobler foundation. Reason indeed has its inspiring function, but what place shall be given to Imagination, Emotion, Beauty, Humor, and, yes, even to Tradition?

Man is man, said Goethe in effect, not a mechanical toy; a creature of many possibilities and infinite powers, not one of which must be neglected if a rich and rounded personality was to be attained and his great adventure, in the end of things, be crowned with fruition. Man—the whole man—resigning nothing, claiming everything, center and sum of all energy and every aspiration—such is the banner which the German poet raised for a sign and a covenant over the threshold of the nineteenth century.

To mention Goethe is to think of "Faust," in which poem the modern man is portrayed and his great destiny forecast. Goethe's masterpiece was published (first part) in 1808, and it is really remarkable how no development since then which has been threaded into the essential fabric of our experience lies outside the Goetbean formula. Goethe could not divine Darwin, but he certainly anticipated evolution. Nietzsche's Superman, the end of man's desire, is not only implied throughout, but even mentioned in Nietzsche's express phrase, der Uebermensch. Our own Whitman's democracy, not of mere institutions but of free and loving individuals, is hailed with glad prophecy. Finally, the world's recent faith in social service is proclaimed ("Faust," second part) as the only justification of existence. If man lives no longer for God—the God of the creeds—he must live for Man, in whom God is made manifest. Is there a more memorable scene in modern poetry than where Faust, after a life spent in search of happiness—a very personal, a too personal, happiness—finds at last complete and passionate satisfaction in self-forgetting work for others? What a triumphant chant those words before he dies: "Nur der verdient sich Freiheit wie das Leben der taeglich sie erobern muss! (Only he deserves freedom and even life itself who conquers them each day anew!)

In an earlier scene Faust broods over the gospel of St. John and tries to penetrate to the depth of that announcement which has puzzled so many: "In the beginning was the Word." He lets his mind play over the thought, suggesting this and that interpretation, until he confidently strikes out the phrase: "Im Anfang war die That!" (In the beginning was the deed—such a poor rendering of the German "That," which is both abstract and concrete). Was Goethe, in thus celebrating the value of action and experiment, anticipating pragmatism, as he anticipated so much else that is of the essence of modernity? Be that as it may, Faust's joyful cry touches a chord in the heart of all alive, and more particularly of us Chicagoans who, apparently busy with the little achievements of each day, are nevertheless buoyed up and supported by the earnest faith in the vastly greater achievements that are to follow.

If any word of Goethe's is to appear on the pedestal of the great memorial which the Germans of the city have given to Lincoln park, one hopes it may be the splendid pronouncement in which every citizen as he goes by will find simply and gloriously reaffirmed his own highest faith: "Im Anfang war die That!"

OATMEAL AND BEANS.

[From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

According to investigations just completed at Harvard, oatmeal possesses the highest food value of any of the commoner restaurant offerings, considering the price as well as the quantity of nutrition. Second comes pork and beans. Even pie—restaurant pie—has a high standing. At the bottom of the list tomatoes are placed, worth less at their price than any other form of restaurant fodder.

Of course, such well known articles of food as pate de foie gras, Perigord truffles, artichokes, pickled eels, and alligator pears are not included. Considering both cost and value, they would come so far below tomatoes as to be lost to sight.

On the whole the hearty average American will not quarrel with the findings. He usually likes pie. He is not averse to oatmeal. And as for the beans, here is a veritable Harvard and Boston triumph.

MERIT OF BABY FOODS.

MOST babies get mother's milk until they are 8 months old. Many babies are not so fortunate, however. There is a very large group, composed in part of babies under 8 months and in part of the older babies, which must depend on cow's milk and other baby foods.

In this group there are two smaller groups that do not thrive on cow's milk. These are: Babies who can get nothing but ordinary city raw milk and babies in whose homes there are no facilities for keeping the milk cold. It matters not whether the milk be certified, pasteurized or raw, it will not keep unless it be cold.

Some of these families can be provided with ice. Where ice is not available, then what? Evaporated milk, condensed milk, or some baby food.

Whenever we study statistics relating to baby welfare we find a disproportionate sickness rate among the babies fed on these foods. But we must remember that these comparisons are between the babies on mother's milk, iced milk, and uniced condensed milk. A fairer study would be between babies fed on uniced raw milk and babies fed on uniced condensed milk and uniced baby foods. But no baby doctor would dare feed a baby on raw cow's milk kept uniced. It would be too risky.

It all comes back to this: In those homes where the choice lies between warm milk and baby foods, the lesser evil is the condensed or evaporated milk and the baby foods. Or to put it differently, if a mother cannot get ice to keep the milk during the hot days she had better give her baby some form of canned food.

As between the two kinds of milk, evaporated or condensed, some will prefer the one, some the other. Condensed milk is evaporated at a low temperature. Not all bacteria are killed. The milk is then preserved by adding to it 40 per cent of its volume of cane sugar. The few feeble bacteria present are restrained by the sugar. Evaporated milk is evaporated at a higher temperture in a vacuum pan. No sugar or other preservative is added. It must be sterile, else it is not marketable.

ALBUMIN IN URINE.

R. I. E. writes: "Does a slight trace of albumin in the urine, say one-tenth of 1 per cent, indicate much? What general diet is prescribed for cases of this kind?"

REPLY.

It indicates much or little, dependent on how it influences. Osler once wrote on the advantage of a trace of albumin. What he meant was that it was an advantage when the person concerned accepted it as a warning and slowed up. A man with a trace of albumin might live out his full span if he thereafter were temperate in all things. Temperance is the keynote of dieting for chronic Bright's. Not abstinence from meat, but temperance in eating meat. Not starvation diet, but temperance in eating; temperance in work, worry, and exposure.

MOSQUITOES CAUSE MALARIA.

Reader writes: "Is it a fact that man contracts malaria from a mosquito bite only and in no other way? I have read your article on malaria with great interest, but fail to note that this question has been answered."

REPLY.

It is.

HEART DISEASE.

M. L. writes: "My wife, a young woman 27 years of age, has inflammation of the heart valves caused by a miscarriage about a year ago. 1. Do you think she is liable to get leakage of the heart? 2. In a person who is troubled with leakage of the heart, where does the blood go after it leaks from the heart? 3. What would you advise such a person to do? 4. Is there any chance for recovery?"

REPLY.

1. Yes.

2. When the heart ventricle contracts the blood flows into the arteries. Immediately after the contraction some of the blood tends to flow back into the cavity from which it has just been expelled. The valves open out and stop this back rush. If the valves are diseased some blood leaks back. The effect is the ventricle is called upon to repump the blood.

3. As soon as the acute condition has passed she should build up her general health, including her muscular tone. She needs the direction of her physician in doing this.

4. The chance that she can get a heart that works satisfactorily is very good.

ADVICE TO MOTHER.

Mother writes: "Will you please inform me as to what diet and how much at a meal a baby ought to have at the age of five months? 2. Is there any harm in chewing the food for the baby? 3. What can you do or take at the age of sixteen to gain flesh while at work?"

REPLY.

1. Tweddell's advice is to give the following mixture:

Milk	10 ounces
Cane sugar	¾ ounce
Lime water	1 ounce
Boiled water	9 ounces

Feed at three hour intervals. Do not feed after 10 at night. Give five ounces at a feeding. The above is advised for a baby five months, weighing 14½ pounds.

2. For a five months old baby, yes.

3. If milk and rice will do, all right, but do not be overanxious.

FOOD FOR BABY.

Mrs. J. F. R. writes: "Will you please tell me if it is advisable to give a baby thirteen months old soup made from bouillon cubes? 2. Is weakened grape juice good for him? 3. He has only six teeth now. Would you advise a special diet to aid the delayed dentine? From six months on he had alternate feedings of malted milk from a bottle and the breast, but has taken the bottle only since one year old. We used malted milk on the advice of a physician."

REPLY.

1. I do not know about bouillon cubes. A child thirteen months old should have beef juice and meat broths along with milk gruels, bread, crackers, potatoes, and fruit juice every day.

2. Yes.

THAT Buckingham palace should have been invaded in the night from last Saturday to Sunday by the drunken young motor fitter's assistant, Harry Pike, and that he should have been able not only to get into the royal residence unobserved but to roam about its various corridors and rooms for an hour or so before discovered and captured is not astonishing to those who recall the exploits of that mysterious and extraordinary 16 year old lad, known at the time as "Boy Jones," in the earlier years of Queen Victoria's marriage.

On three separate occasions within a year he was found secreted in her private apartments at night, twice beneath the royal bed and on the third occasion beneath a couch, when she retired for the night. How he got there no one ever was able to discover. Half witted, he gave those examining him to understand that he had encountered no obstacle in reaching the queen's bedroom and that he had simply walked right in. He could not explain what his object was. There was a popular impression that he had obtained access down one of the chimneys from the roof.

For a long time afterward Queen Victoria, like so many other ladies in less exalted spheres of life, declined to retire for the night until her attendants had looked carefully under the bed and other articles of furniture to see that there was no man in hiding there. "Boy Jones" ended his life in a lunatic asylum.

Through the impending marriage of the Hon. Bernard Fitzalan-Howard to Mona, Baroness Beaumont, the youngest of peeresses in her own right, two great houses of the English Roman Catholic aristocracy will be united. Lady Beaumont's fiancé is the eldest son and heir of Lord Howard of Glossop, owner of a barony which was created in 1869 in favor of Lord Edward Fitzalan-Howard, second son of the thirteenth Duke of Norfolk, and was until last year an A. D. C. of Sir Gerald Strickland, governor of New South Wales.

It is to be hoped that the young couple will be more fortunate in their married life than Lord and Lady Howard of Glossop. They separated some ten or twelve years ago, and since then their domestic affairs have repeatedly engaged the attentions of the courts. One of the many suits, related to the jewels of Lady Howard of Glossop, is worth recalling, for the reason that it should be commended to the attention of those heiresses on this side of the Atlantic who either are already married to or intend to wed Englishmen.

The court of appeal decided that jewels presented to a wife before her marriage, at the time of her wedding, or subsequent thereto could not be disposed of by the wife, either by gift, sale, or bequest, during the lifetime of the husband without his consent. The husband shares the ownership of the jewels, etc., unless they are specially settled upon the wife as her own personal property. Without their being thus protected they are liable, according to English law, to be distrained upon for his debts, and he may give them away or sell them if he confers at the same time other benefits in their place on his wife. Jewels, according to the court of appeal, are "paraphernalia." The court of appeal has yet to decide what else belonging to the wife is included in the "paraphernalia."

Lord Howard of Glossop, by the way, is a pupil of that Mgr. Capel who died not so long ago in California and who after converting the late multi-millionaire Marquis of Bute to Roman Catholicism in London was portrayed by Lord Beaconsfield under the name of "Mgr. Catesby" in his well known novel "Lothair."

Lord Howard of Glossop's estates comprise some 40,000 acres in Derbyshire and in Scotland, his principal country seat being Gossop Hall, in Derbyshire.

With regard to young Lady Beaumont, she is the elder of the two daughters of the tenth Lord Beaumont, who, a colonel of hussars, served on the staff of the governor general of Canada in the latter '70s and was killed through the accidental discharge of his gun while trying to climb through a hedge. As he left no son, but only a little daughter—true, another was born three months after his death—his peerage fell into abeyance.

There is scarcely one of the British "peerages" published, either official or otherwise, which gives the date of the birth of the women mentioned therein, so that it is difficult to know with any degree of certainty the precise number of years that have passed over the head of any feminine scion of the British aristocracy.

It will scarcely be believed that this old time chivalry extends to the government itself, which, like most corporate bodies, is generally supposed to be devoid of soul or feeling. Thus the state declines to recognize any such thing as primogeniture among women.

If peerages by writ that are heritable in the female line lack male heirs and there are several daughters or sisters next in line, the state declines to take any cognizance of the respective ages of these women and the title remains in abeyance—that is to say, unused—until the crown, at the request of the entire family, calls it out of abeyance, not necessarily in favor of the eldest daughter or sister but sometimes the youngest.

The Beaumont peerage has been several times in abeyance. Created by writ of summons in 1309, it fell into abeyance in 1507, and so remained until 1840, when the grandfather of young Lady Beaumont at last recovered possession thereof as the lineal descendant of a long line of ancestors. Queen Victoria was fond of calling peerages out of abeyance, and in the case of the two little daughters of the late Col. Lord Beaumont, whom she had known and liked, and of the widowed Lady Beaumont, a most charming woman, appealed to her strongly. So a year after Lord Beaumont's tragic death she called the barony of Beaumont out of abeyance in favor of the Hon. Mona Stapleton, who was just 2 years old at the time.

Lady Beaumont's future husband on the death of his father will inherit his peerage of Howard of Glossop, but as the latter is a modern dignity there is no doubt that any son born of the union will—after the death of the mother, but not until then—prefer to be known as Lord Beaumont rather than as Lord Howard of Glossop.

The original patronymic of the Lords and Ladies Beaumont was De Brienne. It was Henri de Brienne, Vicomte de Beaumont, of the French province of Maine, and grandson of Jean de Brienne, one of the last crusader kings of Jerusalem, who founded the English branch of his family. He accompanied Edward I. to the Holy Land and afterward served under him during the wars against Scotland, was appointed joint warden of Scotland by his cousin Edward II., and was summoned to parliament as Lord Beaumont, baron by writ, in 1308. Among other offices which he held were those of lord high constable of England, king of the Isle of Man, and lord high justiciar of Scotland.

An Unprejudiced Observer.

[Sydney Brooks in the English Review.]

A certain want of elasticity in his moral temperament and judgments unites in him, or so at least it seems to me, with the habit of authority and the pride of conviction and the impatience of opposition inherited from his pedagogic years, to form a compound not without its dangers for a statesman in this unholy world of ours. His whole Mexican policy, indeed—the problem of how such a man could act in such a way—only becomes comprehensible when the guess is hazarded that his conscience rather than his intellect dictated it. It was a case where the scruples of an idealist revolted against a compromise to which a statesman of more robust or less sensitive disposition would have accommodated himself without difficulty. A good stiff conscience will sheathe a man in an ethical casing against which all arguments will helplessly blunt themselves, and will transform the clearest of thinkers into an obstinate and intractable doctrinaire.

EVERY victory of Mr. Wilson's leaves him a little weaker with his party; but as he is committed (by the party platform) to only one term, he need not worry.

CELLAR IS SANITARY.

Chicago, June 3.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Can not something be done to force the owner of the store building and corner lot at 2101 South Spaulding avenue to keep the place in a more sanitary condition? On the narrow space between their house and mine a large number of chickens and sometimes ducks are kept and fed with garbage and slops, and at night these chickens are kept in the cellar directly under the grocery store. My tenants complain of the disagreeable odor. CITIZEN.

The report of the inspector shows that the space which is partitioned from this cellar for the keeping of chickens has a cement floor and a plastered ceiling and can with limewashing be kept in clean condition.

Under the circumstances it does not seem desirable that the department intervene further than to require that this space be kept in proper condition. GOTTFRIED KOEHLER.

I would like to know how to proceed to get it cleaned up and to prevent dumping of all kinds of refuse on it. M. B. B.

The vacant lot referred to contains clay from excavations. Owners of new building adjacent thereto have been notified to level off this clay and discontinue dumping there in future, which they have promised to do. T. L. MULROY,

Rice street, from North Campbell avenue to North Robey street, was ordered paved with asphalt at a public hearing held on May 22, 1914. We had a proceeding started for paving Augusta street from North Western avenue to North California avenue, which was subsequently ordered abandoned, because it was found that the pavement cannot be laid until a number of sewers have been built in that vicinity.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE DOCTOR'S DILEMMA.

Valparaiso, Ind., June 10.—[Editor of the Tribune.]—As a physician who for ten years practiced in a poor class of people, and as a result received pay for but approximately half of his work, I am constrained and feel qualified to write a few words of criticism on your editorial of yesterday, captioned "The Doctor's Dilemma."

I am not familiar with the circumstances in this particular case, except from the knowledge given in your issue of Monday. Granting that the child was seriously ill, sick unto death, as the desperate father doubtless believed, was it any less criminal, aye, any less murder, in intent, for the Duquoin doctor to refuse it succor? Had it been the delinquent father who desired the services of the physician it would be more easy to extenuate the refusal of the latter, but for the physician to refuse his aid to a suffering child, I believe I voice the sentiments of many when I say that this refusal was anything but excusable, and as for myself, although not wishing to condone such rash methods, I think that the doctor got his just deserts, and I hope the father escapes any severe penalty for his rash but not altogether unjust act.

The case should be the cause of the enactment of some legislative measure providing for more adequate medical attention for the poor, especially for the children of those who are unable to pay extortionate charges of some physicians. V. L. SPRINGER, M. D.

MODERN FASHIONS.

Hot Springs, Ark., June 7.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I resent being told that many of the dresses now advertised are the best fashions. Some prompt the query, Why any clothes at all? They may be all right for a certain class of women (and they are not all in the segregated districts), but no woman who is not wanton in her heart will undress herself in the present fashions for free inspection or allow her daughters, if she has any, to do so.

Some of the present styles are graceful and sensible, but I think it is time for all sane woman, especially clubwomen, to protest against the outlandish fashions published in some newspapers and magazines which take a high moral stand on other matters. Some of the costumes worn on the street challenge arrest. MRS. G. H. B.

HOYNE-BARTZEN COMBINE.

SENTIMENTAL NATIONALISM.

Chicago, June 10.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Referring to your editorial, "Sentimental Nationalism," may I venture the opinion that biased attacks on our public schools and institutions of learning and training, the derisive attitude of the native American toward those who have adopted this country through choice, and the injection of religion and nationality into our politics and public life are responsible for the slow process of assimilation and the tendency of the various races and creeds to live and work in groups by themselves?

The remedy is compulsory education in the public institutions of learning and training and a movement on a large scale to promote patriotic, courteous, and sympathetic treatment of those we are prone to shun and look down upon. A substantial knowledge of American history and literature, and the fundamental principles of our government are indispensable if we are to have true, useful, and patriotic American citizens, and these can only be acquired in a substantial measure in our public educational and training institutions.

The people who come to this country and make their homes here need and deserve our sincere encouragement and sympathy in the difficulties encountered by them in their struggles to adapt themselves to our speech, customs, ideals, and laws.

W. WILLIAMSON.

OPPOSES WATER METERS.

Chicago, June 10.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your paper has always stood for the health and prosperity of this great city. The time has now come for you to assist in keeping the city healthy and clean by working with the women who oppose the installing of water meters.

Let us first take the $3,310,000 and get our cribs and water works supply in such a condition the water will run through our water filters without the slime that adheres every other day. How long would meters work with such water passing through? No meter could measure the service with the water as thick as it is, and the quicker we realise it and remedy it the quicker will we have less sickness.

Why should we try to earn more money for the water department when we now have a balance in the water fund of $3,310,000 and are giving to other departments to pay their expenses? Let us have all our pumps working day and night supplying good, pure water and we will have beautiful lawns and health.

The municipal crime is not so much the waste of city water as the condition of the city water that the people must use. You will find the women are right. Skimping will be done and all our teachings for cleanliness will vanish and the poor must suffer.

COLONEL BRANDS EXPLORER FAKER

Gives Out Report at Paris to Show Henry Savage Landor's Claims False.

DATA FROM BRAZILIAN.

Declared That Briton "Never Discovered Any Land in South America."

PARIS, June 12.—Before leaving Paris for London tonight Col. Theodore Roosevelt gave out a 2,000 word report by Col. Rondon, the Brazilian government's representative, who went with Col. Roosevelt on the latter's exploration trip in South America.

The report of Col. Rondon, who himself is an explorer of note, says and claims to prove that "Mr. Landor (referring to Henry Savage Landor, the British explorer) did not cross a palm of land in Brazil or Peru that had not been explored, the greater part of it, many centuries ago."

The report of Col. Rondon, which has just been translated from Portuguese, was sent to Col. Roosevelt on his request to Col. Rondon for information concerning Mr. Landor's expedition from Rio Janeiro to Lima, Peru, in 1910-'12.

Asked Guard of Fifty.

Col. Rondon's report, which is couched in a sarcastic vein, gives an alleged detailed history of Mr. Landor's exploration trip. It says Mr. Landor applied to the Brazilian government for an astronomer, a botanist, a zoologist, and a geologist and an escort of fifty soldiers with a field gun for protection in case the explorer was attacked by Indians. This latter request was refused, it being pointed out to Mr. Landor that it was illegal to kill or to interfere with the Indians.

Col. Rondon says Mr. Landor then requested a subsidy of over $40,000 from the Brazilian government, declaring that a number of governments had placed large sums at his disposal for explorations, notably the United States, for his work in the Philippines. Col. Rondon says he finally agreed to accept $10,000.

Drew Up an Itinerary.

Col. Rondon, who was asked by the Brazilian government to help Mr. Landor in every way, declares that he mapped out an itinerary for Mr. Landor, "worthy the fame of the explorer martyr of Tibet." He chose for him, he says, a route leaving Bananal, state of Sao Paulo, and following the eleventh parallel to the Mamore river, in Bolivia. The explorer set out provided with introductions to the local governors. At Goyas, Brazil, he was allowed by the governor of the state to take four policemen with him from the district to Diamantino, state of Matto Grosso, Brazil, and also was accompanied by Lieuts. Pyrineus de Sousa and Vieira de Mello, who afterwards were members of the Roosevelt expedition.

From Diahmantino, according to Col. Rondon, Mr. Landor took the old commercial route to Santarem, state of Para, Brazil, as far as Sao Manoel.

There he secured a guide, but the two men got lost in the forest and returned to Sao Manoel after five days. Then Mr. Landor went down the Tapajose river to Sao Luiz, where he took a steamboat to Manaos, wiring the Geographical society he had crossed the wilderness of Brazil to the Madeira river. This was equivocal, according to Col. Rondon, as it failed to explain his route.

BLACKMAILER OF CUNARD LINE THREATENED NEW HAVEN ROAD

Henry J. Burton, Negro Under Arrest, Believed to Be Man Who Demanded $35,000 or He Would Wreck Train.

New York, June 12.—Henry Joseph Burton, the negro youth captured last night at West View, N. J., after he had written a letter threatening to dynamite one of the Cunard line boats unless the company paid him $10,000, indited a similar communication to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company. The police were not informed of this until today, when the railroad officials learned of Burton's capture and confession.

In his letter to the railroad company Burton asked for $35,000, and declared that he would wreck a train with dynamite unless the money was paid over, according to a plan which he would disclose at a later stage in the negotiations. The railroad paid no attention to the letter.

Burton will be brought to New York as soon as his extradition can be arranged. On his way to a cell Burton sobbed out a tale of hard luck. He said nothing, but the incurable illness of his mother, the approaching blindness of his sister, and the illness of his twin brother could have induced him to threaten the Cunard Steamship company.

Investigators Discover Boy Who Says He Has Used "Coke" a Year.

DRUG SELLER ARRESTED.

Roy Morris Held on Charge of Selling "Dope"; Two Girls Taken.

Detectives Sullivan and O'Brien, who with "Doc" Williams, an expert investigator, are conducting a crusade against cocaine sellers, last night found a 10 year old negro boy at Eighteenth and State street who said he had been using the drug for years. He at first said his father had given him the drug, but when the police brought in the parent he denied it.

The father, Eugene Smith, is a tailor at 1804 South State street. He told the police that the boy is feeble minded.

Roy Morris of 3169 North Clark street was arrested at night on a charge of selling cocaine illegally. Miss Fay Burke and Miss Annie Reitz, users of the drug, were also taken into custody in the vicinity of the Morris home and are being held as witnesses against him. They told the police that they purchased their supply of the drug from Morris.

Mrs. Cleo Robinson of 2809 South La Salle street was found dead in her residence by the police. Death is supposed to have been caused by drinking poison while under the influence of morphine.

Irish Leader Says Majority of Provisional Committee Are Foes of Nationalist Party.

LONDON, June 12.—John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, today declared war on the provisional committee of the Nationalist Volunteers, a majority of whom, he asserts, are not supporters of the Irish party.

Although the provisional committee at a meeting held in Dublin June 10 verbally welcomed Mr. Redmond's cooperation in the Irish Volunteer movement, it followed this up with a call to the volunteers in each county to elect a representative to serve on the committee, and this action the Irish leader interprets as a refusal of the committee to accept his proposal made on June 9 that twenty-five representatives of the Irish party should be added to the committee in control.

Pointing out that the committee originally was a self-constituted body, Mr. Redmond proceeds:

"I am informed on good authority that a majority of them are not supporters of the Irish party, while of the rank and file of the Irish volunteers at least 95 per cent are supporters of the party and of its policy. This is a condition of things which plainly cannot continue."

STRIKE REVOLTS SWEEP ITALY

Rioters Fail to Heed the Order for Cessation.

TROOPS ARE CONCENTRATED.

Killing of Ravenna Police Chief and Other Outbreaks Reported.

ROME, June 12.—Movements of a revolutionary character were reported today throughout the four provinces of Bologna, Ferrara, Ravenna, and Forli, forming what is known as the Pomagna.

Although a cessation of the general strike which began on Monday has been ordered by the labor organizations, the workmen of extreme views in these districts have refused to return to work.

Troops Are Concentrated.

The government today ordered a concentration of troops, especially in the towns of Forli and Ravenna.

A communication from Ravenna reports the death of the chief of police as a result of wounds received in the course of a demonstration on Wednesday.

At Castel-Bolognese, in the province of Ravenna, a mob destroyed the railroad station. The wooded bridge across the Rubicon, now known as the Pisciatello, was burned.

Wild Scene in Chamber.

The sitting of the chamber of deputies tonight was a stormy one. Extremists hurled invective against the government and police. Sig. Lucci, bishop for Naples, brought into the chamber a piece of linen stained with the blood of "a proletariat victim" wounded by the bullet of a soldier.

Sig. Salandra, the premier, protested in the name of the country against insults to the army. The premier received an ovation.

PARMELEE ATTORNEY SAYS ROADS FIX TAXICAB RATES.

Lawyer Tells Aldermen They Exert Moral Suasion to Compel 75 Cent Schedule for Interstation Service.

Andrew R. Sheriff, attorney for the Frank Parmelee company, told members of the taxicab subcommittee of the judiciary committee yesterday that the railroads insist on a flat rate of 75 cents for interstation taxicab service in order to "be on the same basis." He admitted the railroads could not compel the transfer company to charge a flat rate, but said the roads "exercised moral suasion."

Mr. Sheriff admitted he avoids taking Parmelee cabs on account of the high rate. He explained this by saying that in some instances the Parmelee rates are higher than city rates and in other cases lower.

Heart Disease Caused Sturm Death.

Adolph Sturm, member of the firm of Sturm, Schiller & Co., 496 South Franklin street, who died in a bath tub in his home June 6, succumbed to heart disease, according to a coroner's jury yesterday, which held an inquest at the home, 2939 Pine Grove avenue.

The boys will be taught the art of hunting, of trapping and shooting wild animals and birds that are obnoxious and destructive; target shooting; the careful handling of firearms; running gasoline launches, "rules of the road" upon the water, the meaning of boat signals—whistles, bells, lights; making knots, splicing rope, "boxing the compass"; the art of tenting, camping, dressing game and fish; woodcraft, forestry, wild flowers; the habits of deer and other wild animals daily seen around the cabin; first aid, resuscitation, care of health, and a thousand practical things of life in the open every boy ought to know.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE.

PEACE IN MEXICO NEARER SOLUTION

Mediators and U. S. Delegates Agree Huerta Shall Approve Successor.

MAY NAME MAN TODAY.

Elimination of Carranza as Provisional President of Republic Is Complete.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 12.—[Special.]—The wheels of the mediation conference are turning fast since the three South American diplomats who are conducting the proceedings signified that they would no longer permit themselves to be made a pawn in the hands of the Washington government.

Twenty-four hours have barely elapsed since the mediators made clear their stand, through the publication of the Carranza documents, and already the first and the most vital part of the peace plan evolved by the mediators has been put into writing and definitely adopted by all sides. This was done at a full conference today, held in the presence of all the American and Mexican delegates and the three mediators.

This part of the plan provides for the installation of a provisional government in Mexico to take the place of that controlled by Gen. Huerta. The actual form of succession has been left open, but it has been agreed by all sides that no candidate will be chosen who has not been approved by Huerta.

List of Candidates Prepared.

The mediators and delegates will take up tomorrow the matter of names. A list of candidates has been prepared. After a candidate believed to be acceptable has been agreed on the Mexican delegates will transmit his name to Gen. Huerta and not before the choice has been sanctioned by the provisional president will it be adopted at the conference.

This is the point which had been most bitterly opposed by the American delegates. They yielded only after the Washington government had been informed by its representatives here that the mediators had taken a step which meant that they were prepared to end the conference rather than impair the dignity of their government and their personal feelings.

Men for Huerta's Place.

Among the men mentioned as successor to Huerta is Felipe Angeles, a Constitutionalist, now with Gen. Villa in the field. Angeles is said to have been suggested because of his qualifications as a strong man who could manage the provisional government pending an election.

Pedro Lascurain, who was secretary of foreign affairs under President Madero at the time of the latter's assassination, also has been mentioned. Lascurain, while known to be popular with the Constitutionalists, might be accepted by them to serve for a brief period provided an agreement should be reached by all parties to the mediation that this course be taken merely as a means of maintaining constitutional precedent during the period of transition of authority from Huerta.

Today's developments plainly show that the Wilson government is prepared to abandon Gen. Carranza if necessary to prevent the failure of the mediation conference. The agreement reached today has never been submitted to the rebel chieftain, and although several press dispatches this morning announced that Carranza representatives were on their way to Niagara Falls this plan was definitely adopted.

Job Not for Carranza.

The plan adopted today puts an end to rumors that the provisional presidency would be delivered to Carranza. Gen. Huerta, it was explained, had practically agreed to abide by the decision of his delegates. He is eager to withdraw with a good record, and will not hesitate to hand over the reins of government to any man who, in his opinion, will work for the cause of peace and prosperity in Mexico.

Those who are in a position to know, declare tonight that the form of succession would be in complete accordance with the Mexican constitution. In case of the resignation of the head of the government the constitution provides that in the absence of a duly elected vice president, his successor shall be the minister of foreign affairs. It is therefore essential that the man selected at this conference be appointed minister of foreign affairs by Gen. Huerta.

HUNDREDS "LOOK OTHER WAY" AS GIRL DESCENDS LADDER.

Copper Makes Men Turn Heads While Stenographer, Locked In, Trips Down "Aerial' and Escapes.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—Half a dozen fire engines, a squad of reserves, and a few hundred interested spectators gathered in front of the building at 498 Broome street this evening to rescue a stenographer who was locked in.

Even with all the rescuers it is doubtful if they would have achieved their purpose had it not been for the gallantry of Patrolman Harry Welch. At least the stenographer, who is Miss Mollie Mat, would have waited until dark before climbing down the ladder.

Patrolman Welch made the men in the crowd turn their heads away while Miss Mat skipped down the ladder.

ANTILLA LANDS REBEL MUNITIONS

War Cargo, Including Two Aeroplanes, Rushed North from Tampico.

NEW EMBARGO RULING.

Commerce Department Given Authority Over Arms Exports by Sea.

Tampico, Mexico, June 11 (via Laredo, Tex., June 12).—The steamship Antilla from New York today discharged its cargo of ammunition for the Constitutionalists.

Sixteen hundred cases of ammunition and two aeroplanes were immediately dispatched north on a special train.

Until after its arrival at the wharf here the Antilla knew nothing of the projected blockade of the port or the presence of the Federal gunboats Zaragosa and Bravo outside the harbor.

The Antilla will sail tomorrow for Tantoyuca to recover the body of Weston Burwell, the American reported slain by Federals April 22.

Wilson Fixes Authority.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—President Wilson today issued an executive order to clear away any conflict of authority over shipments of arms to Mexico. It follows:

"As matters which relate to the clearance of vessesl fall within the jurisdiction of the department of commerce, it is hereby ordered that instructions to customs officers concerning the exportation of arms and munitions of war to Mexico by sea shall be given by that department. Similar instructions concerning such exportations by land shall be issued by the treasury department."

No explanation of the order was made, but it was recalled that the recent clearance of the liner Antilla from New York for Tampico with arms for the Constitutionalists was described as "a misconstruction of orders," and it developed that there was conflict of authority between the two departments. In many quarters the executive order issued today was regarded as new evidence of the intention of the administration to enforce the embargo.

Obregon Storms Mazatlan.

On Board United States Steamship California, Mazatlan, Mex., June 11 (via wireless to San Diego, Cal., June 12).—The Constitutionalist army under Gen. Obregon began today its first concentrated general assault on the Federal fortifications at Mazatlan, commanded by Gen. Rodriguez. The battle raged all day, and although the besieged garrison held its positions, it lost heavily in killed and wounded.

Villa to Zacatecas.

Torron, Mexico, June 12.—Advices received today at the headquarters of the north said that Gen. Pinfila Natera was continuing his attack on Zacatecas, and that fighting had been in progress intermittently for the last three days. The brevity of the dispatches was thought here to indicate that the advance has not been rapid, although details were lacking.

It was the intention of Gen. Natera to invest Zacatecas, and for this reason the fighting now in progress was thought to be due to the efforts of the Federals to prevent being surrounded. Gen. Villa with the greater part of the troops of the division of the north will proceed to Zacatecas within the coming week.

MISS BRANDT GETS $375,000; DROPS ZIEGLER ESTATE SUIT.

Her Adoption Annulled, She Is Allowed Only Her Graduation Gift by Her Brother, William Jr.

New York, June 12.—Lengthy litigation over the estate of the late William Ziegler has terminated with Miss Florence L. Brandt, his adopted daughter, receiving $375,000 from her brother, William Ziegler Jr., adopted son of the millionaire baking powder manufacturer, it was announced by young Ziegler's lawyers here today. Settlement of the case came about in the following way, the attorneys state:

"Mr. Ziegler was informed that shortly before his father's death his father had stated that if Mr. Ziegler's sister, Florence, graduated from the school she was attending in Davenport, Ia., with honor he would give her the sum of $250,000.

"Mr. Ziegler's sister did graduate with honor, but this occurred after the death of his father; and upon Mr. Ziegler receiving the information he gave the aforesaid sum of $250,000, with interest, amounting in all to $375,000, to his sister, and thereupon she dropped all the litigation which she had instituted against him."

DEDICATE SHAFT TO GOETHE TODAY

Twenty Thousand Descendants of Fatherland to Participate in Fete.

GERMAN LEADERS HERE.

Count Bernstorff and Dr. Hugo Munsterberg to Take Part in Unveiling.

The dedication of the monument to Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, the German poet, erected in Lincoln park by the Germans of Chicago, takes place today. It will be one of the most significant celebrations ever held by the German population of Chicago. Twenty thousand members of German societies will participate and march to the immense denkmal where the formal program will be given. The dedicatory exercises will be in the afternoon. The meeting of the women's auxiliary of the Goethe Memorial association will meet in the evening. The speakers for the afternoon include the German ambassador to America, Count Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff; Gov. Dunne, Mayor Harrison, and Prof. William Herbert Curruth of Leland Standard Jr. university.

Munsterberg Will Speak.

Sunday evening Harry Rubens will entertain about 150 of the guests and members of the association at a banquet in the Germania club. Dr. Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard university will speak.

The unveiling of the monument will take place at 3 o'clock. Preceding this event will be the procession. The parade will start at the corner of North avenue and Lake Shore drive, thence through the park past the monument. A male chorus under the direction of the director, H. A. Rehberg, will sing Goethe's song, "Haideroeslein." Miss Tessa Schmidt and Miss Rosalie Wacker will unveil the shaft. Wreaths from the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar, city of Frankfurt and Weimar, and organizations from Munich and Stuttgart, in addition to tributes from local societies, will be placed by the shaft. The program will close with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Speeches in German.

The program of the woman's auxiliary, given in the evening at the Auditorium theater, includes addresses by Count Bernstorff, Harry Rubens, and Prof. Kuno Francke of Harvard university and curator of the Germanistic museum. The addresses will be in German. Piano recitals will be given by Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler, W. Middelschulte will give an organ recital and Wilhelm Boeppler, director of the Chicago Singverein, will lead a mixed choir.

Prof. Herman Hahn of the Royal Academy of Fine Arts of Germany, the sculptor who modeled the heroic figure of Goethe, will be present at all of the meetings. Count Bernstorff is a guest at the home of Herman Paepcke in Lake Shore drive.

Dr. Munsterberg arrived yesterday.

"This is not the stilted kind of sculpture, but is the kind which can be compared to the best paintings by the most famous artists," he said. "The Germans of this city are to be congratulated upon placing such an immense and wonderful monument of this never dying kind here. It will be a kind which will always last. People will come from all over the country to see it. It will place Chicago in a position where art students, especially, will know that Chicago is an art center worth considering.

Praises Woman's Dress Reform.

"The women in the convention have done some good here, I believe, by advocating dress reforms. The present rage in tight skirts, high heels, low necked dresses, and too thin ones are detrimental to every moral and economic virtue the American woman may possess. I am glad to hear about their deciding that this kind of clothing was not the kind for them to wear. I hope the resolution may have some weight with the American people."

Two Companies Merged.

The Collins Bros. Ice Cream company was placed on trial yesterday morning before County Judge Owens charged with evading its taxes. Edward F. Glickauf, president of the Thompson-Reid Ice Cream company and vice president and manager of the Collins Bros. Ice Cream company, testified that the company was combined with the Thompson-Reid company twenty years ago, and that in reality there is no Collins Bros. company. All of the property belongs to the Thompson-Reid Ice Cream company, and is included in its schedule.

One Man "Forgets."

Charles C. Adsit of 1323 Richie place pleaded guilty to neglecting to file his schedule, and said that he had no intention to evade his taxes, but had neglected to file because it was not brought to his attention. His case was taken under advisement.

The Automatic Enunciator company, represented by Attorney Albert Wilson, showed that it had filed a schedule.

SECRETARY OF LABOR PREDICTS MORE JOBS THAN MEN IN MONTH

Receives Request for 80,000 Laborers in Wheat Belt and Plans to Run Excursions from the East.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Predicting that within a month's time there would be more jobs in the United States than men, Secretary of Labor Wilson expressed hope of solving the problem of getting men to fill the places.

His forecast was based upon the bumper wheat crop, the revival in the iron trade, mining and the textile industries.

The secretary has already received requests for more than 80,000 laborers in the wheat belt of the west and south. He plans to arrange with the railroads special excursions from the east to get the men to the fields.

GOES AFTER 'PRODUCE TRUST.'

Federal Grand Jury Begins Inquiry Into Combine of Farmers and Commission Men.

The federal grand jury yesterday began an investigation into the alleged combination entered into by commission merchants and farmers of the United States to control the prices on fruits and vegetables. Criminal prosecution is sought by District Attorney Wilkerson.

South Water street commission merchants were called before the grand jury. Among them were E. A. Aarons, George Middendorf, Isadore Cohen, and Robert Wagner.

The inquiry is directed chiefly at the Western Cantaloupe exchange, an organization which is said to have two boards of control which regulate the output of cantaloupes and also the prices. One is in Chicago and the other in Brawley, Cal.

Catholics to Techny, Ill., Tomorrow.

Thousands of Catholics in Chicago will leave tomorrow to take part in the annual Corpus Christi procession at Techny, Ill., under the direction of the Fathers of the Society of the Divine Word. A special train will leave over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul in the morning.

Thomas Ryan

Came to Winnipeg in 1874

—he is still here actively engaged in business. When Mr. Ryan came the Indians were camping upon the sites of some of Winnipeg's present skyscrapers.

Because He Came, You Have This Opportunity—READ ON—

If You Have a Desire to Make Money

Like many another man who has come to Winnipeg, Mr. Ryan made a few—a very few dollars—grow to a large fortune. In addition to heading one of the largest wholesale businesses in Canada, his real estate holdings, together with his brother's, George, who came here thirty years ago, are so large that it became necessary to form THE RYAN INVESTMENT COMPANY with a paid up capital of $1,500,000.00 to handle them.

$10 DOWN

One of the most valuable of their holdings is a certain tract purchased years ago. The wonderful growth of Winnipeg, 42,340 in 1901, approximately 250,000 today, prevents holding this property intact any longer and makes it advisable to place it on the market subdivided, into choice building lots. Each lot is guaranteed. The sky-scrapered business center of Winnipeg is in plain view of every lot in the tract; in fact, in point of distance from the business center it is about as near as Lincoln Park is to State and Madison Streets.

$5 A Month—No Interest

A limited amount of this high grade property will be disposed of at $100 to $425 per lot on terms as easy as $10 down, $5 a month—No interest.

As a sane, conservative, safe, profitable investment this has the approval of men of high standing who are thoroughly in touch with the conditions. As an opportunity for men and women of small, medium or large means it is doubtless one of the very greatest that ever came out of Winnipeg, whose marvelous growth has made—is making—fortunes for persons throughout Canada, United States and Europe.

Winnipeg occupies exactly the same position in relation to Western Canada as Chicago does to the United States. It is the gateway to a thousand miles of grain and cattle laden prairie and to the untold timber, agricultural and mineral wealth of British Columbia. From 1901 to 1911 Winnipeg grew 202%, against Chicago 28%.

Let nothing interfere with your taking advantage of this opportunity. The fact that many of the biggest fortunes in Winnipeg and Chicago had their beginning in small investments in growing city real estate should be your incentive. What's $5 a month to any man or woman who has a sincere ambition to get ahead of the crowd of ne'er-do-wells?

No Lots Disposed of Until Thursday, June 25th

In order to give you a fair chance to secure one or more of these lots no lots will be disposed of until Thursday, June 25th. But send the coupon now for maps and detailed information. By acting at once we can have complete information in your hands prior to the above date of sale, thus giving you an opportunity to make an advance reservation. To send the coupon in no way obligates you.

Thorley's Appreciation of Paul Verlaine.

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

The Houghton-Mifflin company is publishing a series of modern biographies, confining each document to something less than a hundred pages and adapting them to pocket use—providing the pocket is rather capacious.

Synge, Hearn, Henley, Bourget, and Tolstoy—challenging personalities, all—have previously received attention in this series, and to them is now added "PAUL VERLAINE," by Wilfred Thorley.

One may be excused for feeling, having gone no farther than the title page, some apprehension lest a biographer so obviously English should fail to do justice to that curious, wayward poet who forms the subject of the monograph. But this apprehension is speedily allayed as one ventures into the pages and finds there admiration tempered by judgment, pity guiltless of contempt, and that largeness of mind which enables the possessor to be grateful for the phenomenon of genius, no matter in how strange a guise it may appear.

Mr. Thorley chooses to begin his personal record of Verlaine at the time when he was for two years incarcerated in the prison at Bergen for the attempted assassination of his fellow vagabond, Arthur Rimbaud, and he quotes Verlaine's cry to his Saviour, his "Brother in the dark," written during the early part of his prison experience, and says: "From the day of his finding this perfect freedom until the day of his material release, he was, he assures us, perfectly happy; and if only fortune had sent him a life sentence, we might have been spared the unmerciful disasters that followed his wayward feet, and made the peer of the finest spirits of his time a consort in penury of sluts and felons. His life thereafter was a continual see-saw between whole hearted wantonness and the rigors of repentance, and he seems to have found each of an equal savor, the lewd and the lovely. How came he to that pass?

There follows the succinct record of the life of Paul Verlaine, poet, lover, patriot, decadent, parent, drunkard, and criminal. He was all those things and more. He presented the most amazing antitheses. He was a filthy roisterer; yet the reader of some of his verses might cry in elation: "Hark, hark, the lark at heaven's gate sings." He stooped to a crime which is of all in the category the most repulsive, yet he yearned for his wife's love, and the lost peace and purity of it, as men lost at sea yearn for the shore.

He writes [Gertrude Hall's translation]:

Like to a swarm of birds, with jarring cries
Descend on me my swarming memories;
Light 'mid the yellow leaves, that shake and sigh,
Of the bowed alder—that is even I!
Brooding its shadows in the violet,
Unprofitable river of Regret.
They settle screaming—then the evil sound,
By the moist wind's impatient pushing drowned,
Dies by degrees, till nothing more is heard
Save the lone singing of a single bird.
Save the clear voice—O singer, sweetly done!
Warbling the praises of the Absent One—
And in the silence of a summer night,
Sultry and splendid, by a late moon's light
That, sad and sallow, peers above the hill,
The humid, pushing wind that ranges still
Rocks to a whispered sleep-song languidly
The bird lamenting and the shivering tree.

The most delicately discriminating observations which Mr. Thorley makes upon Verlaine's work are those which relate its essential quality.

"Verlaine's achievement in poetry," he observes, "and his influence on his own time, may properly be likened to the effects of impressionism, even of post-impressionism, in painting. He sought to convey an emotional impression for its own sake, without answering—at least, consciously—to the need of interpreting intellectual or moral commentary."

Mr. Thorley speaks of three important dicta which have largely influenced the criticism of English poetry, i. e.: "Invention is the pole star of poetry" (Keats); "Great poetry is a criticism of life" (Matthew Arnold); "fundamental brain work" (Rossetti's demand). Verlaine, his biographer points out, was incapable of inventing; he thought little and cared less about man's conduct and destiny; the brain was nothing with him, the nerves were all. He quotes:

I who am as a nerve, along which trail
The else unfelt oppressions of the world.

The one thing which Mr. Thorley neglects to point out is Verlaine's marvelous power of depicting the half thoughts which occupy so large a part of the mental life of man. Those unions, fretting notes of reverie or of partial sleep, that whirl and dance, now almost visible as flying purple disks or scarlet spirals, now approaching thought, yet not attaining it, and moving to some rhythm, fast or slow, are among the mental phenomena of us all. Yet neither psychologists nor poets have taken much note of them, though they occupy a large portion of our mental life and are associated with our beautiful moments of rest and relaxation. Verlaine has at least two poems which refer to these, in which he not only depicts the teasing insistence of these half thoughts but he speaks of their holiness, their essential innocence. For they are often, indeed, like swift winged shining moths that flutter for a moment in the chain and then fly heavenward.

Glimmering twilight things are these,
Visions of the end of night, Verlaine confesses them to be, but he perceives that they offer

From the heart's ecstatic heat
Incense to the living Lord.

Another time he exclaims that his heart blesses these little flies of his black suns and white nights, and says:

Spread your rustling wings, arise,
Little griefs, little delights,
Hopes, despairs, dreams fore and fair,
All renounced since yesterday
By my heart that guests elsewhere—
I te aegri somnia!

It was this ability to look forever into his own heart and brain that has made poor, ill-made Verlaine the moving poet that he is. He did not search the heavens for signs nor the earth for knowledge. He was neither wise nor good. He was the etera child, forever surprised and eternally inquisitive. He ran to his vices as a child to sweets; he put out his hands to God as a child reaches for his mother. He was the victim of too eager passions, of too responsive, too irritable sensory nerves. He was a decadent—and for that others chiefly must have been to blame. Among the arts that came natural to him, self-control was lacking. He "let himself go" and drank out of every cup that stood on the table of life. That he became a debauchee was inevitable. Many others have done the same, but Verlaine was peculiar in this, that as he drank he sang, and if some of the songs were obscene, some drunken, some hateful, others were sad with a sorrow that has made me forgive and love him, and others yet were as ecstatic, as innocent, as beautifully wild as if he had been Adam standing in the garden, seeing for the first time the sun rising over a golden sea.

Arthur Symonds, George Moore, Gertrude Hall, and many other brilliant creatures have endeavored to delineate the mind and soul of Paul Verlaine. They have supplemented each other in their explanations, have united in their pity and their praise; but Mr. Thorley's temperate, accurate record will not suffer in comparison. He has not been raphsodical, though he has been appreciative, and his tributes to Verlaine's genius have not kept him from condemning Verlaine's fretful sins.

Wilfrid Ward's "Men and Matters."

IN "MEN AND MATTERS," Wilfrid Ward, eminent English Catholic, has discussed a few distinguished fellow countrymen, venturing into the less trodden fields of their personalities for this point of view, with a close and illuminating analysis. The "Matters" of the title are concerned with religion, particularly his own church. Mr. Ward writes in a simple, direct fashion, with no fanfare of literary trumpets. His essays are singularly easy and attractive to read, their wealth of thought not being buried under a mass of abstruse phraseology or caught in tangles of weird terminology.

The volume is bulky, not because his subjects are so numerous, but because he considers each one that he bothers to handle at all so exhaustively and so leisurely. He does not hurry to finish his essay in a certain length of time, nor worry to confine it within a certain limit of space; he says what he wants to say on a subject and then stops. Two essays are given to the discussion of Disraeli, the one a criticism of Lord Cromer's discussion of that singular personality; others deal with George Wyndham, John Stuart Mill, and Cardinal Vaughan, while two are given over to a consideration of Cardinal Newman's sensitiveness and the cardinal's ideas on constructive religious thought.

One of the most pleasing chapters is the one having to do with Tennyson at Freshwater, a chapter full of interesting anecdote and shedding a bit brighter light on the personalities surrounding the poet at this period of his existence. The range of subject is wide, for in one chapter Mr. Ward discusses Mr. Chesterton and his "Orthodoxy," and in another St. Thomas Aquinas and medieval thought. Other chapters are concerned with strictly church matters, the conservative genius of the church, "Reduced Christianity," and "Christian Union."

The latter he thinks undesirable, for he believes each sect's rituals and forms of worship provide the esprit de corps that keeps its teachings alive in the people and that with union would come a leveling of sect distinctions which would result in a lukewarm, indifferent body of near Christians the world over. The whole volume is interesting and informative, even if one's sympathies do not lie along the path marked out by the author. (Longmans).

F. Loraine Petre, who has written four books dealing with Napoleon's career, publishes a fifth through John Lane company—"NAPOLEON AT BAY, 1814"—apparently the only modern work in English giving anything like a full history of this campaign, carried on almost precisely 100 years ago. Mr. Petre says the work "deals only with the purely military side of the war, politics being referred to only in so far as they actually influenced directly the course of military operations." Further, the work is confined to the operations in which Napoleon was personally and directly engaged."

The author has been over the greater part of the theater of war, and there is every indication that he has made a minute, even exhaustive, treatment of his subject. For this reason the work will appeal more to the student of military tactics than to the general reader. He will also be most interested in and grateful for the several plates and maps which Mr. Petre has provided, for these, in addition to giving the general view of the battlefields, indicate the positions occupied by the contending forces at different times of the day and night.

Mr. George Haven Putnam modestly does not seek a wider public for his "MEMORIES OF MY YOUTH, 1844-'65" (Putnams), than relatives and friends who are interested in him for himself. Yet almost any reader with leisure at his command and possessed of a genial regard for his fellows will be charmed by the gracefulness of the author's style into reading page after page. Not that Mr. Putnam's experiences were remarkable or differed in any material degree from those of many other Americans of the period, but as related they were certainly far from dull and are concerned with stirring events and places of interest.

The narrative includes accounts of several sojourns in England the author's experiences as a student at the University of Paris, in Berlin, and at Gottingen, whence he returned home to participate in the civil war. His career as a soldier brought him into some of the more important campaigns of the war and led to his imprisonment in Libby and Danville prisons. From the work as a whole the reader derives the impression of a gracious personality and can appreciate the pleasure of association with the author for even a few hours.

"THE EVERYDAY LIFE OF LINCOLN," by the late Francis Fisher Browne (Browne & Howell Co.), is a new and thoroughly revised edition of the work with new plates. About 500 friends of Lincoln contributed to it, of which the original edition was published twenty years after Lincoln's death. It is largely a biography composed of material gathered from men who had known him personally. The materials were largely gathered first hand and they never can be replaced or extended, since most of the men who gave the materials are dead. The book brings Lincoln the man near to us and in it we learn what people who actually knew him thought of him, how his looks impressed them, and how they interpreted what he said. (Browne & Howell Co.)

Mr. O'Brien's Novel of Chicago Life.

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

AN initial novel by a Chicago writer is always an interesting event. Sooner or later Chicago will produce some writers of the first quality, and she offers at this moment subject matter for a story of prodigious strength. It is, therefore, with no little enthusiasm that this reviewer opens each book which has this city for its subject, and a son or daughter of Chicago for the author.

"NEW MEN FOR OLD," by Howard Vincent O'Brien (Mitchell Kennerly, publisher) is the latest book to demand this peculiar interest. Mr. O'Brien was probably born in Chicago, and he was reared here, but he has lived away enough and has acquired at Yale a sufficient detachment to enable him to approach Chicago with fresh seeing eyes. He takes the trouble to enlarge upon the manner in which Chicago, both in her beautiful and her ugly aspects, affected his hero, Harlan Chandos, who, having lived in Europe most of his life, returns to Chicago upon the death of his father, to find himself, who had thought himself rich, actually penniless, and with only a slender talent in the way of picture making, with which to make his way. His father, moreover, has died dishonored, and the name the son bears is a handicap rather than a help. He has few friends, but he turns to Dorothy Gresham, for whom he long had felt an affection, and he finds in her a woman of imagination, who, not contented with a purely fashionable life, is flirting with the mild bohemianism of Chicago.

Chandos is plunged into the most sordid phases of Chicago business, and, in spite of honest endeavor—indeed, because of it—is worsted; but Gresham, the father of Dorothy, takes him up and places him in his factory, where the young man rises with quite incredible celerity. He represents, however, the sympathetic and personal side of business. He believes in the high utility of brotherhood. His employer is at the antipodes from these ideas, and a struggle occurs in which, at the last, Chandos is victorious. Dorothy passes from the mere pleasing semblance of activity into actual and practical work among the workers in her father's factory, and the lives of these two young people, soon to be united, point the meaning of the title, "New Men for Old."

It would be folly to take the spirited book of a new author and dissect it as one would the work of an experienced writer. Mr. O'Brien has done a good piece of work. It has vivacity, observation, some charm, and much high intent. The tone is well bred; the style unaffected. Here and there a touch of caricature appears which one regrets. In the case of the editor of a magazine devoted to poetry it is at once offensively obvious and unfair, and constitutes a mistake in taste and judgment. In the selection of names for his characters Mr. O'Brien might have done better. To choose such names as Gresham and Winston, associated as they are with the daily life of the city, was not wise. But these are little matters.

On the whole, the book is an attractive product. It presents some picturesque features of Chicago life. It has a bright awareness about it, and it makes manifest the fact that, in the future, in counting up the too quickly told tale of worthy Chicago fictionists, the name of Howard Vincent O'Brien must be counted in.

"WITH THE BEST INTENTION" is the title of a collection of ghetto stories by Bruno Lessing which is published by Hearst's International Library company. The stories are caricatures of the ghetto. But even as caricatures they fail to show any skill in the art of short story writing or to convey an even remotely true picture of the life of the people the writer purports to describe. It is fiction written to order, with the object of provoking a grin and not to paint life.

Strenuous Methods of "Billy" Sunday.

BY MABEL TURNER GOODENOUGH.

THE statement recently made by the pastor of one of Chicago's richest churches that Billy Sunday is the greatest man in America today is no exaggeration. "THE REAL BILLY SUNDAY," by Elijah P. (Ram's Horn) Brown, is a book which no one can afford to miss. Ages of "uplift work" will never change drunkards into model husbands by thousands (and stay changed) as Billy Sunday does, nor will tons of modern sociology ship in an added consignment of 10,000 pounds of beef a week because the people are buying beef instead of liquor, which was one of the practical results of a Billy Sunday campaign in South Bend, Ind.

Hell is just as real as heaven, and to wake up complacent people to the enormity of their refusal of the free gift of God, to open their eyes to their sin and their need, to "connect them," as he expresses it, with the power of life that is in Jesus, is the work of Billy Sunday. And there is probably no man in America today who works so hard. His strenuous campaigns bring wiry newspaper men to the point of exhaustion, yet Billy Sunday goes on to the next city with the same tireless vigor. His appeal reaches everybody. Judges, lawyers, merchants, newspaper men, factory men, clerks, mechanics, all respond by thousands to his simple creed, that no one is saved without Jesus Christ and the lowest wretch in the deepest gutter is safe with Him.

Much is written today on what ails our churches, but there is no hesitancy in Billy Sunday's diagnosis. "I sometimes doubt whether the church needs new members one-half as much as she needs the old bunch made over. Judging from the way multitudes in the churches live you would think they imagined they had a through ticket to heaven in a Pullman palace car, and had left orders for the porter to wake them up when they head into the yards of the New Jerusalem. I am amazed that God is doing as well as He is, with the crowd He has to work with. . . . There are influences in this world that are ripping and tearing to shreds our virtues, our morality. Young men are held by intemperance; others by vice. Drunkards are crying to the church, 'Hurry faster,' and the church members sit on the bank playing cards, sit there drinking beer and reading novels. 'Hurry!' They are splitting hairs over fool things instead of trying to keep sinners out of hell." (Revell Co.)

"THE SOUL OF HONOR."
Majestic.

Col. Potter.....Ralph Lewis
Dick.....Henry Walthall
Nancy.....Blanche Sweet

QUICK, sharp footsteps on the polished floor, the thud of heels clipping together, drew Col. Potter from his book to behold his son, in the spick and span new uniform of a lieutenant, gravely saluting him.

The father's eyes lit with quick pride and he clapped the boy on the shoulder with a congratulatory emphasis. Then his face sobered and he read from his book a few trenchant sentences about a soldier's honor being dearer to him than life.

"Dick, always do your duty to your country, no matter what it costs you," he concluded, looking searchingly into the boy's eyes.

"I will father. I promise. I will always serve my country regardless of myself."

Nancy, the colonel's ward, who had grown up in the home, tripped in and expressed immense admiration for Dick in his new uniform. The two young people then went out among the roses, the colonel smiling happily at their going.

When the call came to Dick to go to the front it was decided that the contemplated wedding with Nancy should be solemnized before his departure. So they were married with a simple ceremony, performed by the family clergyman in the presence of the colonel and a few faithful servants. Immediately after the short service Dick kissed his father and his sad eyed little bride and rode away to join the gray ranks in which he held his commission.

Through the slow passing weeks the old man and the girl lived for the scant, seldom coming news from the front. Late one hot afternoon they saw a horseman riding uncertainly up the drive. In the leaf shadowed distance they recognized him as Dick, and eagerly they caught him half falling from his drooping, sweating horse. While they plied him with refreshing drinks in the cool of the house they asked him innumerable questions, learning that he had ridden since dawn with important dispatches, which he was to have sent on with another courier scheduled to meet him at Johnson's corners, who had failed to appear.

"By sunset it will be cooler and you can make up for the time you are losing now," observed the old colonel.

"He shan't go another step until he is rested," declared Nancy, laying a cloth wrung from cold water on his hot brow. "I'm not going to have my husband killed for any old dispatches, and he can have a night's rest and then go on twice as fast," she concluded, running her slim fingers through his limp hair.

Dick looked as though he were about to yield to Nancy's edict. At the moment, with his depreciated vitality, he held about the same opinion of dispatches that she did. Then his heavy eyes turned to his father's stern old figure, drawn up with military precision, and he felt the sharp eyes boring into his inner consciousness.

He put his hand feebly on Nancy's. "No, dear, war is war, and a soldier's duty takes no account of his feelings. I must get on when the sun sets," and his head drooped heavily on his chest as his tired body demanded payment for the excess demands made on it, for the courier had gone from sentry duty to that of messenger, missing his night's sleep entirely.

Nancy said no more, but bided her time, as did the colonel his, while the tired man slept. At sunset the colonel roused Dick and led him to his waiting horse. During the farewells Nancy managed to whisper, "Meet me in the orchard corner for just a last minute," and then she joined with the colonel in waving good-by.

Slipping away to the orchard by a short cut, she stopped on the way to order the negro servant to lead Master Dick's horse to the barn since he had decided to wait until morning to go.

Dick kept the tryst and in the twilight shadows of the overhanging trees, his soldier sense drugged by the restful dimness, the heavy scents of dew drenched flowers, and the sleepy twitterings of retiring birds, let his fagged body yield to Nancy's entreating arms. He forgot his errand, he forgot his horse, and followed meekly when she led him back to the house and tucked him into bed for a revivifying rest.

The next morning the impatient colonel, up betimes, began sentry duty on the road to waylay any possible bearer of news. His vigilance was finally rewarded by a hurried courier, who drew up his hard ridden beast long enough to exclaim, "Battle fought at Chalmersford and lost at dawn because courier didn't arrive with expected dispatches!" then he put spurs to his horse and rode on with his news.

He left the colonel stunned, grieving, too, for the son whom he thought surely waylaid and killed. At the moment a light laugh from Nancy floated to him, accompanied by the heavier undertone of a man's voice. Down the drive came the two young things, clinging to each other, with the staid horse following behind, kicking up little flurries of dust with his hoofs. The colonel waited silently and when they approached expressed no anger, as the shrinking Nancy expected. He simply drew his son aside and told him quietly of the disaster due to his failure to fulfill his mission.

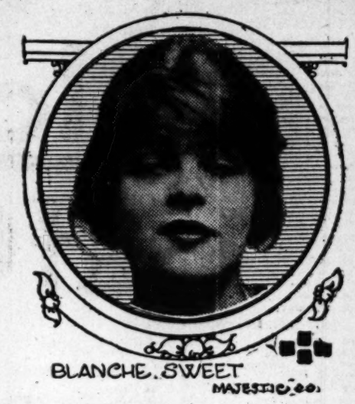

Finally, drawing Dick's revolver from its sheath, he held it out significantly. "A soldier's honor is worth more than his life," he said.

The boy bowed mutely over the gun, then shook hands with his father. "And Nancy, I must see her a minute," he said, huskily.

Going back to the girl, he took her in his arms and kissed her. "You don't know how much better I feel for that good night's rest," he assured her, smiling tenderly into her tearful eyes. "It has braced me splendidly for today's campaign. Good-by. Be good to father and don't worry," and he swung on his horse and cantered out on the road, sending her a farewell smile over his shoulder.

A few minutes later the sharp report of a pistol shot came to the ears of the colonel. Stealing out into the brush, he found his son lying lifeless. From Dick's inert hand the colonel took his revolver, knocked out the empty shell, replacing it with a fresh one, rubbed off the powder smoke, and slipped the gun back into its holster.

Late that afternoon the trooper who found Dick's body stooped over it. "Died like a soldier," he said, sadly. "Shot down with his messages"

MISS BLANCHE SWEET, three years ago, when she was 16, was "discovered" by Director D. W. Griffith, then with the Biograph company, and made into a famous little film star. In keeping with the company policy, her name was a secret, though film fans clamored for it, until the young actress was given a pseudonym for European use. There to this day she is known as "Daphne Dane," instead of as Blanche Sweet. Her real identity came out when last fall she accompanied Director Griffith to the Majestic and Reliance studios in Los Angeles, Cal.

"A Terror of the Night."
—Edison.

This is one of the most interestingly compact and thrilling of all Dolly's adventures in seeking "scoops" for her paper. In it she sleeps in a haunted house and catches the "haunt" by penetrating his disguise with the garden hose. She proves that a wet ghost has no chance at all.

"Too Many Husbands."
—Vitagraph.

Sidney Drew, after indulging in some intricacies of intoxication, figured as the disinherited nephew of his uncle and went to New York to further his chosen novelistic career. His penchant for novel writing, coupled with his affection for his uncle's ward, Dorothy, was the immediate cause for his banishment from the avuncular establishment. Novel writing uncle regarded as sheer imbecility, and Dorothy he intended for his secretary, Chauncey Chilton.

So Arthur traveled to the Brown's boarding house in New York and sent a manuscript off to a publisher. To the same house came Hughie Mack, a "human bloodhound sleuth," with agitatedly animated whiskers looking out through a reading glass, for "Double Cross Flynn."

Poor Dorothy, subjected to her guardian's insistence, at last let herself be engaged to Chilton, and Arthur read the announcement in the papers.

Angered, he wrote home that he was married himself, enclosing a photograph of his pretty landlady as clinching evidence. So delighted was uncle with the news that he cabled he was coming immediately to visit in his nephew's ménage, which put the nephew to the great trouble of borrowing his landlady for his wife, her husband for his secretary, and the Brown baby for his own.

With the arrival of uncle, accompanied by Dorothy and Chauncey, and the coming of Mrs. Brown's mother, matters were brought to a violent crisis over the christening of the baby. There were too many unrehearsed rôles, too many participants who did not know they were actors, too many misinterpreted demonstrations of affection.

The Gordian knot was finally simultaneously cut by two different individuals; the nephew induced Dorothy to elope with him and the "human bloodhound" discovered that Chauncey was the villain he was seeking.

"The Oath of Pierre."
—American.

This is strikingly beautiful in its photographed record of lovely scenery, and it chronicles in artistic fashion the tragic love story of a girl for a wandering surveyor, his later effort to entrap her brother's sweetheart, and the final battle between the brother and the false sweetheart.

"A Marriage for Money."
—Eclair.

This is an attractively tinted film, with the colors soft toned and unflickering. It chronicles a cross old farmer's bestowal upon one of his maids, for the service of pulling him out of the mill pond, of a shilling with which he ordered her to buy a lottery ticket. When next he saw her he asked if she bought the ticket and what its number was. Martha picked an idea at random from the air and answered "89."

All went well until the farmer had that the lottery ticket No. 89 had won $40,000, and then things went better. Immediately Martha became a person of importance to the farmer, and in a brief time indeed they were celebrating their wedding.

Right after the wedding dinner the farmer asked Martha for her lottery ticket and she displayed a gayly barred pair of stockings, which reduced him to a state of financial heart failure until the capable lady showed him that she herself as an investment was far superior to lottery tickets.

CHARGES DELAY IN BURIAL; SUES FOR $50,000 DAMAGES.

Mrs. Sarah Aylward Files Praecipe in Suit Against A. A. McCormick and Chicago Undertakers' Association.

The praecipe of a suit for $50,000 damages, brought by Mrs. Sarah Aylward against Alexander A. McCormick, superintendent of the county hospital; William O. Chapman, warden; Charles Nehls, undertaker, and the Chicago Undertakers' association, was filed yesterday in the Circuit court.

Attorneys Stedman and Soelke, solicitors for Mrs. Aylward, are preparing a declaration, in which they will charge that the county hospital authorities and undertakers caused delay in the burial of Mrs. Aylward's daughter, who died at the hospital May 24.

"They made a 'shuttle cock' of Mrs. Aylward, arguing back and forth about what undertaker should handle the funeral," was Attorney Stedman's explanation.

NOTED PARIS DUELIST HURT.

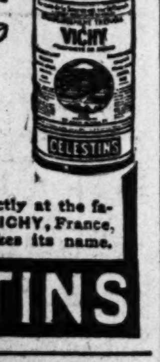

Leon Daudet Wounded in Forearm by Jacquez Roujon, Who Defended Name of His Father.

PARIS, June 12.—Leon Daudet, a notorious duelist, was wounded in the forearm in a sword duel today at Neuilly by Jacquez Roujon, son of Henry Roujon, the late secretary of the Academy of Fine Arts.

Roujon was the challenger and fought in defense of the name of his father, whose memory he considered to have been injured by articles which appeared in Daudet's paper, the Action Française, a royalist organ.

The encounter took place in private. Only the principals and seconds were present.

Marion Harland's Helping Hand.

By Marion Harland

Helped and Helping.

"I AM the shut-in who appealed for silk pieces recently. I have sent postage and thanked all the kind women who responded, and now wish to thank your helpful department. My husband said, 'If the women could see the enjoyment they gave me they would be amply repaid.' As a little thank offering I want to do something for some one and would like the address of the crippled girl, M. R., who asks for postcards. I enclose an addressed and stamped envelope; also a few stamps for the neglectful ones, as I noticed several of the latters were marked 'no stamps.' M. V. De M."

The address of the cripple went to you by mail. Your thank offering takes a lovely form. I thank you for the stamps. In spite of our oft repeated injunctions to those requesting replies by mail to enclose stamps for the same, at least one-third of such letters received by us contain none. Of course, when the case seems to us worthy of notice, we put on stamps from our own private store.

Deeds Speak for Her.

"I sent the bead and crochet patterns to Mrs. H. Now, please send me the address of Mrs. I. L., the teacher in the almshouse. I shall send her an occasional magazine.
MRS. V."

A model report from a faithful worker. She wastes not a word, but lets deeds speak for her.

Busy Mother Optimistic.

"Through the kindness of the H. H. C. in sending me the address of Mrs. D. I received the truss last week. It is much more comfortable than the old one, which was badly worn. As my husband is clerking and has to stand all day, he certainly appreciates it. In the future I shall pay more attention to the Corner, so when an opportunity offers itself I may some way be of assistance. Just now my times is extremely limited, as I am the mother of five little ones. The oldest is 9 and we are expecting another visit from the stork. I do my own sewing and almost all the household duties. Therefore, you may judge how fully occupied my time is. The generous and loving spirit which is the backbone of the H. H. C. makes me realize that the world is certaily getting better.
"MRS. M. G. T."

The mother of five who does nearly all the work of the household makes time (she certainly never "found" it) to cheer our hearts by writing a grateful and inspiring letter. She has struck a deep and tuneful chord by recognizing in the acts of the Corner the glorious truth that this dear old world of ours is growing better all the time. Gradually but surely the leaven of the Master's spirit and teachings is leavening the "whole lump" of human thought and conduct. And this in spite of the tumult of wars and rumors of wars that deafens us at times. It is the "littles" that make up the sum of life. A word here, a gift there, a few lines of sympathy to a stranger in distress, a smile of affectionate encouragement to "him who is weary"—these are the tokens of the gracious "leavening." To give "in His name"—be it but a cup of cold water, not expecting to receive again—is a sign of discipleship which He will acknowledge in His own way and time. Let us not be weary in well-doing!

Abdominal Supporters Offered.

"The last list you sent me was duly attended to, and I was able to dispose of all my offerings except the elastic abdominal supporters. I received no reply to my inquiry concerning them, and I still have them to give to any one needing them. Please send me the name and address of Mrs. W. A. S., who wants books and magazines; also Miss M. P., to whom whom she refers. Somebody wanted silk floss to finish quilts. I mislaid the clippings, so if you can place her, send me her address also. MRS. E. C. S."

As soon as we hear from men who need your trusses we will give you notice. The addresses for which you write have gone to you by mail. We account and value as a true yoke fellow one who is too much in earnest in carrying on the blessed work of bettering the world to be disinterested or offended by silence that may or may not mean ungrateful indifference. The Master knows.

Raisin Sweetmeats.

THE raisin has been in as high esteem in American cookery as the currant in English. It does not seem to occupy as high a place in our culinary affairs as formerly, perhaps because we do not make so many cakes and pies and puddings which require a great deal of work for the making.

As a sweetmeat pure and simple, the raisin seems to be gaining ground, but not in the simple sun dried form. It is chocolate dipped, either chopped or whole, and it is used to give flavor to many of the soft and more or less amateur candies.

Such compact, tasty things as the little turnovers filled with some mince, the flavor of which was mainly that of the chopped raisin, are seldom seen in picnic baskets now, perhaps because they require an envelope of pastry.

Quite as dainty as these and even more wholesome is the following, which one may hesitate to name. It is not a book recipe, and if we call our product raisin cakes that might be misleading, since these have been so universally made with flour. Perhaps we might call it

RAISIN PRALINES—Pick over, wash, stem, stone, and chop one cupful of raisins. Toast three or four slices of bread slowly, so that they will be well dried, and grate or crush them. Sift and mix only the finest crumbs with the raisins, measure for measure. Thoroughly mix and bind the two with a plain sugar sirup, then make up into little flat cakes, which for picnic use may be wrapped in oiled paper. If there is no "stock sirup" on hand a little may be made as follows:

Cook together one-half cupful of sugar and four tablespoonfuls of water until it just hairs; remove from the stove and set in cold water immediately. If the boiling is not promptly checked it will go on for almost a minute off the fire in the case of so small a quantity and when cold will turn to sugar.

If to this mixture an egg is added, then little cakes made of the compound and fried in butter, there will result a "pudding" of the oriental type, though not so heavy and sweet as are those compounds of chopped fruit, nuts, sirups (sometimes strained honey), and a cooked cereal, often cooked wheat.

Our vegetarian cooks make such compounds, pack them down in a tin, and call them loaves, which they slice in serving, but the cereal part has to be quite perfect or they are not as palatable as they might be. The toasted bread crumbs merely mixed with the raisins to cover them, modify agreeably a fruit that for some tastes is cloyingly sweet.

A filling for dipping in unsweetened chocolate is made much the same as the raisin pralines, except that granulated sugar is used instead of the bread crumbs or "raspings," and only one-third of the measure of raisins. This is worked into them, the whole bound with a little sirup and easily molded with the fingers into any desired shape. These harden promptly. This makes an acceptable filling for fondant balls.

Raisins chopped and mixed with white of egg and a bit of salt has become a popular sandwich filling under various names. The sandwiches should be prepared at the last moment. The change of flavor through cooking does not make the cooked raisin as agreeable a constituent for sweetmeats as those uncooked.

There are a number of delicious conserves which may be made by combining raisins with fresh fruits, but most of us get so busy with putting up the fresh fruits that we do not resort to this best of the dried fruits to help us out. But Riley M. Fletcher Berry has the following:

SAUCE OF RAISINS AND CURRANTS—Stem and mash a quart of ripe currants and put with them three-fourths of a pound of brown sugar. When these have come to the boiling point and have been skimmed, mix in three-fourths of a pound of seeded raisins. Let all cook together till raisins are thoroughly soft, skimming well and stirring after skimming. Let cool and serve as sauce or dessert.

CURRANT RAISIN JAM—Wash, drain, seed, and chop two pounds of muscatel raisins and place in preserving kettle. Meanwhile have ready, washed and stemmed, sufficient white currants to make three quarts of juice when mashed and strained. Add to this three pounds of sugar and stir the sweetened juice into the raisins. Mix well and let slowly come to a boil, skimming and stirring until it is smooth and thick. Let cool; place in jars and seal.

Doris Blake Says

"It Availeth a Husband Little to Be Lovingly Sentimental if His Memory Serve Him Wrong."

The number of letters received daily from correspondents who wish to be answered through the columns of "The Tribune" is so large in comparison with the space allotted to those answers that there is necessarily some delay in replying to many of the questions asked of Miss Blake. If you wish a prompt reply inclose in your letter a stamped, addressed envelope.

I HEARD an amusing story recently in proof of the above statement which I shall pass on to you:

They are celebrating their silver wedding, and, of course, the couple were happy and affectionate.

"Yes," said the husband, "this is the only woman I ever loved. I shall not forget the first time I proposed to her."

"How did you do it?" burst out a young man who had been squeezing a pretty girl's hand in the corner.

"Well," he answered, "I remember as well as if it were but yesterday. It was at Atlantic City. With some friends we had gone down for the day, and she and I were wandering alone. Don't you remember, my dear?"

The wife smiled.

"We sat by the shore. You haven't forgotten, love, have you?"

The wife nodded.

"She began writing in the sand with the point of her parasol. You recall it, sweet, don't you?"

The wife nodded again.

"She wrote her name, 'Minnie,' and I said, 'Let me put the other name to it.' And I took the parasol and wrote my name, 'Fibkins,' after it. And she took back the parasol and wrote below it, 'No, I won't.' You remember it, darling? I see you do."

Then he kissed her, and the company murmured, sentimentally, "Wasn't it pretty?"

The visitors had all departed and the happy couple were left alone.

"Wasn't it nice, Minnie, to see all the friends around us so happy?"

"Yes, it was, John. But that reminiscence!"

"Ah, it seems as if it were only yesterday."

"Yes, dear; there are only three things you are wrong about in that story."

"Wrong? O, no!"

"John, I am sorry you told that story, because I never went to the seaside with you before we were married, I never was at Atlantic City in my life, and I never refused you."

"My darling, you must be wrong."

"I am not wrong, Mr. Fibkins. I have a good memory, and although we have been married twenty-five years, I'd like to know who that minx was. You never told me about her before."

He Broke an Engagement.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young lady of 20. After keeping company with a young gentleman for a number of months he took me to a dance. Since then I have not heard from him and he failed to come to see me last Sunday evening as he promised. As I do not know what is the matter with him I do not know what to do. What would you advise? Shall I write him a note? PERPLEXED."

Do not write to him. Since he broke an engagement with you, it is his place to explain matters without your asking him why he did not come.

He's Jealous.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young girl of 18 and am keeping steady company with a young man of 20. Every time I go to a party with him he gets so jealous that I don't know what to do with him. H. G. M."

A jealous man is the most unpleasant companion in the world. If he persists in being obnoxious, stop having anything to do with him.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.

By Lillian Russell

The Cultivation of Beauty.

[Copyright: 1914: By Lillian Russell.]

If you prefer to have your question answered by individual letter please send stamped, addressed envelope.

THERE are persons, even in these progressive and advanced days, who look upon it as little less than blasphemy to talk of improving, to say nothing of perfecting, the human race, man and woman, "the noblest work of God, and made in his image!"

We are zealously engaged, through the instrumentalities of science and religion, in developing and molding the intellect and the affections. But these in the present stage of our existence must manifest themselves through the physical organization, and while this is defective their action must be obstructed and their manifestation imperfect.

It is only through a healthy and shapely body that a sound and harmoniously developed mind can operate with perfect freedom and efficiency. It is also true that the natural action of the symmetrically developed mind tends to the reproduction of its own symmetry in the physical organization, and in bringing external influences to bear upon the latter, for its improvement, we but second the efforts of the inner intelligence.

We find man at the present day weak, diseased, if not absolutely ugly, at least far below our ideal standard of beauty, both in face and form. It is certainly time to exercise the same principles and rules adopted for the improvement of the lower animals. We all want to be physically perfect. Who does not want to be healthy, strong, graceful, and beautiful? And who can desire other inducements to give his or her attention to any one who shall honestly and earnestly essay to instruct him or her in reference to the means of obtaining them? There are still prudes who think that the human form must never be mentioned except in the conventional language of the tailor or dressmaker.

Remember: As the tulip can be striped to our liking and the rose impart the hue we fancy, so can the human form be changed into symmetry and grace, the cheek be tinted with nature's own coloring.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

OLIVE: Heavy massage will reduce flesh. I would not advise you to try this on your face. If the flesh of the face is reduced it leaves the muscles soft and flabby. The chin will sag and wrinkles will form. You are so young I would not advise you to attempt to do anything to reduce the flesh on your face.

MELBA: I am sorry I cannot give you a formula for making cocoa butter. This may be purchased at any drug store. It is excellent for increasing the size of the bust and for filling in hollows in the neck.

D. C.: I have a formula for an excellent hair tonic which will remedy dandruff and I shall be glad to send it to you upon receipt of the required stamped, addressed envelope. The formula for hair tonic has been published several times of late and I cannot publish it again for some time.

DOTTY: Here is an excellent formula for blonde hair: One tablespoon of listerine, three tablespoons of tincture of green soap, and the white of one egg. Mix. After wetting the scalp and hair thoroughly with warm water pour the shampoo mixture over the head and rub with the finger tips until a stiff lather is formed. Do this three times if the hair is heavy. This cleanses the scalp thoroughly. Be sure to rinse the hair well, spray all the shampoo lotion out of it; if any soap is allowed to remain it will surely spoil blonde hair. You might add the juice of half a lemon to the last rinsing water. This will not bleach the hair, but it will help to keep it light.

How to Earn Money at Home.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

"I WANT to tell you about something that I made," writes one eager little home worker. "I am 16 years old, and I am a home worker just like my mother. There are lots of home workers in our neighborhood. They're doing all kinds of things, but none of them does what I'm doing.

"You see, I wanted to earn some money to go away with this summer. I always go to spend the summer with my grandmother, so, of course, I don't need a lot of money, but I do like to have a little spending money. Mother can't afford to give me any after she's sent me there, so all I have is just what grandma or one of my aunts gives me, and that isn't much, you know, when there are lots of other children that have to be given spending money.

"I made up my mind this year that I'd earn some money of my own. Mother said that she'd help me sell anything I wanted to make. One thing that I saw when I was visiting a girl friend of mine that seemed like a good idea to me was a cover of flannel or something that her mother put on the broom to dust floors and to take down cbwebs and things like that.

"I made some out of an old woolen skirt for my mother, and she thought they were fine. But we don't have bare floors, so they weren't much use to her. She said 'Why don't you make them to sell to women who could use them? They're not hard to make, and you'd be sure to be able to sell them.

"I had about a dollar saved up. I took 50 cents f it and bught sme dark brwn canton flannel. Then I got to work on the covers. They're really awfully easy t make. You just sew up three seams and put a casing in the top to run a tape through and the cover is finished. They can be taken off and washed. I thought I could sell them for about 15 cents and make money.

"The first woman I went to bought two of them, and I told her she could have them for 25 cents. Always after that I told the person who was going to buy them that it was cheaper to buy two than one, and I usually sold them in pairs.

"I have already earned about $3, and I think that's pretty good for a girl of 16, don't you? I'm going to find something to do when I'm away. I don't suppose that I can spend all my time making broom covers, so I'm going to think with all of my might about what else I can do."

Isn't that an interesting little letter? It makes me so happy to know that 16 and 60 are working together to earn the little money that will make them feel independent.

Perhaps you are a girl of 16, and perhaps you would like to earn some money. Almost every girl would like to have some little thing and she would appreciate it lots more if she could earn it herself.

I once had a little red pocketbook. My mother and I bought it with the money I had earned from my little garden. I don't remember exactly what the different vegetables in my little garden were now, but I do remember that I watched over that little garden, and when the vegetables were ready to be sold I tied them up with the most zealous care. I was about 10 years old then. Of course, my mother took more care of the garden than I did, but I thought I was doing all the work, and the discipline was splendid for me. I established a steady trade with our neighbors, who were glad to buy fresh vegetables from me.

I shall never forget how proud I was when I hung that little red purse on my arm and walked down Main street. Every one in town knew I had earned it, and I was stopped all the way along the street by congratulatory friends.

I don't recommend little red purses as the safest and best investment of childish earnings, but I do recommend earning money. "I bought the purse to keep my money in," I explained whenever any one stopped to admire it. As a matter of fact, I hadn't a penny to put into it, but it wasn't long before I did have. And I often think that just seeing that little red purse spurred me on to earning something to put into it.

"TANGOING CHICKENS" LEAD BUYER INTO CIVIL LAWSUIT.

Police Raided Street Vender's Show on Ground That Toy Dance Was Not the Proper Thing.

Isaac Gordon of 1956 West Twelfth street, a street vender, invested $12 in toy "tango chickens" last Christmas. He was arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge La Buy in a suit brought by the Max Thomsen company. Thomsen said Gordon refused to pay for the "chickens."

"The police pinched me right after I bought the chickens and took them away from me. I never got them back. They were sold to me on ten days' time. I never made any money off them and couldn't pay Thomsen," Gordon said.

"Why did the police stop you?" Judge La Buy asked.

"They said the chickens did an indecent dance and I was maintaining a public nuisance. They 'raided' me fifteen minutes after I put the chickens out on the sidewalk to dance. There was a good crowd, but I hadn't made a sale."

On the recommendation of Judge La Buy Gordon and the Thomsen company agreed to compromise. The case was settled out of court.

Woman Cashes Worthless Check.

Marcus W. Benna, a grocer at 4010 Broadway, notified the police yesterday that he had cashed a worthless check for $45 for a woman wearing a black silk dress and a small black hat. The check was drawn on the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank. The woman was about 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighed 135 pounds.

ECZEMA LIKE LIVING FIRE

On Head and Face. Itched and Burned Terribly. Would Form Scales. Hair All Came Out. Eyes so Sore Could Hardly See. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

R. F. D. No. 1, Box 57, Michigan City, Ind.—"I had the eczema on my head ever since I could remember. It would itch and burn terribly sometimes. It came on my face and was like a living fire. My eczema was like pimples and if I scratched them they would bleed and form scales like finger nails. I had scars all over my face. I could not sleep because it itched so badly and I would scratch. My hair all came out in one week. My eyes got so sore that I could hardly see well. I suffered terribly and I thought there would be no cure for me.

"I treated and spent fifty dollars and got no help. I was discouraged. My sister came to see me and she told me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I would bathe in hot water and Cuticura Soap and then put the Cuticura Ointment on twice a day, morning and night, and bandage my face and head as much as I could. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and my cure is complete." (Signed) Mrs. W. H. Rhode, Oct. 23, 1913.

It costs nothing to learn how pure, sweet, effective and satisfying Cuticura Soap and Ointment are in the treatment of poor complexions, red, rough hands, itching scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, because you need not buy them until you try them. Although sold everywhere, sample of each will be mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

NEW YORK ATTORNEY GENERAL OPPOSES TRIP FOR H. K. THAW.

Says Department Regards Slayer of White as Insane and Will Not Recognize Right to Be at Large.

Albany, N. Y., June 12.—Attorney General Carmody is opposed to Harry K. Thaw being permitted to go to Pennsylvania in connection with the settlement of the estate of his father.

He declared today he had not agreed to Thaw making the trip.

"This department regards Thaw as insane, a menace to society and a fugitive from justice," he said. "He is at liberty because his money has triumphed thus far over the law, and no arrangement of any kind will be entered into that will recognize his right to be at large."

BEAUTIFIERS USED PARAFFIN, SO WOMAN DEMANDS $50,000

Dermatologists Testify in Suit That Injections Might Affect Nerves and Appearance.

Dermatologists were on the witness stand yesterday in Judge Honore's court to testify regarding the effect of paraffin injections on the skin and the nerves.

They were witnesses for Mrs. Nina Clampitt of 4518 Beacon street, in her $50,000 damage suit against Dr. H. R. Enlow and Dr. J. Elizabeth Tompkins, beauty doctors, of 8 West Randolph street.

Dr. Nathaniel H. Adams of 108 North State street, and Dr. W. A. Pusey, professor of dermatology in the University of Illinois, testified paraffin injections could seriously affect the nerves, as well as the appearance of Mrs. Clampitt.

The suit will be continued Monday morning.

WOMAN'S BIENNIAL VOTES TODAY ON EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Mrs. Pennybacker Fears Break in Club Federation if Issue Longer Is Postponed.

ISSUE GIVEN RIGHT OF WAY

Suffragists Present Desired Resolution for Early Meeting of Committee.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs shall decide this morning in Chicago whether or not an organized million of women throughout the United States are to support the widening demand for universal suffrage. The convention shall vote on a resolution, embodying an unqualified indorsement of a ballot for women.

The vote was ordered yesterday by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Texas, president of the general federation. She and her friends fear a break in the organization over the suffrage issue. They decided opposition only would make more violent the storm when it broke. Mrs. Pennybacker easily could have let the suffrage question go over until Wednesday, when the resolution committee makes its regular report. Her move is a concession to the equal suffrage element in the federation.

Surprise to Suffragists.

The suffragists generally were surprised by Mrs. Pennybacker's announcement. However, a conference of suffrage workers was called and Mrs. Joseph A. Leach of Kentucky drew up a resolution for presentation early this morning to the resolutions committee. The resolution was turned over to Mrs. E. G. Denniston of San Francisco, chairman of the committee.

The resolutions committee will meet about 7 o'clock. When the convention of the federation opens at 9:30 o'clock the form of the resolution will be ready. Members of the committee have a right to alter the Leach resolution, but they may not do so.

An organ recital of half an hour will open the convention and sooth the militant breast. When the last organ note has died away the president will call on the resolutions committee for their special report—and the suffrage question will be before the thousands of delegates.

Spend Busy Day.

The suffragists spent a busy day among the various departments of the federation. Seventeen state delegations already have adopted the principle of equal suffrage, and warm discussions are arising over the issue in at least as many more. There is a strong opposition to the suffrage resolutions. Much comes from nonsuffragists, but a number of suffragists are against indorsement of suffrage by the federation. They say political questions will impair the usefulness, if not altogether destroy the present efficiency, of the federation.

Mrs. John L. Ruhl, an official of the state suffrage organization of West Virginia, said in the conference of the political science department in the afternoon at the Auditorium theater that a suffrage tag on club work is likely to frighten a great many women of her state away from clubs.

"I am a suffragist," Mrs. Ruhl said, "and work for suffrage all the time. Many women in my state are learning to be suffragists through women's clubs. But they don't realize they are. Now, please be careful whose head you hit."

Women Write for Information.

In her report to the political science department, Helen Varick Boswell said a large number of clubs had been interested in the suffrage movement and had sent in to ask where to get information about it. The committee has sent out a suffrage pamphlet called "A Mother's Sphere," by Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, a member of the political science committee. Miss Boswell says the pamphlet has converted many to suffrage.

"In the last two years as never before," reads the report, "there has been a strong yearning on the part of women all over the country to become really intelligent in their understanding of government, and this committee has been the means of helping and guiding them. Evidently the women feel there are so many men in the country, those who make our laws and do our voting for us, totally lacking in any adequate knowledge of their own relation to government and its relation to the people, they are determined to be better prepared to give to the country intelligent service when citizenship comes to them; the general federation of women's clubs does well to foster activity among our club women in the effort to be prepared for, and to use well, the full function of citizenship which is surely coming to them in all of these United States."

Iowa Women Want Vote.

The Iowa delegation at the Congress hotel adopted resolutions favoring the passage of an equal suffrage bill by the Iowa legislature.

The delegation of 150 is the largest from any state. At the convention today the delegation will ask the passage of resolutions favoring the Iowa suffrage bill.

At the evening session Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt appealed to the delegates to give their strength to the cause of women.

"There are still women," Mrs. Catt said, "so medieval in spirit that they believe they have done their highest duty when they have given their sons to the world, but I say it is a greater duty and service to put their own ballots in the ballot box. The world is calling you to solve its problems. It is demanding of women that they look to the future, that they right the wrongs of men and women. I ask of you to give yourselves to the cause.

"The women of the western world have no right to claim the leadership in this movement. The efforts to stamp it out in the east have been stronger. The women of the east are waiting for you when you have risen to the full realization of your vision to reach out your hands until they shall again realize their wonderful vision.

"The handwriting is on the wall that 'votes for women' is coming. Even our opponents admit that."

Dr. Jenkin Lloyd Jones spoke on "Peace."

Urge Sex Hygiene in Schools.

A movement was set on foot to establish courses in sex hygiene in all normal schools. Mrs. Margaret W. Barry, chairman of the social hygiene in normal school committee, made the report at the afternoon conference of the educational section in the Auditorium theater. William B. Owen, principal of the Chicago Normal school, urged the adoption of a course only after experimentation. Miss Jane Addams urged the federation to find a method of approach for sex instruction for the normal schools. Mrs. William S. Hefferan urged the adoption of a single standard of morals for boys and girls and the necessary instruction of them in sex hygiene.

"The home is not giving the boys and girls the information they are entitled to," Mrs. Hefferan said. "The schools must supplement the homes in that particular, or possibly take it up altogether. The federation should urge that the normal schools and schools of education of the universities put in courses in sex hygiene. Perhaps the greatest work would be education of the parents along with the children."

Ranch Women Form Clubs.

Mrs. F. J. McHugh, president of the Social Improvement club of Longmont, Colo., told how the women on the ranches had been rescued from loneliness through their clubs.

The Livermore club, thirty miles from Fort Collins, she said, was reached by stage. There was a clubhouse erected by the farm wives, who used it as a social center. Once every month the women on the ranches filled their lunch baskets and were carried by stage to the clubrooms. The morning was given up to social duties; at noontime they ate their lunches in the woods, and in the afternoon they held club meetings. They discussed the best methods of raising chickens, exchanged dress patterns—and told how to preserve fruits. One bylaw of the constitution of the farmwives' club was strictly enforced: "Do not talk about hard work."

Through these farmwives' clubs the traveling libraries of the state are circulated, and the women were being interested in art and literature.

Reform Begins at Home.

Mrs. Imogen B. Oakley, chairman of the civil service reform department, led a conference in the Congress hotel. She said the path of civil service reform leads straight into the home.

"Laws regulating light and drainage," Mrs. Oakley said, "are easily evaded by contractors who find it easier to contribute to the campaign funds of the party in power than to build honestly, with no dark rooms, with water on every floor, and with fire escapes really fireproof. The schoolhouses in which our children pass so much time are too often neglected by building inspectors."

Mrs. Oakley asserted that excellent laws to protect the meat and food supplies are often nullified by indifferent enforcement or absolute neglect.

"The women of Providence, R. I.," Mrs. Oakley said, "hit the nail on the head when they said in a recent campaign for pure milk: 'We must skim the politics off the milk.'"

R. E. Blackwood, secretary of the Chicago Civil Service Reform association, said efficient civil service work in Illinois was hindered by the exemption of chief clerks from examination, the "blanket clause" which permits all old employés to remain in the service without examination, and temporary appointments without examination.

Uniform Laws Urged.

Coöperative legislative work in the state and nation was the theme of the legislative conference of the state legislative boards in the Fine Arts building.

Mrs. Anna H. King of the Utah state legislature told of the winning fight the women of Utah waged to secure the passing of the "joint guardianship bill."

"Women have had full right of the ballot in Utah for seventeen years and are a power in Utah," said Mrs. King.

The "wet" and "dry" question was brought into the federation by Mrs. William Tilton, chairman of the alcohol education committee of the Boston Associated Charities. She showed posters used in the Boston campaign at the conference of the educational section. She said she had been requested by Miss Zona Gale, chairman of the civics department of the federation, to ask a nation-wide educational campaign against alcohol

Chairman Who Will Present Biennial Song, and Other Leaders

Biennial to Adopt Song

This is the song tried out last night at the Auditorium which will be presented today at the meeting of the music committee for adoption as the federation's hymn. Hitherto there has been no official song. Mrs. Lawrence Maxwell of Cincinnati, O., the chairman of the federation's department of music, will offer the song to the women.

"AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL."

By Katherine Lee Bates.
Music by Will C. MacFarlane.

O, beautiful for spacious skies,
For amber waves of grain,
For purple mountain majesties
America, America, God shed his grace on thee
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea!

O, beautiful for pilgrim feet
Whose stern, impassion'd stress
A thoroughfare for freedom beat
Across the wilderness!
America, America, God mend thy every flaw,
Confirm thy soul in self-control,
Thy liberty in law!

O, beautiful for heroes proved,
In liberating strife,
Who more than self their country loved
And mercy more than life!
America, America, may God thy gold refine
Till all success be nobleness
And every gain divine!

O, beautiful for patriot dream
That sees beyond the years
Thine alabaster cities gleam
Undimm'd by human tears!
America, America, God shed his grace on thee
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea.

RUSETOS VERDICT LEADS TO RIOTING

Free for All Fight in Court Follows Announcement of "Not Guilty."

MRS. FLORAS SWOONS.

"—Not Guilty!"

Hardly had the verdict of the jury in the Rusetos murder case died from the lips of Clerk Thomas Heneaghan in Judge Kersten's court yesterday when Mrs. Vavilia Floras, widow of the slain man, shrieked and staggered toward the jury box. She swooned before she had gone three steps and fell into the arms of Chief Deputy Sheriff John Ryan.

Her scream was the signal for one of the wildest demonstrations ever witnessed in a Chicago court room. The room was crowded with men and women, friends of Peter Rusetos, the defendant, and of James J. Floras, his partner in the ice cream business, whom he shot and killed in their Milwaukee avenue establishment. Before bailiffs and deputy sheriffs could make a move the two factions clashed in a free for all fight.

Women Claw and Scratch.

Men swore and struck and kicked at each other. Women screamed, clawed, and scratched. The Floras faction surged toward the defendant and the jury box. One of the leaders swung at Deputy Sheriff Thomas Sturch, missed him and fell down from the force of the misdirected blow. He was immediately set upon and beaten and kicked by Rusetos sympathizers. Sturch seized him before he could escape. Half a dozen deputy sheriffs and bailiffs and four detective sergeants from the state's attorney's office formed a cordon about Rusetos and fought their way to a rear elevator.

Other court attachés waded into the struggling mass, but it was several minutes before even a semblance of order was restored.

When the tumult had subsided, Judge Kersten ordered Sturch to bring his prisoner before him. The man, who said he was a lawyer, refused to tell his name. The court issued a "John Doe" commitment order for the man to be held in $2,000 bonds to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt. He ordered the man taken to jail and set his hearing for July 7. In the evening the man obtained his release on bonds signed by Judge Petit. He said he was Michael E. Litonati, a lawyer in the Reaper block.

Rushed Away in Auto.

Those guarding Rusetos escorted him to the waiting automobile of his attorney, Patrick H. O'Donnell, and he was whisked away. A crowd on the outside of the building attempted a demonstration against the acquitted man, but the stars displayed on the detectives' coats caused them to fall back.

Mrs. Floras was carried to a rear seat and then to an anteroom. A physician was summoned and worked over her ten minutes before she revived.

Before the verdict was read Judge Kersten's personal bailiff, Walter Magnus, cautioned the spectators against disorder. His warning was given to the spectators through a Greek interpreter. Judge Kersten, fearing trouble, had summoned several extra deputies to the court.

It was said only one ballot was taken by the jury. Rusetos pleaded self-defense. The state charged the murder was cold blooded.

The tragedy occurred in the place of business at 738 Milwaukee avenue on Aug. 1, 1913, during a quarrel over business affairs. The quarrel extended over a period of three months and Floras had attempted to induce Rusetos to either buy the place or sell out his interest, but had failed.

BOY OF FIVE HAS MANIA FOR KILLING ALL LIVING THINGS.

City's Psychopathic Expert Says Wilfred Eldridge, Who Slew Chickens and Cat, Has Vicious Tendencies.

Wilfred Eldridge, a 5 year old boy, who has developed a mania for killing all living things, was examined yesterday by Dr. Hickson, the city's psychopathic expert. Dr. Hickson reported he had the brain of a 7 year old boy and vicious tendencies "which no amount of training could overcome."

The boy was adopted by Mrs. Alma Christiannse of 2100 West Sixty-eighth street, who had the adoption decree set aside by County Judge Owens. She said he had killed chickens and cats, and once was caught beating a neighbor's baby with his fists. He talks continually on electrical and mechanical subjects, she said, and understands the conversation of his elders.

United States District Attorney Wilkerson has a 10 year old brother of the boy on a Michigan farm, who is exceptionally bright. Another brother in Canada has developed criminal tendencies. Mrs. Josephine Lawrence, superintendent of the department of social service, into whose custody the child was given by the court, asked Mrs. Christiannse to keep him until she could determine where he should be sent.

HOUSE REPASSES CANAL TOLLS BILL; TO BE LAW MONDAY

Concurs in Senate Amendment by Vote of 216 to 71; No Conference Held.

OLD BITTERNESS REVIVED

Glass of Virginia Condemns Democratic Leaders Who Opposed Measure.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Only President Wilson's signature is necessary to repeal the clause of the Panama canal act exempting American coastwise shipping from the payment of tolls. The president is expected to sign the measure on Monday. Speaker Clark and Vice President Marshall will attach their signatures tomorrow and send the bill to the white house.

It was just a little more than three months ago that the president addressed the house and senate in joint session, urgently asking for repeal of the exemption clause that the nation might keep its treaty obligations.

The long and bitter fight in congress came to an end today when the house, after brief debate and without the formality of a conference, accepted by a vote of 216 to 71 the senate amendment specifically reserving all rights the United States may have under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty or otherwise.

Vote Down Proposed Change.

Before ending the contest by concurring in the senate amendment the house voted down, 174 to 108, a proposal advanced by Representative Moss of West Virginia to attach to the repeal a flat declaration of the rights of the United States to exempt its vessels from tolls and of the sovereignty of the United States over the Canal Zone.

During the discussion today there were flashes of the heat in the debate which characterized the original consideration of the measure. Representative Underwood, the Democratic leader, although voting for the senate amendment, said that congress should never have made this "un-American surrender," and called the amendment "ineffective and negative."

Republican Leader Mann, who had vigorously opposed repeal, supported the amendment, declaring it left the entire question of the rights of this country to be determined in the future.

Attacks Democratic Leaders.

Representative Glass of Virginia attacked the Democratic leaders who opposed the measure. He denounced the "outrageous assaults made on the president" by the Republicans, and expressed indignation "at the leaders of the Democratic side who have aspersed their own colleagues because they would not follow them into the camp of the Republican party in advocacy of a Republican doctrine."

"Mr. Speaker," he added, "I think you will search the political records of this country in vain to find such a spectacle as we have found here in this congress—the leaders of the Democratic party deserting their party and standing shoulder to shoulder with Republican leaders against a Democratic president; and yet, in the face of the spectacle, such is the patriotism and fidelity of the Democratic party that we leave our leaders and march up to the firing line and whip the whole business."

Twenty Democrats voted against the motion to concur in the senate amendment. They were: Brockson, Broussard, Conry, Deitrick, Donohoe, Driscoll, Dupre, Estopinal, Fitzgerald, Gallivan, Harrison, Kitchin, Lee of Pennsylvania, Mitchell, O'Leary, O'Shaunessy, Patten of New York, Phelan, Rake, and Reilly of Connecticut.

Thirty-seven Republicans and three Progressives joined the Democrats in support of the motion. They were:

STEAMER OWNERS WIN FROM LABOR

La Follette Bill to Be Amended at Their Request by House Committee.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—The steamship owners have triumphed over the American Federation of Labor in the fight to have the La Follette seamen's bill amended by the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries.

The committee today agreed to report the bill to the house next week, with many modifications of the drastic provisions for the manning of vessels and their equipment with life saving devices.

Labor representatives who fought for a favorable report on the La Follette bill predict vigorous opposition to the concessions on the floor of the house.

Modify Steamers' Equipment.

Modifications were made by the house committee with reference to the number of lifeboats that must be carried by the large passenger vessels, particularly on the great lakes; the number of seamen and the length of time men aboard ship must be kept on duty.

During the summer months, May 15 to Sept. 15, when traffic on the great lakes is heaviest, the house bill provides that the steamers which travel routes more than the three miles from shore shall be required to carry lifeboats and life rafts to accommodate only 50 per cent of those aboard ship. Of that 50 per cent two-fifths may be in life boats and the remaining three-fifths in pontoon liferafts or collapsible lifeboats.

During the other months of the navigation season the vessls must carry lifeboats and liferafts for all on board.

Affects Boats on Lakes.

Special provision is made for the excursion steamers on the great lakes. On ships which do not travel more than three miles from shore, the number, capacity, and type of lifeboats and liferafts shall be determined by the board of supervising inspectors.

Cargo steam vessels must carry lifeboats for all on board at all seasons of the year. For all passenger vessels, the keels of which are laid after July 1, 1915, there shall be lifeboats for all.

The senate bill provides that every ship shall carry two able seamen for each lifeboat and that a seaman to be rated as such must have had three years' service on the oceans or great lakes. The house bill provides that each boat or raft must have a number of certified lifeboat men, the number being dependent on the size of the boat or raft.

OLD BRITISH CHURCH IS FIRED BY MILITANT "ARSON SQUAD."

Squares of Oil Saturated Felt Used as Lighters—Police Persist in Harrying Suffragists.

LONDON, June 12.—A determined attempt was made by militant suffragists this morning to burn the ancient Church of St. Margaret's at Chipstead, fourteen miles southeast of London. Three distinct fires, fed by fire lighters composed of squares of felt saturated with oil, were set by the "arson squad."

The rector, the Rev. William H. Stone, and the villagers were able to extinguish the flames before much damage had been done. The church dates from the twelfth century.

The police are persisting in their harrying tactics against the militants and they are determined not to give them any rest. Today they raided a private house in Kensington where the "wild women" established their headquarters after their offices in Westminster had been invaded and closed a few days ago. Great quantities of papers were seized by the police, but no arrests were made.

London suffragists visited several theaters tonight and interrupted the performances. The audiences at Daly's, the Duke of York's, His Majesty's, the Queen's, and the New theaters were among those subjected to insults. All the interrupters were ejected amid angry demonstrations by the playgoers, especially the women.

NEW BALKAN WAR LOOMS; TURKS GET GREEK ULTIMATUM

Hellenic Government Demands Persecution of Its People Be Stopped.

100,000 REFUGEES FLEEING

London Dispatch Says Moslems Attack Aivalik, Coast City, with Machine Guns.

ATHENS, Greece, June 12.—A warning to Turkey, which fell little short of a formal declaration of hostilities, was uttered today by Premier Venizelos of Greece in the chamber of deputies. He was speaking on the treatment of Greek subjects in Turkey.

The government also sent a vigorous note to Turkey, demanding the cessation of the persecution of the Greeks in Turkey and the repair of damage caused to them and their interests.

Public opinion in the Greek capital is greatly excited, and demands are made that the government take immediate sharp action in the matter.

Tension Near Breaking Point.

Premier Venizelos' attitude showed that the tension between Greece and Turkey was near the breaking point and that the danger of war was imminent.

M. Venizelos, who obviously found difficulty in restraining his language when he spoke of the way in which the Turks had treated his fellow countrymen, said:

"I do not wish to allow to escape me words which cannot be recalled, but I should fail in my duty if I did not inform the chamber of deputies that the situation has become grave—even very grave. If a stop is not put to these conditions the Hellenic government will be forced not to content itself with joining in the lamentations of unhappy refugees."

Loud and prolonged cheers greeted the statement of the premier, who added that thousands of Greek refugees already had reached the homeland from Turkey, while thousands more were only awaiting transportation facilities "in order to escape from their persecutors." Such a situation, he concluded, could not be borne much longer.

Turkey Repeatedly Warned.

The premier characterized the Turkish persecutions of Greeks as being "of a character such as history had never known until today, their object being the elimination of populations which had been living in those places for several thousand years.

M. Venizelos said the attention of Turkey had been repeatedly called to the dangers likely to arise from these persecutions, but the Turkish government's only reply was to attribute the movement to vengeance for the alleged sufferings of the Mussulman populations in Macedonia. He estimated the number of Greek refugees who already had arrived in Greece or were awaiting transportation at about 100,000, all of whom, he declared, were abandoning their entire possessions in order to escape persecution.

Turkish Attack Is Denied.

LONDON, June 13.—The reported attack by Turkish regulars and a force of Bashi-Bazouks on the town of Aivalik, Asia Minor, is denied in dispatches received here. It is said that instructions from Constantinople to the Turkish troops arrived in time to prevent the attack. About 25,000 Greeks inhabit Aivalik.

An Exchange telegraph company's dispatch from Athens says the Greco-Turkish situation has entered a more serious stage. The Greek foreign minister today informed the representatives in Greece of the European powers that although his government was desirous of maintaining peace it could no longer remain indifferent to the continued expulsion of Greek subjects from Thrace and elsewhere.

London Not Surprised.

The threat of another Greco-Turkish war did not come as a surprise to diplomats here today. It was pointed out that events in the near east during recent months had been kindling the strongest animosities between the two peoples.

Greece accuses Turkey of the wholesale expulsion with great cruelties of Greek Christians from the province of Thrace, while Turkey accuses Greece of oppressing former Turkish subjects in the region of Saloniki, which was taken by the Greeks in the recent Balkan war.

Only recently the Greek patriarch threatened to remove the headquarters of the church from Constantinople.

Greece Gets Navy Ready.

Messages from Athens today state that one class of the Greek naval reserves has been called out ostensibly to participate in fleet maneuvers.

Greek ship owners have telegraphed instructions to the commanders of their steamers in the Black sea to pass through the Dardanelles immediately and return to Greek waters.

A conference between the Russian and Roumanian ministers has been planned to take place at Bucharest, Roumania, next week to endeavor to prevent the breaking out of war.

A general meeting of the Islamic society was held in London on Wednesday to protest against "the systematic extermination of the Moslem population of the Balkans, pursued by various Balkan states, especially Greece."

Official timer—W. Struther Jones.

Hempstead, L.I., June 12.—[Special.]—England and the United States will meet tomorrow at Meadowbrook in the first game of the series of polo matches which will decide whether the international cup brought back by Harry Payne Whitney's team in 1909 shall remain in this country for another year or be returned to Hurlingham, where it rested for twenty-three years before the prowess of the big four of Meadowbrook carried it away.

With one exception the team that will defend the cup is the same that brought it back in 1909 and has retained the trophy against two invading teams. England has made a systematic attempt this year to gather the best available four.

Great Crowd to See Match.

Arrangements have been made to handle a crowd larger than has ever been present at a polo match. Not a seat remains unsold in either the west or east stands.

With ponies and players in excellent condition, none of the members of the international teams took any exercise today and saddles and polo mallets were set aside. The members of the American team spent the greater part of the day on Long Island sound in the yacht of Harry Payne Whitney. Some of the English players spent a portion of the day motoring over Long Island highways. Those who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Phipps were on the Phipps estate the gerater part of the day.

Capt. Cheape Ready to Play.

Dr. Louis N. Lane Hart, the physician of Capt. Cheape, said the captain's trouble had about disappeared and that he would be in fine condition for tomorrow's game.

William A. Hazard, secretary and treasurer of the national association, spent the day at Meadowbrook supervising the finishing touches to the field and grand stand. The field looks perfect tonight and the English ponies stationed at the Meadowbrook club all appear in fine fettle except three, which yesterday showed some slight indications of lameness. The American ponies at the H. P. Whitney estate at Wheatley Hills are all in excellent condition.

Yankees Favored in Odds.

Wagering on the outcome is not overbrisk, due to the lack of English money. The odds generally quoted are 7 to 5 on the American four to win the series of two games out of three, with 10 to 8 quoted on an American victory tomorrow. Many small wagers were made tonight at 5 to 3, but the heavy betting which was lively earlier in the week was a shade closer than these quotations.

EIGHTY MOTOR BOATS IN RACE; ALL KINDS TO CONTEST TODAY.

Record Field Named in "Bang and Go Back" Affair Starting from Van Buren Street Light.

Eighty entries for the power boat race to be held today were received up to 6 o'clock last night, the official time for the closing of the nominations. Owing to several requests for more time, however, boats will be allowed in up to noon today.

Among the entries are all manner of power boats, from the biggest gas yachts on the lake front to little, canoelike craft driven by removable motors. Seven organizations have boats entered in the going, and the race will be the largest of its kind ever held on fresh water.

In order that the boats may all have an even chance the contest is a "bang and go back" affair. The boats are sent away on a given course, and then when a gun is fired they turn about and make back for the starting line. This brings them all in about the same time, and the victorious boat is the one which is best handled.

The contest will start at 3:30 o'clock from the Van Buren street light.

The fifth race of the class P boats in the international trials will be held at 2:30 o'clock around the Hyde Park crib. Four boats—Valiant, Olympian, Michicago, and South Shore—will be in the contest.

BADGERS GIVEN FIRST DRILL.

Short Workout in Morning and Longer One in Afternoon for Wisconsin Men on Hudson.

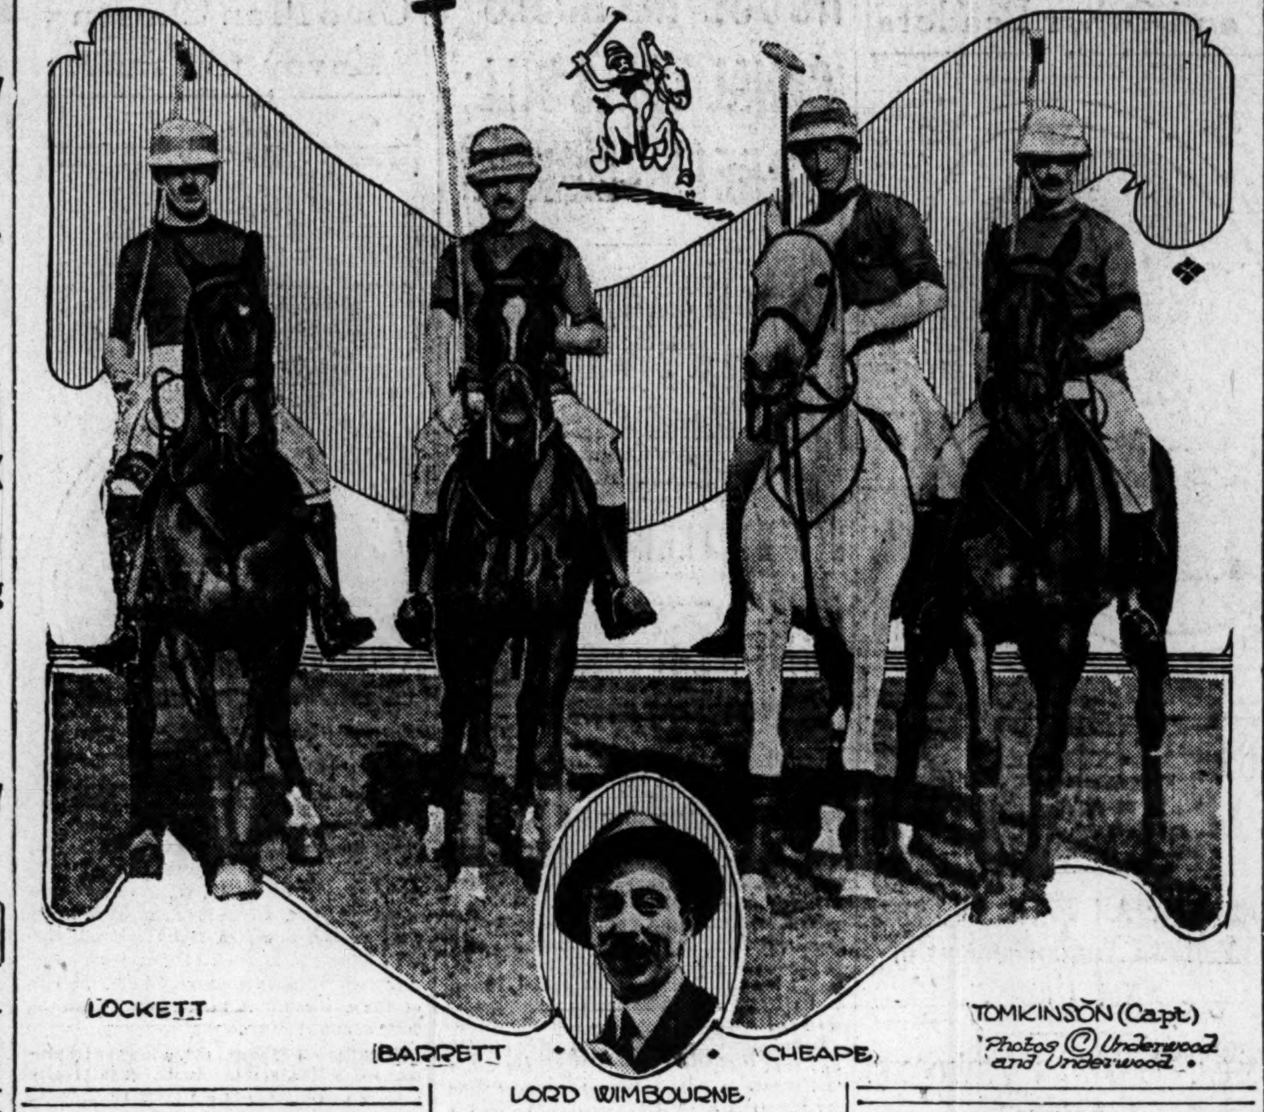

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 12.—[Special.]—Arriving at their new quarters the Badger varsity and freshman eights had their initial workouts on the Hudson today, both crews taking a short row in the forenoon and a longer journey in the evening, covering fifteen miles all told. Both crews showed the ill effects of their long journey and the work was not as smooth as it was on Lake Mendota, but Coach Vail expects the men to settle down before the week end.

The work of the varsity was somewhat handicapped by an injury received by Stroke Bohsted in the morning. Going to the dock he stepped on a broken plank and bruised his right instep badly. He rowed this afternoon, however, in spite of the injury.

Forty Athletes in Short Run.

Forty athletes will compete in the five mile road race to be held by the Danish-American Athletic club tonight. The start will be made from the corner of Central Park and Fullerton avenues at 8 o'clock.

RESOLUTE AGAIN WINS RACE

Defeats Vanitie in Test Event on Actual Time by 2:47.

SAIL OVER 30 MILE COURSE.

Yachts to Be Put in Trim for Real Trial Contests Next Month.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—The Resolute again showed what a sterling good yacht it is by defeating Vanitie over a thirty mile triangular course today off Sandy Hook. It drew away from Vanitie from the start and, what was surprising, lost only 22 seconds on the second leg, which was a broad reach. Vanitie gained 58 seconds on the last leg, but part of that gain was due to its sailing in a better wind than Resolute had.

The actual difference between the two yachts at the finish was 2:47. As the yachts sailed the last leg at the rate of about ten miles an hour this time meant half a mile. Then Resolute, being the smaller yacht, received an allowance of 3:13, and with this figured Resolute defeated Vanitie by 6:00.

Resolute Wins Many Friends.

By its three victories in races sailed outside Sandy Hook Resolute has won many friends. It is a wonder turning to windward, and Charles Francis Adams II., who handles the wheel, knows just how to get the best of its speed. It keeps moving all the time with its sails drawing; it foots fast and points high. In the ten miles to windward it beat Vanitie by 4:06.

As soon as Vanitie had crossed the finishing line it sailed over to Resolute, which had luffed into the wind. As the bronze yacht neared the white hulled victor, Alexander S. Cochran had his men lined up and called for three cheers for Resolute, which were given with a vim. Robert W. Emmons, manager of Resolute, at once mustered his men and cheered Vanitie heartily.

Real Racing Starts July 7.

These races have been preliminary trials. They were arranged, so the cup committee announced, to enable the managers of the yachts to get them into perfect trim before the real racing begins off Newport on July 7. There are ten days of rest to come before the racing will be resumed. Resolute will go to Bristol at once. Defiance was towed to City Island today, and much work will be done on it before the next race is called. Summaries:

Seventh cup class race—Start, Ambrose channel lightship. Weather, clear; wind, south-southwest, fresh at start, moderate at finish. Tide, ebb. Course, thirty miles, triangular. Summary:

CALM WIND HALTS TRIAL RACE.

Old Shamrock Leads the Challenger When Breeze Peters Out After Fifteen Miles.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, June 12.—Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV., accompanied by Shamrock III., started in another race today, but owing to the light and fluky wind the contest was an inconclusive one and was abandoned before the course of fifteen miles had been finished.

After seventy minutes of sailing Shamrock IV. had established a lead of a mile. Then it ran into a calm patch and the older boat, holding the breeze, passed it and rounded the windward mark fourteen minutes in the lead.

Shamrock IV. began picking up Shamrock III. on the home run, and gradually was overhauling it when the breeze petered out and the contest was declared off.

C. A. C. TEAM LEADS BY POINT

Auto Club Puts Up Battle in Motor Run to Peoria.

RESULT HINGES ON RETURN.

Hatch Costs the Trailers 11 Points; Sinsabaugh Hero.

BY REED L. PARKER.

Peoria, Ill., June 12.—With twelve points penalty, the Chicago Automobile club reliability team trails the Chicago Athletic association team by one point on the first day's run for the interclub trophy, which will finish in Grant park, Chicago, tomorrow afternoon.

The lead of the C. A. A. will be cut down to nothing by fractional penalization, as it has only twelve cars in the race against the C. A. C. squadron of fifteen. The result of the match, therefore, hinges on the run home tomorrow.

Hatch Penalized Eleven Points.

Darwin S. Hatch, driving a Paige, cost his team eleven points, magneto trouble netting him this penalty. His was the chief trouble on the trip. Mershback, driving a Packard, was the other C. A. C. driver to place his team in the ruck. He inadvertently stopped his motor.

Fred W. Grower was the chief offender on the C. A. A. team. His Diamond T. needed water, and rather than do the work himself he permitted his chauffeur to assist him. This cost his team ten points, five for needing water and five for permitting his chauffeur to do the work. Capt. Knisely, in another Diamond T., stopped his motor on a grade. This cost his team a point.

Sinsabaugh Real Hero.

C. G. Sinsabaugh, driving a Chalmers, was the hero of the trip from the viewpoint of the C. A. A. team. Tire trouble placed his perfect score in jeopardy after leaving the noon control at Sulphur Lick Springs. He drove seventeen miles on a right rear rim and edged under the wire here on time by seconds.

Mayor Harrison accompanied the tourists, sunburned and dust begrimed. He was the principal speaker at a dinner tendered the tourists by business men at the Hotel Jefferson tonight. He enjoyed his trip, he said, but will leave by train tomorrow for Chicago. Peoria welcomed the party as if it were a presidential junket. Lunch and liquids were served at the Country club on their arrival. This was followed by a dinner.

Crane's Sterling Pitcher Performs Feat Against Hyde Park.

Jahnke, Crane's sterling pitcher, attained the goal of his ambition on the baseball field yesterday when he added his name to the no-hit, no-run list in the Chicago High school league. Incidentally Hyde Park was the sufferer of his wily curves and was given the worst beating any team has received in the final round robin for the title, losing, 17 to 0.

Because of other surprises yesterday and earlier in the week, three teams are tied for the leadership, each having won two games and lost one. Only four Hyde Parkers reached first, two via the error route and two others by means of passes. Jahnke also added to his glory by breezing sixteen. With the exception of two rounds, Crane made scores, compiled off three hurlers, who permitted seventeen hits, three good for the circuit. Score:

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Athletes representing more than 100 high and preparatory schools will strive for honor and glory this afternoon on Stagg field in the thirteenth annual interscholastic track and field games of the University of Chicago, which will be featured by a football game between two Maroon teams.

Director Stagg stated yesterday that 400 athletes would take part in the fifteen events and that if weather conditions were favorable several records would go by the board. Because of the known ability of some of the athletes who will close their prep athletic careers today athletic directors and alumni of other institutions will be on hand to urge point winners to enter the various colleges.

Because of its victories in the Illinois and Michigan interscholastics University High rules favorite for premier honors. The local institution will be represented by performers who are sure to score points in their chosen events, but the unknown ability of some of the entrants may upset the best figured dope on the result.

Heavy Field from Distance.

Never before in the history of the classic have so many entries been received from distant schools. Among those which will be represented are Santa Rosa, Cal., Fort Smith, Ark., Dallas, Tex., Sioux City, Ia., St. George, Utah, and Wichita, Kan.

Four places in each event will count in the point total. Five points will be scored for first, three for second, two for third, and one for fourth. The first event will start at 1:45 o'clock. Dr. George K. Herman will referee.

Careful compilation of the best performances registered this year has sifted the competitors to a comparatively few "sure fire" heroes, any one of whom may be pushed into the background by the "dark horses." The favorites in the sprints, for instance, are Carter of University High, Jarvis of East High, Des Moines, Johnson of Palo Alto, Cal., Kirksey of Waxahatchie, Tex., Walker of Evanston academy, Kline of Rice Lake, Wis., and Butler of Hutchinson, Kas.

Hurdlers deemed likely to shine include Packer of Marshalltown, Ia., Smart of La Grange, Becker of Lane Tech, Cluck of Lake Forest, Hardy of Oak Park, May of Lane Tech, and Loomis of Evanston academy. The distance speeders include Chapman of Santa Rosa, Cal., Garvin of Pittsfield, May of Lane Tech, Tenney of West High, Des Moines, and Kraft of Oak Park.

Runs Set for Two Heats.

The quarter mile and half mile will be run in two divisions. Leaders in the shorter race are Felton of West Division, Milwaukee; Shapeck of Lane Tech, Purmort of West High, Des Moines; Sweet of La Grange, Brown of Lloyla academy, Shiverick and Spink of University High, Walker of Evanston academy, and Kirksey of Waxahatchie, Tex.

Al Millers Win Two Games.

In the Wake of the News.

BY RING W. LARDNER.

AND THEY CALL US RUBES.

O to live in New York town!
What exquisite delight
To pay one's hard earned money down
And see a "champion" "fight"!

A large crowd attended the "battle" between McCoy and Murray. Yet they sent Harry Thaw to Matteawan.

If McCoy isn't careful (but he is), Kid Williams will meet him on the street some night and knock his block off.

Williams' manager says he has enough matches in sight to keep the kid busy all summer. He'll be doing well if he can find enough good bantams to keep the new champ busy one evening.

Heine Zim doesn't win every game with his head. Sometimes he uses his knee.

It is feared that the attendance at today's polo match will be hurt by a counter attraction—the opening of the skat tourney at Milwaukee.

There may be enough good ball players to supply three major leagues, but there doesn't seem to be enough good umpires for one.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Gilmore wins one of these damage suits so he can afford to buy a few rule books.

FED MOTTOES.

"I should hurry."

"If it's speed you want, I'm there like a hearse."

The Badger crews are on the Hudson and all Wisconsin is hoping—hoping they don't drown.

THAT NO-HIT GAME.

We were there and saw it and have since heard many a bug say that Ainsmith's scratch should have been scored as an error for Alcock. B. Johnson is quoted as asserting he would have given Scotty a boot, which convinces us that, as a scorer, he is the best major league president in the world.

Here are two tests that ought to settle the question in the mind of any impartial gent:

1. If the play had come up in the first inning instead of the ninth, how would I have scored it?

2. If Washington had previously made nine hits, how would I have scored the Ainsmith effort?

You'll find that the average big league official scorer is impartial. To be otherwise is very much bush. Personal feeling often enters into minor league scoring, and major league managers, scouts, and club owners allow for this when lamping the record of a prospect. But what's the use of giving Joseph a tainted no-hit game? There's no higher league to which he can go. If there were we would rather he stayed here. The official scorer likes Mr. Benz. Who doesn't? But there is honor even among reporters.

There's no doubt that Benz pitched well enough to deserve what he didn't get. He earned credit for a no-hit game, but luck was, as usual, against him. The o. s. would have been tickled to death to give him what he deserved, but conscience prevented.

If we are going to slip a man an error when, in his anxiety to help a good cause, he tries for a brilliant play and fails to make it, merely diverts the course of the ball with his gloved hand; if we are going to slip him an error on such an attempt because we like another man or because we want a good story to write, why, then, let's score for the Sox a few extra runs every day and make their winning streak long enough to do some good.

MR. LOVETT SINGS.

OUIMET LEADS AMATEURS IN BRITISH GOLF TOURNEY.

American Open Champion Finishes High Up in Preliminary Play at Troon, Scoring 154.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 12.—At last Ouimet has found his putting touch. His accuracy on the greens at Troon, Scotland, today in the open golf championship gained him eleventh place in the qualifying list. He was so sound in every department that it was evident he has run into his best form at the very time when it is most needed. Ouimet's 77 today for a total 154 heads the list of amateurs. It is only four behind that of the two leaders—J. H. Taylor, present champion, and Edward Ray, the champion in 1912. James Braid has 151 and Harry Vardon 152. Harold Weber of Toledo scored 87 today for a total of 171, which was too high to qualify.

To every one's amazement, John J. McDermott, ex-open champion of the United States, turned up today. He failed to answer to his name the first day, and it was presumed he had scratched. The club secretary had to inform him that his absence from the roll call had ruled him out of the competition. He accepted the information philosophically, saying:

"Well, as I've come all this distance, I guess I may as well stay and see some of the play."

McDermott said he had missed the boat at Havre by eight minutes, and this delayed him twenty-four hours.

TROPHY TO LOGAN IN HANDICAP GOLF

Near Novice Surprises Field in Feature Contest at Midlothian.

SECOND TO LLEWELLYN.

Forty-seven Contestants Compete in Opening Match of Two Day Tournament.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Combining a lot of example with a modicum of precept, Howard Logan absorbed enough golf in the course of a year to win the thirty-six hole handicap staged yesterday in connection with the two days' invitation tournament at the Midlothian Country club.

Rounds of 79 and 86 gave him a total of 165, and his allowance of sixteen strokes yielded a net of 149, which was two strokes better than the card of F. J. Llewellyn of the home club. Logan by his surprising display won the Rush C. Butler cup.

Logan in Game a Year.

Logan, who is 25 years of age, has played the game practically for one year. During this period he has played frequently with Donald and Kenneth Edwards and has watched them make the different shots. Also he took some lessons from Professional Hackbarth, the Midlothian instructor.

Yesterday he was pitted against a field of forty-seven contestants, many of whom have pursued the gutta percha pellets for a number of years. In the morning he made the course in 79, the best figures he ever has made, and the only player to pass him was Donald Edwards, one of the best amateurs in the west, who had a score of 76, three strokes over par.

In addition to winning the Butler prize, Logan led the field in the first half of play for the Barbour prize, which will go to the player having best net score for 72 holes during the tournament.

The events started yesterday will be continued today, and a big field is expected out to compete in the two rounds for which special prizes have been donated.

RUSSELL MAULED, SENATORS WINNING FROM SOX, 5 TO 0

"Tex," Picked as Likely to Beat Griffiths, Knocked Off Slab In Fifth.

RAW RECRUIT STOPS LOCALS

Pitcher Ayres Doesn't Allow Cals to Clout Until Washington Has Game Cinched.

RAY SCHALK INJURED BY SPIKES

BY I. E. SANBORN.

By mauling Tex Russell off the slab in the fifth inning, the Senators continued the humiliation of the White Sox yesterday to the extent of 5 to 0, in the third game of their series here, the abasement of the Callahans being all the more abject because a raw recruit, named Ayres, from the mountains of West Virginia, made monkeys of the erstwhile conquerors of Walter Johnson.

Washington's youngster was hammered almost as hard in the long run as his pals punished Russell and Hy Jasper, who came to the Texan's rescue. But the great majority of the White Sox hits were made at the fag end of the game, after Washington had it cinched. Ayres at that time did not exert himself seriously until the Callahans threatened to kick over the whitewash pail, then he stood the locals on their metaphorical heads.

"Dope" on Russell Goes Wrong.

Russell, who officiated on the slab in the only game Chicago was able to corral from Washington during the disastrous eastern trip, was a strong favorite with the Sox pilot for this encounter, but all the dope went wrong. The Texan left his rabbit's foot at home, and although he got by four innings with only one run tabbed against him there were indications beneath the surface that he was not seriously deceiving the visitors. The indications were verified in the middle of the scrap, when five hits, with only a sacrifice to break them, manufactured three tallies and convinced Manager Callahan that it was not Russell's day.

Jasper took up the lost cause with two out in the fifth, and stopped the frisky Griffiths to a standstill until the eighth, when they broke loose again and counted once on Hy with a pair of safeties straddling a sacrifice hit.

Jasper gave way to the strikeout battalion, see pinch hitters, in the home eighth, and let Lathrop finish the job for him with some eclat, but no other reward.

Ray Schalk Injured.

The defeat was not the worst feature of the day, for Ray Schalk was put out of commission in the sad fifth by Dan Moeller of the Senators. The doughty little backstop was spiked above the wrist while making the final putout of the round, after having called the turn effectively on a double steal. Moeller's spikes carved a gash in Schalk's forearm which compelled him to retire for treatment, and it will be some time before even Schalk's phenomenal pluck will get him back into harness.

The Senators won the game in the second inning. Gandil cracked it open with the first safety off Russell and proceeded to steal second and third bases. Shanks struck out, but Morgan sent a hot bounder through Blackburne's fists and the only tally Washington needed was in. Russell survived the next two rounds, but went under in the fifth.

Morgan started that spasm with a resonant blow to right for three bases and scored when McBride nearly tore a hand off Weaver with a single to left center. Henry laid down a bunt and Russell overran it, converting it into a single. Ayres then sacrificed and Moeller clouted a double to left, which Demmitt nearly caught. McBride scored and Henry reached third, from where Foster's single registered him. Milan popped out, and by that time Jasper was sufficiently warmed up to relieve the Texan. Moeller and Foster tried a double steal, which resulted in Dan's demise and the injury of Schalk.

Daly Takes Mask Job.

Daly took the mask job and assisted Jasper to retire the Senators without more runs until the eighth, when a double, a sacrifice, and a single gave them their fifth counter.

While they had a chance to win the White Sox had only one opening. That was in the first inning, when Weaver broke off a single, went to second on Blackburne's sacrifice, and was doubled up trying to make third on Demmitt's liner to Moeller. The Callahans did not get another runner as far as second base until the game was over in the fifth. During the last three rounds Ayres pitched only when he had to, consequently the Sox peeled off two hits an inning, only to have them wasted because the visiting flinger was intangible with runners anywhere near the pan. FOELL HEARS BLANDING CASE.

Arguments Are Presented For and Against Temporary Injunction to Restrain Pitcher.

Arguments for and against a temporary injunction to restrain Fred Blanding, now pitching for the Cleveland American league club, petitioned for by the Kansas City Federal league club were heard before Superior Court Judge Foell yesterday. The arguments primarily concerned the reserve clause of Blanding's contract with the Cleveland club in 1913, as it is contended he agreed to recontract with the club for this season.

The Kansas City club was represented by Silas Strawn and E. E. Gates, counsel for the Federal league, and the Cleveland club by Attorney J. J. Healy. Further argument will be heard before Judge Foell next Friday, when it is expected the court will rule on the case.

SOX SYDELIGHTS.

Washington again today. It probably will be Cicotte or Scott against Shaw.

Jasper struck out the side in the seventh inning but gave a base on balls to his slab rival, Ayres, who previously had whiffed on wild pitches.

Russell has pitched one good game in his last three and will have to get his hook working or Hy Jasper will be grabbing the Texan's turn on the slab.

Ayres had the Sox hitting fly balls most of the day and thirteen of them perished by the sky route, while six more struck out. The Senators made only six assists and one of those was on a double play to third.

Manager Callahan summoned the reserves in the eighth, sending Kavanaugh to bat for Alcock and his newest recruit, Delos Brown, to take Jasper's turn. Ayres struck out both of them. Weaver and Blackburne then singled, but Ayryes himself disposed of Demmitt at first.

Delos Brown, who broke into big league company as Jasper's sub at bat in the eighth inning, is an infielder who lives in Decatur and has won fame in the independent fields of his vicinity. He was picked up by President Comiskey last summer after Billy Sullivan had looked him over, but was kept under cover until he could finish his schooling. Brown reported yesterday.

CHIFEDS LOSE IN OPENER, 4-0

Mixture of Everything Gives Baltimore All Tallies.

FISK PUZZLE AFTER FIRST.

Suggs Permits Only Six Hits and Refuses to Pass Any One.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

F. Otto Knabe and his Baltimore Terrapins took a tighter hold on first place in the Federal league race yesterday by trimming Tinker's north siders in the first combat of the series. The score was 4 to 0 and the Chifeds will have to win the next three in a row to climb to the top while their rivals are in town.

Two unexpected bunts in the first two minutes of play did the trick. Fred Beck and Max Fisk attempted to retire each bunter at first base and made a horrible mess of it. Beck tossed one bunt to the bench and hit Fisk in the back with the other, and then a guy whaled the ball to the score board for a triple. Another of the enemy produced a long sacrifice fly, then somebody walked, another fellow singled, and then there was a double steal. The Terrapins couldn't think of anything else to pull in one inning, so they were retired with four tallies registered.

Fisk Whirlwind After First.

All that took place before one could get comfortably seated for the afternoon's pastime and with the game in a hopeless condition, Big Max Fisk settled down and showed the fans round after round of fancy pitching. He demonstrated just how easy a matter it is to fool the batters, fanning a lot of them and making others pop up little easy fly balls or die on feeble grounders. When a bit of a rally was started by the north siders in the last of the seventh, Fisk gave way to a pinch hitter and Young Dave Black was permitted to gain a bit of slab experience for the remainder of the conflict.

The veteran George Suggs was on the mound for Knabe's gang and he was as steady as a clock. He had plenty of zip on the ball any time there were runners on the path, and he was given stanch support by the infielders behind him. Perhaps if Fisk had been in a confident mood at the start and escaped that fearful first round unharmed, there would have been a corking pitchers' duel until dark.

The Chifeds belted Suggs' curves for six clean blows and if it had been a battle for one run, they might have been able to have squeezed one in, because on two occasions the first man up got on the bases and once the first two got on, but as it was a battle for four runs all the way, no attempt was made to advance the runners with sacrifice hits. Instead, every one had to hit or walk and as Suggs refused to walk any one, it was a case of every fellow trying to hit. A double play killed one of the openings and the other died for want of a hit in the pinch.

Details of Awful First.

A blunder right at the start seemed to take the confidence out of Fisk. Duncan bunted to Beck and Fisk was slow in getting over to cover the bag. Beck finally made a desperate toss to nobody after it was too late to get the runner and Duncan went to second. Myer promptly bunted one to Beck and again Fisk was slow in getting over to the bag, but finally got there in time to get hit in the back with the ball. Farrell was already on the bag and would have made the catch.

Zinn followed with a triple, scoring both runners; then Zinn counted on Swacina's sacrifice fly. Walsh walked, and after Knabe popped up Doolan singled, sending Walsh to third. A double steal was next, then Jacklitsch fanned and the rest of the game was a splendid exhibition of pitching on each side. Score:

NOTES OF THE CHIFEDS.

Tomorrow is "Bravo el Toro" day and 500 of them, or it, will be present with two bands.

Ervin Lange will slab for Chicago today. Wilhelm is the probable hurler for the Terrapins.

This is Knabe day on the north side, and President Weeghman has hired a German band for the occasion.

Capt. Anson was a spectator and afterward had a private talk with President Weeghman. The captain denied the report that he was after Fred Beck's job.

Manager Tinker's new car was in another smashup two days ago, and while it is being patched Joe rides to and fro between Oak Park and the grounds on the "L" like a common person.

Young Dave Black displayed a swell curve ball during the two rounds he was on the slab. He fanned Walsh, Doolan, and Jacklitsch with it, and if he gives about one more good account of himself he'll be sent to the slab to start a game.

The Break of the Game.

WHITE SOX.

Beginning the fifth inning Morgan was on third with nobody out and the score 1 to 0 in Washington's favor. McBride stung a liner which started for Weaver, then curved away so that he could only reach it with one hand. The shotstop merely broke the force of the hit, but if it had traveled straight he would have had an easy double play, and the score still would have been 1 to 0 instead of 4 to 0 at the end of the half.

CHIFEDS.

Failure by Beck and Fisk to retire the first batter in the game when he bunted the ball opened the way for Baltimore to drive in four runs, and one was all that was needed. The next man bunted and was safe on another blunder, and undoubtedly this upset Fisk. A triple, a sacrifice fly, a walk, a single, and a double steal followed the two blunders.

CUBS.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—Larry Doyle kept the Giants from tying the score in the eighth. He started that session with a single and although his team needed three runs to tie he tried to steal second almost immediately. Maybe it wasn't such bad baseball for the Giants wanted to try out Needham's arm. But the two men who followed Doyle scored in that inning. McGraw's dashing style of attack cost him at least a tie.

MARSANS MAY GO TO O'DAYS.

Herzog Makes Hurried Trip to New York to Trade Cuban Outfielder for a Pitcher.

Cincinnati, O., June 12.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cubs today opened negotiations with Armando Marsans, Cuban outfielder of the Reds, who is in St. Louis, in an effort to induce him to play with the Cubs if a deal can be arranged with the Cincinnati club. Manager Herzog made a flying trip from Philadelphia to New York and held a conference with Hank O'Day. The trade that would take Marsans to Chicago would bring a Cub twirler to this city.

EXTRA—HEINE ZIM MARRIED

"He Went and Done It Without Telling Nobody."

OWN BUSINESS, THAT'S ALL.

Cub Player with Grin Says He Wedded in February.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—Heine Zimmerman is married. Heine says he entered the bonds of wedlock some months ago, but at the time he couldn't see any good and sufficient reason for spilling the yarn. A Bronx gal, Helen Chazar, 17 years old, is the party who tempted the famous slugger from the ranks of the carefree bachelors.

Zim displayed considerable sagacity in arranging for his plunge into matrimony. He went to Chicago last winter for no apparent purpose other than to kill time while awaiting the start of the training trip last spring. It was about that time that the then Miss Chazar also decided to take a flying trip to Chicago. Of course Zim knew his fiancée was coming, so he framed his plans for a bold move even before she arrived.

Zim Uses Sly Methods.

A little manipulation on Zim's part managed to secure a license without any one except a few very trusty friends knowing of the matter. When his bride-to-be arrived, Zim merely showed her the license and asked her to step before the parson at once. The new Mrs. Zimmerman was forced to return to New York soon afterward because of illness in her family. Heine did not see her again until the Cubs got into Gotham a week ago.

Zimmerman is planning to buy a home in the Bronx so that his wife may have her folks with her as much as possible while he is baseballing with the Chicago team. The Bronx home will be the permanent winter address of the great Zim in the future.

Has Alibi for Keeping Silent.

Asked why he had kept the story of his marriage secret Zim merely declared that he did not feel obliged to keep the sporting public informed regarding his private affairs. But it was a grinning Zim that offered that alibi, and one gathered the impression that he kept silence largely to avoid what the Britons call the "ragging" every one seems inclined to spring on a newly married couple.

SAM WELLERISMS.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—Cubs and Giants stage their final at the Polo grounds tomorrow. O'Day plans to work Pierce or Zabel.

Red Corriden and Vic Saier have been awarded a season's supply of sox for the homers they made at the Polo grounds during the present series.

When Zim was fired he stopped to confer with Tesreau. After a brief bit of conversation Heine turned and shouted to Rigler, "Tesreau says it was a ball."

Leach's single, which smoothed the pathway to two runs in the sixth, was a little fly which Bescher lost in the sun. No one blamed him, however, for the outfielders were bothered by Old Sol all day.

After the game Bresnahan said he would complain to Secretary Heydler and President Tener regarding his banishment by Umpire Hart. Roger declares he merely shouted "No, no," when the umpire called him out at first. It seemed that Hart was getting back at Bresnahan for some vigorous protesting Roger did on Thursday when Hart was officiating behind the bat.

VERDICT TO CUBS IN WOOZY COMBAT

Giants Defeated in Wild Hurling Fray, Six Pitchers Working.

SCORE AT FINISH, 7 TO 6.

Larry Cheney Called On to Save Game for O'Days; Zim and Bresnahan "Chased."

BY SAM WELLER.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—In a wild and woozy sort of a combat the Cubs licked the Giants today, 7 to 6. Most of the wildness was contributed by the half dozen hurlers who broke into the battle. Five wild pitches were marked up by the official scorer. The umpires did their share by chasing Zimmerman and Bresnahan from the pasture. Woozy about describes the condition of the spectators when the final putout was made.

The minds of most of the fans were wandering to other parts long before the end came. Hank O'Day called on Larry Cheney, his life saver, just in time to avert disaster. Lavender started for the Cubs, but in the midst of a four run attack by the Giants in the third round he stopped a terrific line smash with his pitching hand. The ball dislocated his second finger and tore a deep gash in his hand.

Cheney Called to Rescue.

Bert Humphries relieved Lavender and lasted until the eighth, when another Giant rally threatened to cut down a lead of three runs the Cubs had acquired. With three men on and only one out, Cheney stepped to the slab. Larry wild pitched one run home and another scored on an out. A pass and steal put the tying tally on third and another on second, but Cheney stopped the assault.

Heine Zim brought his bride out to see him perform, but Heine was present for less than three innings. He started auspiciously with a line single. In the third Umpire Rigler called him out on a doubtful looking third strike. Zim protested in his most emphatic manner and Rigler chased him immediately. Bresnahan drew the can for disputing the verdict of Umpire Hart on a closep lay at first in the seventh inning.

Two Out, Then Action.

Two were out when the scoring started. In the Cub opener Saier tapped an easy bounce to first and Merkle waited behind the bag for it. The sphere struck the sack, skidding off to foul territory, and Saier got a hit. Zim singled and a wild pitch moved up the runners to second and third. Schulte's single sent in both. Doyle singled in the second and got to third on two wild pitches in succession. He was caught at the plate on Snodgrass' grounder. Stock walked, then Lavender threw another one away, putting Snodgrass on third and Stock on second. Meyers was passed, filling the bases. Tesreau forced Meyers.

Schulte dropped Bescher's fly in the third and it started the Giants to four runs. Grant singled and Doyle walked, loading the corners. A mighty drive by Merkle nearly tore off Lavender's hand, and scored Bescher with the sacks still crowded. With Humphries pitching, Keating threw out Snodgrass and Grant counted. Stock poled a double on which Doyle and Merkle rode to the pan.

Walks to Bresnahan and Humphries and a single by Leach netted a tally for the Cubs in the fourth. In the next session Saier walked and Phelan and Schulte singled. Frank's swat scored Saier, and Phelan followed Vic across on Sweeney's long lift to Bescher. Leach singled, Good tripled, and Saier pounded out a long fly for two more Chicago markers in the sixth.

Giants Active in Eighth.

After their four run spasm the Giants were quiet until the eighth. Doyle, first up in this frame, got an infield hit. Larry tried out Needham's arm and found it better than he thought, for he was caught at second. Merkle followed by beating a tap to the slab.

Humphries walked Snodgrass and Stock, and Cheney appeared in answer to an S. O. S. from Manager Hank. Larry threw his first one to the stand. It let Merkle score and the other runners moved up a base. Snodgrass counted while Sweeney was retiring Meyers. Murray batted for Fromme and walked. He stole immediately, and a hit meant two runs and victory for the Giants. Cheney braced and got Bescher on a childish roller. The Giants were soft in the ninth. Score:

FAVORS FEDERAL BUSINESS BOARD

Chicago Association of Commerce Wants Trade Body to Control "Trusts."

OPPOSES PENDING BILLS.

Administration of Sherman Law by Changing Attorney Generals Condemned.

The executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday decided to continue to press upon congress its views on the anti-trust legislation. The business men assert the administration idea as expressed in the Clayton bill does not conform with their needs. The association will send a subcommittee to Washington to endeavor to have the Chicago idea included in the proposed measure.

New machinery is urged for the regulation of business, big and little. The department of justice is not the agency to handle the question, according to the views of the Chicagoans.

Oppose Change in Law.

The association believes in these principles set forth in a statement issued yesterday:

"We believe the experience American business has had under the Sherman law has demonstrated that business evils have existed and will continue to exist as to which that law is necessary and should be retained in order to curb and, properly administered, to prevent. Therefore we do not believe, in view of the final construction placed upon the act in the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust cases, that the law should be changed.

"We believe the Sherman law was intended to be and must be construed at all times as a great remedial statute. Experience in all English speaking countries has demonstrated that remedial and curative statutes cannot be administered so as fully and effectively to fulfill the purposes of such laws by that arm of the government which is charged with the duty of enforcing the criminal laws.

Politics Enters Administration.

"The attorney general is alone responsible for carrying out and enforcing the Sherman law. Experience under this act has shown that every new attorney general adopts his individual theory of the proper way to enforce this law. The law places this burden upon him, but the changes in policy and methods of enforcement have led to great uncertainty and unnecessary alarm to the business interests of this country.

"The obligation of the attorney general to enforce the criminal provisions of this law prevents his being able to properly carry out the fundamental and remedial economic theory underlying this act, the proper carrying out of which alone can prevent the inequalities, injustice, and business alarm which has led to the present demand for additional legislation.

New Department Favored.

"It is, therefore, our settled and abiding conclusion that some new machinery must be created which will act independently of the department of justice for the purpose of carrying out to the fullest extent the remedial theory of the Sherman law. This should be done by the creation of a trade commission which should act independently and constructively.

"The determination as to whether acts or agreements are in restraint of trade must depend upon the facts and circumstances of each individual case; and each practice, as applied to each of our varied industries, presents different problems, and the possibility, therefore, of different opinions and conclusions.

"In our opinion, any law attempting to set forth detailed acts which shall be held to constitute a restraint of trade will be found to be impractical.

Expert Board Advocated.

"The criterion should not be as to whether or not competition is in some respects reduced or regulated, but as to whether a particular business practice is fair and reasonable and for the public benefit.

"We therefore advocate the creation of an expert aministrative tribunal, with large powers of investigation, the right to conduct its hearings untrammeled by the strict rules of procedure and evidence necessarily observed by the courts, and with power to determine the existence of those wrong business conditions that are forbidden by the Sherman law, and to order the discontinuance of such conditions to the extent necessary in any given situation. And we further believe that this commission should intervene first in all matters within the application of the Sherman law before the attorney general should be able to bring a bill in equity or an indictment under the Sherman law.

"Lastly, we believe this commission should be a body to which business men can come and submit their plans of future action for approval, and that all acts carried out in good faith under the approval of this commission should be performed without the possible danger of subsequent criminal prosecution.

Oppose Pending Bills.

"While neither the so-called Newlands bill, being senate bill 4160, reported out by the senate committee, nor the so-called Clayton bill, being house bill 15657, recently passed by the house of representatives, reflect satisfactorily the principles adopted by our association, the association determined that it will continue to press its views upon congress.

"The association feels that the pending bills go further in respect to attempting to define practices by particular statement thereof as against the law, than is practicable, and hopes that legislation when passed will leave the existing laws in principle substantially as they are, and will be confined to provisions for the more adequate enforcement and administration thereof."

WAR ON FAKE BANKRUPTS

District Attorney Wilkerson to Investigate Cases.

HAS A SEPARATE BUREAU.

Joseph B. Fleming at the Head; Inquiries to Be Rigid.

District Attorney James H. Wilkerson announced last night that the government would investigate every suspicious bankruptcy case that has been in the federal courts in the last three years.

"We are going to go back as far as the statute of limitations allows," said Mr. Wilkerson. "Concentrated and aggressive action will be made and the coöperation of all reputable lawyers is sought. Agents of the department of justice will investigate every report made before a referee in bankruptcy. Something must be done to purify the bankruptcy situation in the federal courts."

Mr. Wilkerson announced yesterday that he had organized a separate department in his office for the prosecution of persons violating the bankruptcy laws. Assistant District Attorney Joseph B. Fleming, who was recently appointed, is at the head of the department.

Close on the heels of Mr. Wilkerson's announcement came a denunciation of the methods of Porter & Co., a bankrupt store at South State street and Jackson boulevard, from Federal Judge Landis.

Bids were submitted yesterday morning for the sale of the property of the store. An auctioneer guaranteed $4,000. His bid was the highest.

"I believe I was told that this property was worth about $25,000," said Judge Landis. "The appraisers value it at $8,583.16."

The judge then turned to Harry Levinson, attorney for Porter & Co.

"I want you to take notice in this case, Mr. Levinson," Judge Landis said, "that you are representing a bunch of crooks. This case shall be investigated."

ANTI-TRUST LAWS SENATE BUGABOO

Democratic Majority Completely at Sea in Formulation of Legislation.

PLAN TO APPEASE WILSON

Protracted Hot Weather Debate in Prospect Over President's Program.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—The Democratic majority of the senate appears to be completely at sea in the formulation and presentation of anti-trust legislation.

With the decks cleared of the toll exemption issue, the senate today faced the undertaking of enacting the trust regulation legislation promised by all the political parties and specifically demanded by President Wilson. A protracted hot weather debate is the prospect.

About the only principle guiding the Democratic leaders at present is the determination to pass as little anti-trust legislation as will satisfy the president.

May Dodge Stock Regulation.

Unless compelled to act by Mr. Wilson the Democrats will not seek the passage of the bill authorizing the interstate commerce commission to regulate issuance of stocks and bonds by railroads. In like manner the greater part of the Clayton bill supplementing the Sherman law will be discarded unless the White House interferes with this program.

The senate Democrats are already dissatisfied with the trade commission bill which they reported favorably from the interstate commerce committee last week. They have discovered that the hastily drawn measure contains a duplication of provisions for transferring to the new body the authority of the existing bureau of corporations. An amendment to rectify this fault was approved by the committee today.

Strike at "Unfair Competition."

Then in deference to the suggestion from the White House that the Democratic trade commission bill is inadequate the majority of the committee framed an amendment intended to strike at unfair competition.

The provisions of this amendment were appropriated with some changes from a bill drawn by Representative Stevens of New Hampshire, which was rejected by his Democratic colleagues in the house.

The Republicans characterize the amendment as "bunk," contending that nobody knows exactly what is "unfair competition in commerce" and that it would be dangerous to subject the business of the country to interferences emanating from the hazy ideas of a trade commission upon this subject.

FUTURE COMMERCE OUTLOOK DERIVES MORE CERTAINTY.

Local Bank Suspensions Due to Special Causes and Should Have No Adverse Effect.

Dun's weekly review of Chicago trade will say:

"The general outlook in commerce derives more certainty as to the probable course of future operations, conditions affecting the underlying basis continuing entirely favorable for enlarging effort.

"New demands upon the leading industries gain slowly, but the prospects assure augmented outputs in the near future and costs now are less likely to delay commitments of heavy consumers. Current activities appear to be well sustained, the volume of payments through the banks being slightly above that of a year ago.

A gratifying exhibit is noted in the record of trading defaults, these being unusually low in both number and amount. Special causes are attributed to Friday's suspension of local depositaries and should have no adverse effect upon confidence."

RAILWAYS, EXPRESS, MARINE.

Nineteen men have been appointed special conductors to take charge of the Burlington's series of escorted summer tours to Yellowstone park and California. These men headed the list of 150 conductors who took rigid examinations for the positions. The conductors will relieve passengers of all bother in connection with reservations and other details of travel.

Fishermen report the present season to be the best in years, enormous catches being made in all the Wisconsin and Michigan lake country. On June 4 and 5 eight men reported catches aggregating 720 pounds of bass, pike, pickerel, and muskellunge at the lakes near Birchwood, Wis.

"Thet early movement to northern Michigan is larger than for many years," said W. E. Wolfenden, general passenger agent of the Pere Marquette railway, who was in Chicago yesterday. The Pere Marquette's "Resort Special" left Chicago last night with fourteen Pullman cars.

The last of an order for thirty-five passenger locomotives was delivered to the Santa Fé this week. The new locomotives are of the Prairie, Atlantic, and Santa Fé types. An order for 100 all steel passenger cars, including eight diners, were placed by the Santa Fé this week.

The Santa Fé will put into service Oct. 1 a fast through train between Chicago and San Francisco to take care of the extra traffic occasioned by the California fairs. The train will carry all steel equipment and have every convenience.

J. W. Everman, general superintendent of the Texas and Pacific railroad, is to become general superintendent of the St. Louis Southwestern [Cotton Belt], it was learned authoritatively. The date of the change could not be ascertained. His successor has not been selected.

NEW YORK BANKS LOSE $7,500,000

Apparent Loss on All Operations in the Week Is Placed at $7,139,000.

PRAISE FOR NORTHWEST.

E. D. Hulbert of Chicago Calls Minneapolis Reserve Board Highly Efficient.

Known movements of money for the week indicate that the New York banks lost in cash $7,500,000. They received from the interior $16,302,000 and shipped $2,770,000, making an estimated net gain of $13,532,000. On their operations with the subtreasury the banks lost $1,936,000.

Gold exports for the week amounted to $18,735,000, of which $935,000 was in bars and $17,800,000 gold coin. The apparent loss by the banks on all the operations in the week was $7,139,000.

Minneapolis Bank Praised.

E. D. Hulbert, vice president of the Merchants' Loan and Trust company, returned yesterday from Minneapolis, where he addressed a meeting of the Minnesota Bankers' association. His address dealt with features of the federal reserve act.

"I met the men who will have charge of the federal reserve bank of Minneapolis," Mr. Hulbert said, "and believe the Minneapolis bank board and organization will not be exceeded in character or efficiency by any of those of the other reserve banks. The board will represent well all the interests of the district. A great deal of enthusiasm is manifested over the prospects of the bank. I think the institution will give a first rate account of itself."

Await Commerce Decision.

According to the Wall street view, all business circles are awaiting with unusual anxiety the outcome of the interstate commerce commission's decision regarding the proposed advance in railroad rates. In the opinion of business leaders, nothing has been so important to the community for a long time as the outcome of this proposition.

Should the decision be adverse to the roads, the result would be to intensify the existing "psychological depression," according to the views entertained in most lines of business.

Middle West's Year.

The annual report of the Middle West Utilities company for the year ended April 30, 1914, shows the following:

Income	$1,466,760
Expenditures and deductions	467,575
Balance	$ 999,785
Preferred dividends, 6 per cent	566,925
Surplus	$ 432,260

Being equal to 5.12 per cent on the common stock issue.

Linde Air Products.

Linde Air Products preferred sold yesterday at 95½. While there has been considerable trading recently in the common shares, there have been few quotations on the preferred. The common closed at 69 bid. Good inquiry was reported for the shares, with little stock offered.

Financial Conditions in Canada.

Commenting on financial conditions in Canada, a prominent Boston house says:

"One of the many indications of the return of normal financial conditions is seen in the fact that the savings deposits in the chartered banks of Canada increased in the month of April over $7,500,000 and the demand deposits over $4,900,000, making the expansion for the month more than $12,000,000 in this one item. Consequently money appears to be more plentiful and the attractive rates which prevailed during the time of the great money scarcity just over will become less frequent."

Gold Exports.

The Hanover National bank of New York engaged $1,000,000 gold for shipment to Paris today and Bernard Scholle & Co. shipped $1,000,000 gold coin to Paris yesterday.

Dividends Declared.

Directors of the Home Bank and Trust company of Chicago have declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable on June 30 to stockholders of record on June 15.

The Canadian Westinghouse company, limited, declared the usual quarterly dividend of 13.44 per cent, payable July 10 to stock of record June 30. McKinley Darragh Savage mines declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent and extra dividend of 3 per cent, payable July 1 to stock of record June 13. Silver King Consolidated declared the regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents. Books close June 20, payable July 1.

Money and Exchange.

Money in Chicago steady at 4@4½ per cent on commercial paper, 4@4½ per cent on collateral, and 4@5 per cent over the counter. Foreign exchange was quoted as follows:

Sixty day grain	486⅜
London cables	489⅝

LATEST WALL STREET GOSSIP.

NEW YORK, June 12.—[Special.]—After the rate decision, the most popular subject of discussion in the commission houses is the gold export movement. It may be that the feeling is a survival of the "gold scares" of a quarter of a century ago when reserves were jealously guarded and the stability of the currency system was thought to be threatened by almost every outflow of the metal; but the fact is that many observers consider the gold shipments, or at least the causes therefor, as something which has not yet been fully discounted in the stock market.

A week or so ago when Atchison was selling around 95, it was predicted that it would soon cross St. Paul. Today Atchison closed at 99⅝, with St. Paul only ⅞ of a point away. The rising tide in Atchison has been remarkable for its persistence. There has been hardly any trading in the stock at all and no signs of speculative activity. Apparently the advance has been due to a quiet accumulation of all the stock offering around the present level.

For some days Southern Pacific has been one of the strongest of the leading stocks. The spurt this morning, following the passage of the Panama tolls repeal bill, suggested that buying might have been influenced by the placing of the company's ships on an even basis with every one else. The developments in the Mexican situation also might have been a factor. But whatever the real explanation, the most impressive feature is the implication that the great bulk of the new Southern Pacific stock injected into the market last fall has been fully absorbed.

There was increased activity among the stocks of the copper group today and trade advances tended to strengthen prices all along the line. In addition much of the buying for foreign account, which amounted to about 10,000 shares in the aggregate, was confined to the copper stocks, particularly Amalgamated. In the trade it was reported that demand at the new 14 cent rate was better than it had been in some time and the custom house report of copper exports showed that for June, to date, exports have been nearly 4,000 tons greater than for the corresponding period of last year.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, June 12.—Dealers on the stock exchange lacked confidence today and in the absence of support to counteract the liquidation in most sections in connection with the recent settlement, prices sagged generally. The growing tension between Greece and Turkey was an additional unsettling factor and restricted continental business. The markets finished undecided and a shade over the lowest. American securities were quiet and featureless during the early trading. Later a better tone prevailed and prices improved on Wall street buying and closed steady. Money and discount rates were quiet.

NEW YORK STOCKS GAIN MODERATELY

Advance Cut Down, However, When List Eases Off in Closing Hour.

RAIL SHARES IN DEMAND.

Week's Total of Gold for Export Nearly $20,000,000; Street Indifferent.

New York, June 12.—Speculative conditions today favored traders on the long side of the stock market. Operations were on the same restricted scale as heretofore, but in spite of the slackness of demand the market moved upward.

Quiet strength was apparent in almost every quarter. A few shares, such as the Harrimans, Steel, and Canadian Pacific, moved up a point or more. The average change, however, was small, and even the moderate gains at the day's high prices were cut down when the list eased off in the closing hour.

Rail Shares in Demand.

The best inquiry was for the transcontinental railroad shares, on which traders took a bullish position owing to the passage by the senate of the canal tolls repeal bill.

The street was as indifferent as ever to the extraordinarily rapid movement of gold out of the country. The amount engaged today was $2,000,000, bringing up the week's total to nearly $20,000,000.

Exchange rates continued to rise. Demand sterling made another high record since 1907 of 4.89¼. Money rates held firm, with higher quotations for long time loans.

American stocks were dull in London, but foreign representatives took a position on the buying side here. London was credited with taking 10,000 shares.

Mercantile paper, 3¾@4 per cent. Sterling strong; sixty days, 486.50; demand, 489. Commercial bills, 486@486¼. Bar silver, 57¼c. Mexican dollars, 44c. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds steady. Call money easier, 1¾@2 per cent; ruling rate, 1⅞ percent; closing, 1¾@2 per cent. Time loans stronger; sixty days, 2¾ per cent; ninety days, 2½ per cent; six months, 3¼ per cent.

Activity in Bond Market.

In the bond market there was unusual activity in several issues which commonly do not figure extensively in the dealings, such as Lake Shore debentures and St. Louis and San Francisco refunding 4s. Prices in the main were well sustained. Total sales, par value, $2,597,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Minneapolis & St. Louis Notes.

P. N. R., Prairie du Chien, Wis.—The Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad company two year 6 per cent gold notes are a direct obligation and are secured by deposit with trustee of $5,500,000 par value Minneapolis and St. Louis refunding and extension 5 per cent mortgage bonds due 1962, of which $10,318,000 have been issued.

The company has agreed not to issue any new mortgage or other series of notes, other than notes issued to refund this present issue, until these notes are paid in full. For the year ended June 31, 1913, the company earned $451,894 above fixed charges, or at the rate of 7.64 on preferred stock and 1.02 on common.

The record for the ten months of the present fiscal year, ended April 30, 1913, shows operating income of $2,007,395, as compared with $2,261,414 for the corresponding period a year previous. No dividends have been paid on the shares since Jan. 15, 1910, when 2½ per cent was distributed to holders of the preferred issue. The interest on these notes has been paid, and on Feb. 1 last the principal was reduced $500,000. The other questions you ask refer to matters of a purely speculative character and this department could not advise you concerning them.

Mortgage 60 Per Cent of Security.

H. L. S., Chicago.—The apartment building bond issue you mention amounts to 60 per cent of the stated value of land and building. The bonds would be a more conservative investment if the loan were only half the value of the property.

Stock Selling Plan.

E. J. B., Chicago—There have been a number of similar promotion concerns, none of which, so far as we can learn, has been successful in this line of work. You are likely to find that they will not obligate themselves at all specifically to sell your stock, but only to make an effort to do so, which may or may not be successful. Concerns of this kind have been known to make similar pretentions, whose sole object was to obtain the initial fee.

United Agency Company.

W. E. F., Prophetstown, Ill.—The United Agency company of Chicago is a $3,000,000 corporation. About one year ago it succeeded the business of the United Mercantile agency, which became insolvent one and a half years ago. The business of the concern is that of furnishing commercial ratings along the lines of Dun and Bradstreet's. The 7 per cent preferred participating stock of the company, par value $10 a share, is now being offered by the company at $16 a share. The success of an enterprise of this nature is problematical and its stock cannot be classified as a conservative investment.

Westinghouse Air Brake.

R. J. F., Monmouth, Ill.—Earnings of the Westinghouse Air Brake company for the fiscal year ended July 31, 1913, were $6,064,778, as compared with $3,889,073 for the corresponding period a year previous. Dividend requirements amounted to $2,985,922, leaving a surplus of $2,269,338.

Wieland Dairy Company.

N. T., Chicago—The Wieland Dairy company is an Illinois corporation with a capital of $500,000, par value $100. Three hundred thousand dollars of this was issued at the time of organization, April 25, 1913, in payment of all the assets, including the "good will" of the company. This is a very private corporation. A prospective investor should be guided by his knowledge of this business or of those conducting it.

Bad Time to Invest in Mexico.

P. and J., Chicago—The present is a most inopportune time for investing money in any enterprise in Mexico.

Private Banks.

A. C., Chicago.—We advise against depositing savings in a private bank.

BUSINESS, COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL SECTION

FURTHER LOSSES SCORED IN GRAIN

Liquidation by Longs Is Big Factor; Wheat Pressure Heavy in Last Hour.

RAINS FALL IN THE WEST.

Liverpool Corn Cables Weak; Armour Big Buyer of Oats; Products Are Steady.

The wheat market developed a decidedly weak tone again late in the session yesterday. At the outset the market met with fair support. This was due to the rains in the southwest and the relatively firm Liverpool cables. As a result shorts covered suite freely, but there did not appear to be much new buying demand, and after local shorts covered early the market appeared to sink of its own weight. Final prices were ⅜@½c lower. From the top prices of the day there were declines of about 1c.

Armour, Lamson, Tietgens, Shearson-Hammill, and J. Rosenbaum were buyers on the break. Barrett bought December and sold September. Thomson-McKinnon were heavy sellers, and Logan-Bryan, Quinn, and local traders generally sold early. In the last few minutes shorts covered again, giving the market a little rally. Outside trade was moderate.

Southwest Sales Heavy.

Hedging pressure here was not quite so heavy as a day or so ago, but Kansas City reported free selling by elevators against country purchases. Rains were quite general through southern Nebraska and scattered in Kansas. Missouri had quite a little rain. There was some apprehension in regard to there being too much rain, but most reports were to the effect the showers would do much more good than harm. In the west half of the southern tier of Nebraska counties the rains were said to have insured a bumper crop.

A few murmurings of complaint were heard from the northwest in regard to the continued rains, but the general outlook in that quarter is excellent. Foreign crop conditions were favorable and seeding is on in full swing in Argentina. Russian conditions are more favorable as a rule.

Export Sales Are Liberal.

Cash sales, including new wheat sold for export, aggregated 200,000 bu. Mills were good buyers of old wheat, paying good prices for the grain. Toledo reported the sale of 92,000 bu No. 2 red wheat to mills in New York, Michigan, Kentucky, and Ohio, and the stock of No. 2 red there is now sold out. Cash houses are looking for strong prices for old wheat until the new crop wheat begins to arrive in quantity.

Receipts here were 23 cars, and the inspection yesterday showed 34 cars. Receipts in the west were 477,000 bu, or nearly 200,000 bu less than a year ago. Northwest receipts were 140 cars, 160 cars less than last year, and Winnipeg had the same number as last year, 214 cars. Clearances for the day were 565,000 bu and for the week were 5,500,000 bu, against 5,032,000 bu a year ago. Plate shipments were 1,712,000 bu; Australian, 968,000 bu, and Indian, 1,264,000 bu. Total world's shipments were estimated at 14,600,000 bu, or a little larger than a year ago. Russian and Danubian shipments were estimated at 5,250,000 bu.

Liverpool was unchanged to ⅛d off; Paris, ¼@½c off; Antwerp, ⅝c down; Berlin, ¼c off, and Budapest, 2c lower. Minneapolis stocks decreased 900,000 bu for the week and Duluth decreased 377,000 bu.

Corn Has Further Break.

Corn was fairly active, prices declining early on the reported rains in the dry sections. Later there was a sharp rally, but the pressure put on the wheat market, with a subsequent drop, unsettled prices, and the close was at net declines for the day of ⅜@¼c. Commission houses, led by Logan-Bryan and Bartlett-Frazier, were good buyers early. Later Keusch-Schwartz and local bulls were good buyers. Shearson-Hammill, Eagner, Patten, McLaughlin, and Allen were good sellers.

The cash demand was moderate, but sales were 145,000 bu. Offerings from the country were small. Cables were ¼@⅜d lower, due to the offerings of Plate corn at lower prices and the weakness on this side the previous day. Crop reports from Argentina were more favorable, but port arrivals show a poor quality. New York advices said there would be no Plate corn available at the seaboard in quantity before Aug. 1.

Argentine shipments for the week were smaller than expected at 2,704,000 bu. Charters were made for 100,000 bu corn to go to Georgian bay.

Receipts here were 202 cars, with 224 cars inspected yesterday. Primary points received a total of 825,000 bu corn, compared to 963,000 bu a year ago. Outside cash markets generally were a little lower. Cash prices were ½@1c off.

Buying Support Good in Oats.

In oats there was a good trade, the feature being the continued heavy buying by Armour of both July and September. Bartlett-Frazier and Reusch-Schwartz were also on the buying side. Commission houses and local traders were selling early. Prices at the close were ⅛@⅜c to ⅜c lower. Rains were reported in the sections where most needed, but after the first rush to sell the market showed a fairly strong tone relative to other grains. Offerings from the country continue light. The acreage in western Canada is estimated at 10 per cent more than a year ago. Receipts here were 145 cars, with 160 cars the estimate for today. Primary arrivals were 629,000 bu. Cash prices were steady and sales were 170,000 bu.

Prices for products were not much changed at the close yesterday, and trade was only moderately active throughout the day. Hately was a fair buyer early and prices advanced a little on reports of higher prices for hogs at the yards. Later there was increased pressure and the market declined a little. Receipts here were 17,000, with 11,000 the estimate for today. Western receipts were 66,500, against 76,300 a year ago. Liverpool prices were unchanged except for hams, which were 6d higher. Receipts of products here were 72 cars, and shipments were 100 cars.

Steady Prices for Rye.

Rye was steady with a sale of No. 2 cash at 65c; No. 3 was 63@64c nominal and No. 4 quoted at 59@62c. Receipts were 1 car.

Barley was neglected with choice grades steady and common stuff easy. Malting sold from 64@62c. Feed ranged from 49@53c and screenings from 35@52c. Receipts were 26 cars.

Timothyseed ruled firm with September offered at $6.00; October was $5.50 bid and $5.90 asked; country lots nominally, $4.00@5.25; cloverseed dull with cash lots $8.00@12.50 nominal.

Duluth flax declined ¼@⅜c with cash on track, $1.60¾@1.61⅜; July, $1.61⅜; September, $1.63¼, and October, $1.62¼. Receipts, 5 cars. Minneapolis ruled ⅝c lower with cash on track, $1.58⅞@1.60⅞. Receipts, 7 cars. Winnipeg closed ⅝@½c lower. July was $1.41; October, $1.44⅜, and November, $1.43½. Receipts, 55 cars.

BOARD OF TRADE GOSSIP.

Demand for wheat was not so active yesterday as the previous day, but there were good sales on the break. It was estimated that sales of new wheat from here for export were about 250,000 bu, and there was understood to have been liberal sales from the southwest for export via the gulf. Reports from Europe indicate there will be a good demand for wheat for some time. Prices for old wheat at Chicago, Kansas City, and St. Louis were relatively high. At Toledo the stock of red wheat has been all sold out to mills. King of Toledo wired late yesterday: "We sold local and outside millers in New York, Michigan, Kentucky, and Ohio 92,000 bu No. 2 red today. All stock here now sold to millers." The seaboard reported fair sales of Canadian wheat for export. Local sales, including the export sales, were about 300,000 bu.

"I think the wheat market is in a position to rally very easily," said Rycroft of Bartlett-Frazier. "The change in the weather right at harvest time might cause a stampede among local shorts. There is undoubtedly a heavy short interest in the market, and as far as we can find out farmers are not selling very freely. They prefer to wait until the crop is harvested, especially around present level of values. Cash demand is excellent and a large business is being done daily for export."

Fowler, the secretary of the Canadian Northwest Grain Dealers' association, estimates the acreage of wheat this year at 10,952,000 acres, an increase of 4 per cent; oats, 6,017,000 acres, a gain of 10 per cent; and barley, 1,225,000 acres a gain of 10 per cent. The flax acreage is placed at 918,000 acres, a decrease of 15 per cent. Crops are all in fine condition.

The weekly Argentine cable to the New York produce exchange said: "Wheat seeding making rapid progress with favorable weather. Acreage will be under last year. Corn—Weather fine, receipts are increasing, but quality low. Distant offers larger and cheaper. Oats—Seeding has commenced under favorable conditions."

Duluth wheat stocks decreased 357,000 bu for five days.

CENTRAL HOLDING LEASED BY GREVE

Manager of Lehmann Estate Gets Property at 308-18 West Jackson.

LOOP DEAL IS CLOSED.

Bensinger Gets Space at Madison and Clark for Billiard Rooms.

Charles Greve, for many years manager of the Lehmann estate, has leased from the Northern Trust company, trustee of the estate of William S. Johnston, and from William J. Fabian, treasurer of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, and his sisters, the ground at 308-318 West Jackson boulevard for ninety-nine years, from July 1, 1913. The property, which is 75 feet west of Franklin street, fronts 75 feet with a depth of 82½ feet, south front, and is improved with an eight story and basement building, which Mr. Greve purchased.

From Mr. Fabian and his sister, Emily B. Fall of Boston, Mass., and from Cornelia F. Worthington of Santa Barbara, Cal., Mr. Greve leased the ground at 308-10, being 25 feet front, at an annual rent of $2,600 for the first twenty-five years and $4,000 for the last seventy-four years of the term. From the Johnston estate he leased the ground at 312-318, being 50 feet front, at an annual rent of $5,200 for the first twenty-five years, and $8,000 for the remainder of the term.

Leasing Value $195,000.

For the first twenty-five years his annual rent is $7,800, which, capitalized on a 4 per cent basis, gives a leasing value of $195,000, which is at the rate of $2,600 a front foot and $31.32 a square foot. For the last seventy-four years of the term he pays an annual rent of $12,000, which, capitalized on a 4 per cent basis, gives a leasing value of $300,000, which is at the rate of $4,000 a front foot and $48.19 a square foot. The board of review valued the Johnston estate property at $110,000, the building figuring at $25,000, while the other holding was valued at $59,875, of which the building constituted $10,000.

The property was acquired by Mr. Greve, who is a large owner of valuable Chicago property, as an investment. He was represented in the transaction by Newton B. Lauren, while Frank S. Pagin & Co. represented the lessors.

Loop Space Leased.

In a lease of building space in the loop district by E. F. Keebler & Co., Louis A. Bensinger, billiard and bowling hall proprietor, has leased the third and fourth floors of the building at the northeast corner of Madison and Clark streets, and the L-shaped building adjoining. The space was leased from King Yee, president of a Chinese syndicate known as the Golden Pheasant company, and the lease, which runs for eleven years, provides for a total reported rent of $140,000. Each floor will have a frontage of 70 feet on Clark street and 140 feet on Madison street, with an exclusive 8 foot elevator entrance.

The space will be occupied for bowling alleys and billiard and pool hall, and it will give Mr. Bensinger three places besides the loop. He will expend about $50,000 in improvements and furnishings after plans by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company. Emory D. Frazer and Ronald D. White represented the lessors in a legal way.

Deal in Wilson Avenue.

A deal has been closed in the Wilson avenue district in the purchase by a syndicate headed by William Waller from Alexander W. Hannah of the property at the southwest corner of Wilson avenue and Kenmore avenue. The property, which is in the center of the Wilson avenue business district, fronts 50 feet, with a depth of 125 feet, and is improved with a three story brick building containing a theater, stores, and six offices. The consideration is withheld, but it is said Mr. Hannah has held the property at $160,000. It was sold subject to an incumbrance of $66,500.

Mr. Waller gave in part payment the vacant 49.85 feet at 2249-53 Michigan avenue, subject to an incumbrance of $25,000. The consideration is not given, but it is said Mr. Waller has been asking about $75,000 for the property. The sale was negotiated by White & Tabor, who represented Mr. Waller and the syndicate, and Lee J. Lesser & Co., who represented Mr. Hannah. John G. Campbell represented Mr. Hannah in a legal way, while Robert C. Wheeler represented Mr. Waller and Franklin E. Vaughan represented the syndicate.

Old Bedford Building Sold.

Frederick H. Bartlett & Co. report the sale of several pieces of property, among which is the Bedford building on Oakwood boulevard at Cottage Grove avenue, which was partly destroyed by fire several months ago. It has been sold to Benjamin Carlson, a contractor, at a reported consideration of $60,000. Mr. Carlson is said to have expended about $30,000 in repairing the building and has converted it into a modern twenty-eight flat building.

Bartlett & Co. also have sold to William L. Lawson and wife the property at the southwest corner of Union avenue and Sixtieth place, improved with two stone front six flat buildings at a reported consideration of $30,000, subject to $18,000 incumbrance.

They also have sold to Richard Goldsmith the sixteen flat building at 1514-16 East Sixty-second street, near Jackson Park avenue, for a reported $26,000, subject to $17,000.

They also have closed the purchase from the estate of Leopold Mayer of the Zenda building, northwest corner of Forty-fourth street and Vincennes avenue, 67½@181 feet, a three story building with twenty-one apartments, having a gross annual rent of about $9,500.

Minor Deals of the Day.

John A. Miller has purchased from John Jursich the property at the northwest corner of West Lawrence and Lawndale avenues, 33x125 feet, with brick improvements, the consideration in the deed being nominal, subject to an incumbrance of $12,640.

The property in North Clark street 180 feet north of Division street, 71x149 feet, west front, has been sold by Barbour Lathrop to Nelson L. Hoyt, a consideration of $10 appearing in the transfer.

Barron Baskin has sold to Rubin Weiner and Samuel Roth the east front in the block on Fifty-first court between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, comprising 18 lots, which the purchaser plans to improve with two flat buildings.

The 18 flat building with 110x150 feet of ground at the northwest corner of Sheridan road and Lawrence avenue has been conveyed by Albert E. Ziehme to Frank H. Main, a consideration of $1 being given.

BETTER GRADES OF BUTTER UP

Receipts of 12,107 Tubs Include Few of Fine Makes.

LIVE POULTRY RULES STRONG

Market for Old Potatoes Improves, but Values Remain Unchanged.

Advances of ¼@½c were made in prices for the better grades of butter at Chicago yesterday, while the common stuff was barely steady. Receipts of 12,107 tubs included comparatively few of the fine makes, and the great bulk of the demand was for this description. The recent spell of hot weather has increased the percentage of undergrades by a large margin.

Conditions surrounding the egg market were without change. While the trade is confined chiefly to the best stock and this kind is relatively firmer than the others, prices for all descriptions show no change. Receipts were 13,230 cases and the week so far shows a much smaller total than the preceding one.

Active demand and moderate offerings combined to make a strong live poultry market and prices for fowls were advanced ½c. Receipts were only 1 car and 765 coops.

With more favorable weather conditions and lighter receipts the market for old potatoes exhibited an improved tone, though values were unchanged. Demand was more active. Receipts were 10 cars. New potatoes were also in better request, but ruled easy. Green vegetables were generally steady.

Improvement was noted in the strawberry trade and prices for the choice goods were boosted a little. Arrivals were moderate, consisting largely of Michigans, and offerings were readily absorbed.

JONES MAY HEAD RESERVE BOARD

Chicagoan Said to Have Accepted Post Offered by President.

G.O.P. TO OPPOSE MEMBERS

Senate Republicans Will Charge Body Is Dominated by Wall Street.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—Thomas B. Jones of Chicago will not only be a member but the governor of the federal reserve board, if he accepts the invitation which has been extended to him by President Wilson. From one unofficial source came the information tonight that his acceptance already has been received at the White House.

President Wilson expects to send the nominations of members of the board to the senate next Monday. In addition to Mr. Jones the members selected by the president are:

Paul M. Warburg, member of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York.

W. P. G. Harding, bank president, Birmingham, Ala.

A. C. Miller, assistant to the secretary of the interior.

E. C. Simmons, president of the Simmons Hardware company, St. Louis.

Wilson and McAdoo Differ.

It appears that the selection of Mr. Jones represents the outcome of a spirited family contest between the president and his new son-in-law, Secretary McAdoo. When Richard Olney, former secretary of state, declined appointment to the governorship of the board, Mr. McAdoo urged the selection of Charles S. Hamlin, assistant secretary of the treasury, for the representative of New England. But when Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago declined a position on the board the president decided to give the place to Mr. Jones.

Mr. Jones was a classmate of the president and a member of the board of trustees of Princeton university. He contributed a large sum, reported to have been $30,000, to the fund expended in Mr. Wilson's campaign for the Democratic nomination for president.

Nominations to Be Fought.

When the nominations are sent to the senate confirmation of the appointments will be fought by the Republicans. The general charge will be made that the board as formed by the president is dominated by Wall street influences. Mr. Warburg, as a member of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., will be held up as the representative of the money trust. It is evident also that there will be an attempt to connect Mr. Jones with the Wall street crowd.

Iowans Pick Board Candidate.

Des Moines, Ia., June 12.—E. L. Johnson of Waterloo was declared to be the Iowa candidate for director of the Chicago federal reserve bank in group 3, class A, by a board of canvassers composed of officials of state banks here today. The referendum vote of the national bankers of Iowa was in accordance with a resolution adopted at the meeting of the Iowa Bankers' association at Clinton last week.

UNITED CIGAR PRESIDENT HEADS BIG BRITISH VENTURE

With J. W. Surburg, Also an American, and Several Englishmen, He Will Take Over Tobacco Stores.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 12.—George J. Whelan, president of the United Cigar company, has finished his yachting trip and will sail for New York on June 18.

A formal announcement may be expected in a few days of the completion of a deal whereby a group headed by Mr. Whelan and J. W. Surburg will take over the Baker tobacco stores, which divide the London retail field with Salmon Glickstein, whose backer is the Imperial Tobacco company.

The negotiations, which are now about culminating, have been going on for two years. Tremendous difficulties were experienced in bringing matters to a climax owing to the unwillingness of certain small firms of manufacturers to join the combination.

Mr. Whelan and Mr. Surburg are the only Americans connected with the venture. All the rest are Englishmen, among them being Herbert Guedell, chairman of the Imperial Foreign corporation; Austen Chamberlain, M. P., son of Joseph Chamberlain; Lord Balfour of Burleigh, and others of equal note.

The capital of the new venture has been tentatively fixed at £5,000,000 ($25,000,000), but this amount may be increased later if it becomes necessary.

HOGS UP TO WEEK'S HIGHEST FIGURE

Another 10 Cent Advance Puts Bulk of Sales Up to $8.10 and $8.25.

SHEEP AND LAMBS WEAK.

Cattle Receipts Light and Prices Hold to a Steady to Strong Basis.

Further advances of 5@10c were made in hog prices at Chicago yesterday, and values went to the highest level of the week. Receipts were estimated at 15,000, with 2,300 direct to packers, and 4,911 left over from Thursday, but speculators were active buyers early and liberal portions went to packers later, particularly the smaller concerns. The quality was fairly good, but more prime butcher's would have been desirable. One load of prime 183 lb offerings sold at $8.30, while $8.25 was a common price for choice stock. The average price for the day was $8.19, against $8.25 a week ago.

Little change was noted in prices for sheep and lambs, though some sales looked weak. The bulk of the business was about like the close of Thursday, but weighty ewes and bucks were weaker in instances. Values stood at the lowest point of the week on all classes, with the possible exception of wethers. Receipts were estimated at 15,000 head, against 6,553 a week ago and 15,090 a year ago. Trading was draggy.

Cattle receipts were only about 1,500 head, and prices held to a steady to strong basis. No choice native steers were offered. Distillery cattle were strong and sold within 15c of the year's high point, bringing $8.85. Demand for butcher stock was slow and the market uneven. Calves were about steady, while stockers and feeders were easier.

MILEAGE, SPURNED IN HOUSE, REINSTATED BY THE SENATE.

Put Back in Appropriation Bill Without Roll Call—Mann and Donovan Clash in Lower Body.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—The senate this afternoon reinstated the congressional mileage provision in the legislative appropriation bill without a roll call.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa spoke in opposition and demanded a yea and nay vote on the provision, which was stricken out by the house and reinserted by the senate committee, but only Senators Shepard of Texas and Lane of Oregon joined in the request and it was refused.

The house spent the most of the afternoon wrangling over the sundry civil bill. The lie was hurled back and forth several times by Minority Leader Mann and Congressman Jeremiah Donovan of Connecticut.

Mr. Donovan charged that at one time during the proceedings on Wednesday there wasn't a single Progressive or Republican on the floor. He particularly referred to the absence of the "artful and astute" minority leader, Mr. Mann, and the "shingle shaver," Mr. Humphrey of Washington. He also grilled several Democratic leaders, among them Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee.

Mr. Mann declared his remarks willful falsehoods.

Mr. Donovan jumped on his feet and asked him to yield.

"I refuse to yield," shouted Mr. Mann.

"You're wise to refuse," flung back Mr. Donovan.

Congressman Tavenner of Illinois attempted to get an amendment to the sundry civil bill appropriating $225,000 for the manufacture of field artillery at the Rock Island arsenal. Mr. Tavenner denounced the ammunition trust. The Iowa and Illinois delegations and others supported him.
